MAX SCHMELING HALTED BY BAER IN TENTH ROUND

German, Far Outclassed, Is Technically Knocked Out Before 70,000.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

Yankee Stadium, New York, N. Y., June 8.—Max Schmeling was not loaded for Baer tonight, but Max Baer was loaded for Schmeling.

With the ringside experts slumping in their seats as their predictions boomeranged full in their faces and with 70,000 seated tier on tier in the vast Yankee Stadium, the 3-to-1 shot, son of the California cattle dealer, blasted the son of a Fatherland fisherman into a stunning technical knockout defeat in the tenth round of a wild fistic rodeo that was scheduled to go 15.

Right to His Chin.

One of the wildest right-hand swings that ever coursed through the tepid atmosphere of a big league prize ring found its mark on the classic chin of the German Schmeling a minute after the gong clanged the tenth and the fight was Baer's as the big Californian laid back to watch its effects on the dazed German.

Felled by Blow.

The punch deposited Schmeling on his hauches in the direction of short stop in the ring pitched over the infield and the German was on the floor for the first time since he began to mix in major league fight company. Down he went as if poleaxed and down he stayed, groveling and sniffling in the resin of the canvas while Referee Arthur Donovan dolefully intoned a count of nine to the downward sweep of his right arm.

The grinning Baer, wearing the star of David embroidered on his tights to win the anti-Hitler population of New York City, nodded to the folks in his corner as Schmeling began to stir an arm and a leg, and as the German arose to a crouch Baer leaped in to the kill from a neutral corner.

Flurry of Rights, Lefts.

Baer was now the fighting fool that Californians had sunk the ship on. He smacked the quivering Schmeling with a flurry of rights and lefts to the chin. He roughed him out of a neutral corner into Baer's own corner while the German tried to cover up and dog it. But Baer was the barroom fighter now.

He pummeled the groggy Schmeling from the front and back, chasing him into a far corner against the ropes, turning him around with a mighty wrestle and the German was a pitiful spectacle, too weary to raise his arms in defense.

One minute and 51 seconds after the tenth round had started Referee

Silent Street Car Startles Brooklyn

New York, June 8 (U.P.).—Citizens of a certain section of Brooklyn beheld a strange sight today—a street car that sped along making less noise than an electric egg-beater.

Rolling on rubberized tires, and with rubber "sandwiches" worked into its springs, the car was demonstrated after two years of research, in which $500,000 was expended in an effort to produce a more comfortable and more efficient means of transportation for the Nation's straphangers.

The car was given its first formal test today before a group of newspaper and magazine writers, all of whom were permitted to ride in it. They were impressed not only by the complete quietness of the car in operation, but by the development of speed control which eliminates sudden and jolting stops and starts.

35 Lives in Danger as U. S. Steamer Races Toward Port With Flames Raging in Her Hold; Large Cotton Cargo.

Boston, June 8 (U.P.).—The American steamer Atlapa, owned by the Waterman Steamship Corporation of Mobile, Ala., raced at top speed toward Boston late today with a fire raging in one of her holds and 35 men fighting desperately to halt the spread of flames which threatened destruction of the ship and possible death to members of the crew.

Hatches were battened down tight and steam was forced in by the crew in an attempt to confine the fire between decks. Failure of the officers to call Coast Guard help indicated to shipping men that the captain believes he can reach port before disaster.

Radio messages from the ship to Boston agents gave its position as 480 miles east of Boston Light. It was not believed it could reach port before early Saturday morning.

Two fireboats were ordered to meet the vessel in the lower harbor, where they will relieve the exhausted crew.

The steamer, built in 1920 for the U. S. Shipping Board, is of 8,314 gross tons, and sailed from Mobile May 31 for Bremen, Germany. It carried about 55,000 bales of cotton, of which about 8,000 are in hold No. 4, where the fire is worst.

ONE DEAD HERE; U. S. HEAT TOLL MOUNTS TO 67

Man Collapses at Work and Dies as Mercury Climbs to 96.

Stifling heat yesterday took one life and prostrated two persons as the mercury soared to a new record for the year, 96 degrees, with the humidity keeping pace. Some slight relief is seen in the Weather Bureau's promise of thundershowers today.

The death was that of John Durnum, employed as a gardener by Carl D. Ritter, of Chevy Chase, Md. He collapsed while at work and was dead when the Bethesda Rescue Squad arrived. Death was attributed to apoplexy induced by the heat.

Little Relief at Night.

Even nightfall brought no great measure of relief to the city yesterday. The few degrees' fall in temperature was accompanied by a further rise in humidity which sent residents to parks and the countryside in an effort to escape.

The heat prostrations of yesterday were Edward B. Smith, 30, 234 Tenth street southeast, a fireman of No. 1 Truck Company, and Sylvester Taylor, 24, colored, a workman on the Archives Building, Seventh street and Constitution avenue.

67 Death Toll in U. S.

Kansas City, June 8 (A.P.).—The harassed area between the Rockies and the Atlantic simmered again today in stifling heat which has taken 67 lives this week.

A score or more have died in the region of the Great Lakes, but the century-mark temperatures of the Central West were topped today in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, where many steel mill workers were prostrated.

Heat-wave deaths, either from prostration, drowning or violent storms: Illinois, 12; Wisconsin, 16; Indiana, 7; Ohio, 8; Michigan, 6; Pennsylvania, 5; western New York and Ontario, 5; Missouri, 4; West Virginia, 2.

12 Dead in Chicago.

In Chicago, were 12 deaths from prostration were reported, it was estimated 200,000 persons sought relief on lake beaches. The temperature climed to 97 today. It reached 100 yesterday, establishing a record for June.

The mercury leaped to 101 at Sharon, Pa., 100 at Wheeling, 97 at Charleston, W. Va., 93 at Pittsburgh

Acquittal Ordered In Smuggling Case

Opelousas, La., June 8 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Ben C. Dawkins directed a jury in district court today to acquit Dan Hogan and Sidney Schaubhut, two of four defendants on trial for conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States from the Canadian schooner I'm Alone.

Judge Dawkins directed the two acquittals after the case had been submitted to a jury without argument and without defense testimony. In so doing he upheld a defense contention made at the start of the trial that Hogan and Schaubhut were being placed in "double jeopardy" in view of previous liquor conspiracy convictions in the Western District of Louisiana.

Governor of Oklahoma To Call Beer Election

Oklahoma City, June 8 (A.P.).—Gov. W. H. Murray in a special message to the Oklahoma Legislature announced today he would call a special election July 11 on a bill to legalize sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

"Considering the public weal and serving the wisest policy I am sure the question should be voted upon at an election in which no candidates are running or any other question is up for consideration," the governor said.

J. ENOS RAY.

ENOS RAY IS NAMED REVENUE COLLECTOR

Walter Newton Nominated as Board Member of Home Loan Bank.

Rushing at the last minute to plug gaps in the patronage list, President Roosevelt yesterday sent to the Senate a long list of nominations including Walter H. Newton, formerly secretary to President Hoover, as a member of the Home Loan Bank Board, and J. Enos Ray, of Hyattsville, as collector of internal revenue for the Maryland district.

The appointment of Newton was in accordance with a promise President Roosevelt gave President Hoover on Inauguration Day. Hoover had already nominated Newton as a Federal judge, but the nomination was passed over by the Senate. As he left office, he asked the new President to take care of the secretary, who resigned from the House to take the post under Hoover.

Mr. Ray is president of the Prince Georges County Bank & Trust Co., and is also chairman and treasurer of the Maryland Democratic committee. He will replace Galen Tait, Maryland Republican leader, in the revenue

Plane Hits Wires, Crashes, Killing 2

Oceanside, Calif., June 8 (A.P.).—Lieut. Jack C. Richardson, 36, and Chief Machinist Mate P. C. Glaesner, 40, of Scouting Squadron No. 2, Naval Air Station, San Diego, were killed at the emergency landing field near here today. Their plane struck high tension wires, and crashed to the ground while they were attempting to land. Richardson was at the controls of the plane, which had been engaged in practice flying. What caused the plane to dip into the wires was not determined.

Richardson, a qualified pilot of both lighter and heavier than air craft and a qualified submarine commander, went to the San Diego air base from Pensacola, Fla., seven months ago.

Glaesner was born at Black Springs, Ark. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Flora E. Glaesner of San Diego.

Another Waxey Gordon Man Near Assassination

Newark, N. J., June 8 (A.P.).—Gus Berger, reputed strong-arm henchman of Waxey Gordon, escaped assassination today at the hands of three gunmen who forced their way into his apartment, engaged him in an indoor gun fight, and fled, leaving him wounded in the right shoulder.

The gunplay was the sixth outburst in the past month that had for its target a man linked by police to the operations of Gordon, alleged beer baron and racketeer, now under indictment for income tax evasion. The warfare has left a toll of four dead and one wounded in the ranks of Gordon's reputed underlings.

DISTRICT BILL GIVES DOUGLAS FUND CONTROL

$30,375,000 Appropriation Passes Senate Without Opposition.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT

The $30,375,000 District appropriation bill, meeting local costs for another year and giving the budget director extraordinary control over District construction outlays, yesterday was hurried through House and Senate without so much as a flurry of opposition.

The compromise measure, carrying the House $5,700,000 Federal "lump sum" figure and numerous reductions under liberal Senate appropriations, will be sent to the White House today for signature.

Bringing to a close another chapter in the District's annual battle for the right to spend its own money in its own way, the closely cropped bill represented an inglorious defeat for the local forces.

Douglas Does Spending.

Although some $2,375,000 was added to budget estimates out of gasoline and water tax surpluses, to finance construction of Calvert Street Bridge, new streets and water plant improvements, the pursestrings to this sum were left entirely in the hands of Budget Director Douglas.

He may spend it or not, as he chooses, under conference amendments agreed to yesterday by House and Senate.

Still another vital item was left discretionary with the Budget Director, under last-minute changes. Various local departments of government, which asked the right to shift funds so as to meet sharply curtailed appropriations, may not do so unless Director Douglas gives specific approval.

Senate approval of the conference report came at 7 o'clock last night, scarcely six hours after the House had adopted the measure. There was no word of debate in the Senate. Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, merely asked unanimous approval and got it.

In contrast, the House devoted nearly three-quarters of an hour, reputedly to the bill, but actually to a eulogy of Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, whose boast was that he "saved the taxpayers" $3,300,000 by preventing passage of the measure last session.

Sees Lower Tax Rate.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, who handled the bill on the floor and in conference, said the measure points the way to a lower tax rate. He called on the District Commissioners to de-

Americans Arrive For London Parley

London, June 8 (A.P.).—Resolutely hopeful, but without the conspicuous optimism which has characterized so many missions to international parleys, Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and his colleagues of the American delegation to the World Economic Conference, arrived in London this evening and at once established themselves in 90 rooms of a west end hotel.

Mr. Hull, debarking at Plymouth today from the steamship President Roosevelt, declared that war debts will not be discussed during the world parley which begins next Monday.

"We shall not go outside the details of the agenda," the Secretary said before he and his party took the train which brought them to London.

11 Per Cent Wine Urged

Dalrymple Tells House Group Plan Would Net More Than $50,000,000 Revenue and Boost Respect for Eighteenth Amendment.

(Associated Press.)

A House committee yesterday heard A. V. Dalrymple, the head of Federal prohibition forces, ask legalization of 11 per cent wine on the ground that it would increase respect for the eighteenth amendment, and express the hope the amendment would remain in the Constitution.

The appeal brought the observation from Chairman Doughton that "I think I'll call the Ways and Means Committee to meet in a couple of days to act on the bill."

Doughton declined to predict the result of that meeting or to say how much he thought the committee's decision might be influenced by Dalrymple's statement that the manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer was driving bootleggers out of business.

The bill before the committee, written by Representative Lea (Democrat), California, would legalize the public sale—in eating houses and with bona fide meals—of "naturally fermented" wines which, under the Volstead act, now can be made in the home.

The wine would contain around 9.5 per cent alcohol by weight or from 11 to 12 per cent by volume, and be

UNDER ARREST

COUNTESS GRACE DE BENQUE.

COUNTESS DEBENQUE HELD IN BLACKMAIL

Miss Louise Maret Claims Pair Got $5,044 Through Extortion Methods.

The Countess Grace de Benque, 2430 Wyoming avenue northwest, and George S. Gormley, 2262 Hall place northwest, were arrested on charges of blackmail yesterday on the complaint of Miss Louise Maret, 60-year-old coproprietor of the fashionable Maret School, on Kalorama road, who alleged they had obtained $5,044 through extortion.

They were taken into custody by Detective Sergt. Earl Hartman, working under the direction of Assistant United States Attorney William A. Gallagher.

Taken before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, their bonds were fixed at $25,000.

The Countess de Benque recently filed a petition of voluntary bankruptcy in the District Supreme Court. Gormley is said to have been involved in blackmail litigations with Edward D. Dean, sr., wealthy real estate dealer.

In a written statement submitted to Gallagher, Miss Maret said she met the countess about four years ago in Europe. The friendship begun there was continued in Washington, she said, and in September,

Officials See Confidence Vote in Oversubscription

Woodin Announces 5 Billion Offered When $900,000,000 in Government Securities Were Placed Before Public.

(United Press.)

Huge oversubscription of the combined offering of $900,000,000 in Treasury notes and certificates was announced by Secretary Woodin last night.

Subscriptions aggregated more than $5,000,000,000 when the books were closed on all offers except for amounts up to and including $10,000.

It was the first time since enactment of the gold clause repeal resolution a few days ago that Government notes and certificates did not bear the phrase "Interest and principal are payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value."

For this reason the offering was watched closely by Government officials and financial leaders.

Treasury officials said the response to the offering was greater than had been expected and saw in it a vote of confidence for the administration's fiscal policies.

Another cheering development to Treasury authorities was the heavy subscription to the bonds by the small investor. Subscriptions of $10,000 and less were allotted in full to give the man of small means a larger share of the issue.

The offering consisted of $300,000,000 in five-year 2½ per cent notes and $400,000,000 in nine months ¾ per cent certificates of indebtedness.

A total of $276,000,000 of the proceeds of the issue will be used to retire, June 15, a like amount of 1½

SENATE VOTES MORE POWERS IN BANK PROBE

$96,000,000 Profit of Van Sweringen Is Revealed.

(Associated Press.)

Senate investigators last night directed newly voted powers squarely at personal stock transactions of J. P. Morgan & Co. partners, after learning of a one-time $96,000,000 paper profit to Van Sweringen railroad interests from an operation the Morgan company financed.

Information about stock sales affecting the taxable incomes of Thomas S. Lamont, William Ewing and Harold Stanley was the immediate objective of the banking committee. Earlier the Senate unanimously granted it more authority for the purpose, simultaneously voting $100,000 to continue the private bank inquiry through another session of Congress.

Through an afternoon so hot that J. P. Morgan joined many otherr in shedding his coat, O. P. Van Sweringen closed four days of testimony on how he and his brother, M. J. Van Sweringen, built a railroad domain from a $1,000,000 start in 1916.

$23,000,000 Stock Profit.

His story ended with testimony concerning the powerful Allegheny Corporation, which Morgan & Co. helped organize in 1929 and out of which grew the selected client list on which appeared the name of William H. Woodin.

Ferdinand Pecora, the committee investigator, showed that in return for $32,000,000 of railroad securities put in the corporation by Van Sweringen interests, they received $36,313,000 in cash, 2,225,000 shares of stock with a book value of $45,000,000 and 1,750,000 option warrants carried at $1 each on the books.

In addition, Pecora said, the Allegheny Corporation assumed a $1,029,000 debt against the Morgan group. Then he said that 682,000 shares of the stock were sold at a profit of $23,000,000.

"If the entire block had been sold for that it would have represented

New Probe Awaits Rent Data Study

The Public Utilities Commission will first make a thorough study of the data on the local rental situation already accumulated by the King subcommittee in the Senate before undertaking any new investigation, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, stated yesterday.

The commission expects to discuss its course at its next meeting Monday. Yesterday it had merely a certified copy of the Senate resolution authorizing the utilities body to carry on the rental probe. Until the Senate makes an appropriation to finance the inquiry the commission will be able to do little.

Public hearings probably will be held in the fall or early in the winter after the commission has conducted a thorough investigation, Gen. Patrick said.

Arizona House Favors Vote on Repeal Oct. 3

Phoenix, Ariz., June 8 (A.P.).—The House of Representatives, by a vote of 47 to 14, today favored submitting repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the people. Its formal action was adoption of a bill setting up machinery for a convention.

If adopted by the Senate, which legislative leaders predict, and approved by Gov. B. B. Moeur, 14 delegates will be selected October 3, the same day on which a special congressional election will be held to name a successor to Lewis W. Douglas, who resigned as Representative in Congress to become director of the Federal budget.

Senate Beats Opposition to Industry Bill

City Gets Aid

Senate Votes to Include $2,000,000 for Roads in Recovery Bill.

The Senate last night voted to include the District of Columbia in the $400,000,000 Federal-aid highway program authorized in the President's national recovery measure.

Preliminary computations by the Bureau of Public Roads indicate the District would receive the minimum allowance provided in the measure—$2,000,000.

Approval of the committee amendment giving the District par status with the States in highway disbursements wound up Senate consideration of the measure for the night. A recess was taken until today, when an attempt will be made to pass the bill.

Earlier yesterday the District had been included in huge public works program authorized in the $3,300,000,000 measure, but District officials have pointed out that Washington stands to gain little in the way of new structures from this section as it is now drafted.

Senator Simeon D. Fess (Republican), of Ohio, last night paved the way for including the $6,000,000 Congressional Library Annex project, authorized three years ago, in the public works section. Technical language

MATTERN TAKES OFF DESPITE WARNINGS

Temporary Repairs Dangerous on Long Flight, Mechanics Say.

Moscow (Friday), June 9 (A.P.).—Jimmy Mattern took off from Velovo, Siberia, for Krasnoyarsk at 4:10 a. m. Friday, Moscow time (8:10 p. m. Thursday Eastern standard time).

Novosibirsk, Siberia (Friday), June 9 (U.P.).—Soviet aviation officials said early today that they believed James Mattern, the Texas flier, had taken off from Bielovo, southeast of here, for Krasnoyarsk. They were unable to confirm the rumor, however, because the rural telephone line to the little mining village where he made a forced landing temporarily was out of order.

The flying weather was excellent, having cleared following last night's storm, and the flying officials based their belief on that fact.

Mattern's monoplane, Century of Progress, however, was only partially repaired, mechanics returning from Bielovo to the Novosibirsk Airport reported, and it was doubted he would try to get farther than Krasnoyarsk, about 325 miles to the east of the village, before stopping for a thorough overhauling of his ship.

The plane was in sufficiently good shape to make that short flight, the mechanics said, but advised against a further attempt, pending complete inspection.

The newspaper, Soviet Siberia, published at Novosibirsk, said:

"American plane is completely repaired and ready to depart."

Spanish Cabinet Resigns in Crisis

Madrid, June 8 (A.P.).—A long threatened cabinet crisis materialized today when President Niceto Alcala Zamora indicated lack of confidence in Premier Manual Asana and the latter's government promptly resigned.

Highest sources said the president did not expect to solve the crisis tonight and has arranged for a series of interviews tomorrow with prospective premiers and party leaders. Opposition leaders conceded it was likely Senor Asana would resume the premiership with a revamped cabinet.

Dual Death Mystery Faces Police in Ohio

New Philadelphia, Ohio, June 8 (A.P.).—Authorities were confronted with a double mystery tonight with the finding of the body of Elijah Cramblett, 65, near his farm home. The body of his wife, Myrtle, 65, was found in the home early today.

Cramblett apparently had been killed by a discharge from a shotgun found by his side. Authorities said they were unable to determine whether Mrs. Cramblett had met death by violence, but declared she had been dead for some time.

Action on Sales Tax Proposal Deferred Until Today.

Licensing Section Is Retained Despite G. O. P. Fight.

(Associated Press.)

Battering down all attempts to make important changes in the industrial section, the Senate last night waded through the noncontroversial phases of the public works bill and put over until today the settlement of the sales tax dispute.

Pending when the senators turned out the lights and went home after thirteen hours of work was settlement of an argument over how the $400,000,000 of road grants should be made to the States.

Already, in rapid succession, the Democratic majority had beaten back attempts to take out the industrial licensing section, trim out provision for relaxation of the antitrust laws for trade agreements and finally, to strike out the entire industrial section.

Optional Embargo Voted.

A provision to allow the President to bar imports after tariff commission investigation if prices and wages rose to such an extent as to make it necessary was voted into the bill with only 11 Democrats and 1 Republican opposing it.

In appealing for adjournment, Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, said the membership had been working the limit any man could bear on the "most sweeping innovation presented to Congress in many years, appropriating billions, and changing the method of handling the commerce and industry of the Nation."

"Senators have lost their capacity to think," he said.

A motion by Clark (Democrat), Missouri, to strike out the entire industrial section, leaving only the $3,300,000,000 public works program in the bill, was turned down, 49 to 31, after Clark and Fess, of Ohio, the assistant Republican leader, called it Communistic and repudiation of party platforms. Walsh (Democrat) Massachusetts, replied that political maxims could be ignored in the face of dire emergency.

Industrial Section Upheld.

The roll call on the motion to strike out the industrial section follows:

FORESTRY CIVILIANS TO DRAW $2,553,395

19,642 Technical Directors Will Get From $102 to $255 Per Month.

A monthly pay roll of $2,553,395 will be required for the 19,642 civilians who will direct the technical activities of the Civilian Conservation Corps, it was disclosed in a high official source yesterday.

Many of these jobs, which are not under civil service, have already been filled, it was said. The civilian workers fall into 60 categories, their pay ranging from $102 to $255 per month. The average rate is about $130 per month. Out of this, however, they must pay a subsistence fee of from $15 to $30 per month.

13 Specialists Per Camp.

The civilian workers include professional and trained foresters, landscape artists and engineers. There will be about 13 of these to each camp of 200 $1-a-day men. The civilians were recruited in the vicinity of the camps by the Regional Foresters of the Forest Service. In addition to these men, the regular employes of the Forest Service and the Park Service of the Department of the Interior will give what time they can spare.

The only office work done within the corps is performed by about 16 persons in the administrative office of the corps here in Washington. Supply and transportation administrative work is done by the Army, as is most of the clerical work in the field.

$250,000,000 Provided

The original appropriation for the reforestation work was $250,000,000.

The Department of the Interior has estimated that 20 foremen, 1 landscape architect and 1 engineer will be assigned to each two camps. In certain sections there will also be men who specialize in blister rust and gypsy moth control. The Army is detailing about six officers and enlisted men to each camp.

The technical directors employed by the regional foresters will be paid out of Civilian Conservation Corps funds, but employes of the Departments of Interior and Agriculture will be paid by those departments. Army men assigned to the conservation work also will be paid from conservation funds.

Senate Approves Fruit Inspection

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday agreed to Senate amendments to a bill providing inspection of export apples and pears and sent it on to the White House. The measure was introduced in the House by Representative Robertson (Democrat), Virginia.

The bill would forbid carriers from transporting apples and pears for export unless the fruit were accompanied by an inspection certificate. A fee would be charged for the inspection service.

One Senate amendment removed a provision that ships could not clear from port if uncertified fruit had been loaded. The other made the measure's provisions applicable to tramp and chartered vessels as well as common carriers.

R. F. C. Lends $175,000 For Charlotte Building

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday agreed to lend $175,000 for construction of a textile market and show building at Charlotte, N. C.

The market is to be constructed by the Southeast Merchandise Market, Inc., a company which has not yet been formed. The building, 106 by 146 feet, will cost $240,000 and will be paid for by rental of floor space to textile manufacturers at 75 cents per square foot. The market will be used solely for display and sale of textile products.

Girl Partner's Murder Is Charged to Dancer

Dallas, Tex., June 8 (A.P.).—Louis Ruthardt, 24, dancer, charged with murder for the death of his dancing partner, Jo Betty Sell, 17, today was ordered held without bond to await action of the grand jury, after a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Allen Melton.

Gene Navarre, orchestra leader at the night club at Grand Prairie, Tex., where Ruthardt and Miss Sell had been dancing, testified the girl was injured in a quarrel with her partner

WIFE WILL DIVORCE ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT

President's Son Off to Reno as Marriage of But Year Goes on Rocks.

Reno, Nev., June 8 (A.P.).—Elliott Roosevelt and his wife are taking their "incompatibility" to Nevada divorce courts.

The President's 22-year-old son already has established residence in this State of six-week divorces, so that his 21-year-old wife, the former Elizabeth Browning Donner, may sue him. The couple, parents of an 8-months-old son, have been separated several months. They married January 16, 1932.

Plans for seeking the divorce were disclosed today, as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sped back to Washington after a visit with Elliott in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Roosevelt flew West last week. There was no indication whether the trip was made in an effort to avert a definite break between the couple. Pausing in Tuscon, Ariz., on the return trip East, Mrs. Roosevelt said she had been planning the flight a long time.

Mrs. Roosevelt departed from Los Angeles after a 36-hour visit there with her son, who had met her in Arizona on the flight westward.

Leaving her Los Angeles hotel on the way to an airport, Mrs. Roosevelt was asked to comment upon a report published at Tuscon that the divorce was imminent. She confirmed the action was in prospect, and Elliott, who was at his mother's side confirmed the statement.

Young Roosevelt said the divorce would be sought on grounds of incompatibility by his wife, from whom no comment was immediately forthcoming. It was understood an agreement had been reached as to custody of the baby, William Donner Roosevelt.

The President's son went to the coast last spring to manage an air line. "For the past week or so," it was disclosed tonight, he has been living at the summer home of Samuel Platt, former United States Attorney for Nevada. Platt said:

"I am permitted to state that Elliott Roosevelt has come to Nevada to live and has been residing at Elk Point, Lake Tahoe, in Douglas County, Nevada, for the past week or so. He left temporarily to meet his mother."

Under Nevada law either husband or wife may file suit for divorce, regardless of which has established residence. Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt could seek a decree here immediately after her husband completed six weeks' residence.

The Memphis Evening Appeal said Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt held a conference there April 12, after which she departed for the East and Roosevelt turned westward. Roosevelt the newspaper said, registered at a hotel as Mr. E. Roberts, of Tucson, Ariz. "This apparently was the last meeting between the two," the account added.

Dallas, Tex., June 8 (A.P.).—The Dallas News, in a copyrighted article written by its regular Fort Worth correspondent, said Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declined to comment tonight when asked whether her son, Elliott Roosevelt, was to marry Miss Ruth Googins, of Fort Worth, if his present wife obtains a divorce in Nevada.

SENATE VOTES MORE POWER AND MONEY IN BANKING QUIZ

$109,000,000 to the Van Sweringens instead of the listed book value of $45,000,000," Pecora said.

Such a scale, he contended, would have shown a "realizable" profit of $96,000,000.

Once during the long examination, in which Pecora strove ot demonstrate there had existed a dominating Morgan influence over the Van Sweringen railroad realm, the witness suddenly volunteered the opinion that "these investigations are terrifically destructive."

Then, as Morgan leaned forward, smiling, he sought to amend this statement, made while contending that business, "which shows improvement all the way through," needed "confidence instead of frightening."

Regrets Making Statement.

"Perhaps I shouldn't have said what I did," Van Sweringen explained. "I didn't mean investigations — of course to investigate and know is desirable—but through the press the public gets the idea that something is wrong. That drift is there."

Pecora asked about organization of the Geneva Securities Co., through which stock was transferred to the Alleghany Corporation from the General Securities Corporation. Van Sweringen readily agreed that the transaction, as he understood it, was to make it unnecessary to pay income taxes on the profit which the General Securities Corporation would have had to show had not the Geneva Corporation been used.

Pecora said, as Van Sweringen hesitated:

"Oh, it was lawful."

He also brought out that in a transfer of 255,000 shares of Chesapeake & Ohio stock from the Vaness Corporation to the Chesapeake Corporation, a $13,000,000 increase in value would have been taxable had not the General Securities Corporation handled the transaction.

Court Action Discussed.

Senator Adams (Democrat), California, asked if the courts "would not cut through" this transaction and force an income tax payment if the transaction had been made to avoid it.

This brought a round-table legal discussion between the committee, Pecora, and counsel for the Van Sweringens and Morgans.

Adams wondered whether Pecora should "concede" the method was a legal way round the tax.

"I'm only referring to the form of the transaction," Pecora replied.

"One thing is clear," Pecora remarked. "Mr. Van Sweringen said the procedure was followed for reasons of economy."

R. F. C. Loans Reviewed.

Changing the subject, Pecora brought up the subject of Reconstruction Corporation loans to the Missouri Pacific of which Van Sweringen is chairman. He developed that the road obtained a loan of $5,850,000 in March, 1932, which was used to pay off half of the outstanding loans to Morgan, Kuhn, Loeb and the Guaranty Trust Co. amounting to $11,700,000.

The banks had called the loans for April, Van Sweringen said.

Pecora read from the minority opinion of Commissioner Eastman, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that "no good purpose" was served by "bailing out these banks," and then read a letter from Morgan & Co. to the Missouri Pacific which extended an interest payment due February 1 on $11,700,000 with "the expectation" that the railroad would borrow enough from the corporation to take care of the loan.

"We were sitting on the R. F. C. doorstep when it opened," Van Sweringen smiled.

Control of Purse Strings.

After emphasizing a number of Morgan loans to the Van Sweringens, Pecora suddenly asked:

"Do bankers who finance and invest in railroad systems exercise an appreciable influence?"

"No. I expect they would investigate to find out whether they thought the policy was unfit, but that would be so far as the financial policy was concerned."

"He who controls the purse strings usually runs the household, doesn't he?" Pecora asked.

"That is too general an application," Van Sweringen said. "I have no doubt the source of the supply of money has influence."

Morgan Leans Forward.

Morgan leaned forward smiling when Pecora asked if Van Sweringen ever had carried through a financial policy the Morgan house disapproved.

Van Sweringen insisted final agreement on a transaction usually resulted from "a meeting of minds" after conversations.

Pecora spent some time on acquisition of stock in the Missouri Pacific by the Alleghany Corporation. Van Sweringen said that between March, 1929, and May, 1930, when he became a Missouri Pacific director, the Alleghany acquired a majority of the outstanding stock and over $46,000,000 in debenture notes.

"Why did the Alleghany buy Missouri Pacific?" Pecora asked.

"We had a belief in the development of the Southwest and desired diversity," Van Sweringen said. "For instance, the Missouri Pacific carries a lot of oil and the Chesapeake & Ohio coal."

Control of Missouri Pacific.

"In effect, the acquisition of the Missouri Pacific consolidated its system and your Eastern group, didn't it?"

"No," the witness replied, explaining he had resigned from Eastern railroad directorship upon assuming chairmanship of the Missouri Pacific.

"But your associates remained as directors and officials of the Eastern roads?"

Van Sweringen assented.

"You don't deny you control the Missouri Pacific through your chairmanship?"

"That might be so."

"And you are president of the Alleghany?"

"Yes."

"Then you are established in the position of controlling policies or of having a strong influence on roads not only in the West, but also in the East?"

"I can agree partly to that. At least, I hope it's so."

PROSECUTION FACES 37 GOLD HOARDERS

Named to Justice Officials as Holding $283,064 in Defiance of Law.

(Associated Press.)

The names of 37 persons who hold $283,064 in gold yesterday were turned over to the criminal division of the Justice Department by Attorney General Cummings for possible prosecution under President Roosevelt's executive order.

At the same time, Cummings announced that in the few days since Justice agents were set to work investigating cases listed by the Treasury, several millions in gold had been turned in to the Treasury in compliance with the act which makes it illegal to possess more than $100 in gold or gold certificates.

Cummings said 42 persons, after being interviewed by the agents, had turned in $43,409, and 408 persons were found to have turned in $6,000,000 immediately prior to the visit by the agents.

249 Names Fictitious.

Another 444 contended they had dispossessed themselves of gold some time ago or else that their names were erroneously on the list, and these reports were verified by the investigators.

On the list presented to the Treasury by banks 249 fictitious names and addresses were found.

There are approximately 10,000 names on the list now being worked upon by the Justice Department and this is but the first batch. Cummings said it was impossible to estimate how many persons would be revealed in the checkup as gold hoarders.

The Attorney General declined to say when action would be taken against those who defied the Government by refusing to surrender their gold and gold certificates, but he said "they will be held up to scorn before their fellow citizens."

Prosecutions Certain.

"Somebody is going to be prosecuted," the Attorney General said. "That is certain."

Asserting his desire was not to find victims but merely to obtain compliance with the President's order, the Attorney General again indicated that publication of the names of hoarders might be resorted to first.

"If necessary to make an example I shall prosecute cheerfully," Cummings added.

A list of principal cities included in the first group of names sent to the Attorney General by Secretary Woodin includes Baltimore with 140 persons holding $232,364.

The Attorney General said those from smaller towns would bring the total for the first list of names to approximately 10,000. He added that the figures for no city were complete.

Licensing Sustained.

By 57 to 31, the Senate rejected an amendment by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, to strike out the industry licensing clause, designed by the administration to bring recalcitrant industries into line with trade agreements formulated by the majority of plants in an industry.

In moving elimination of the section, Reed said it would put power into the hands of the President to "sentence to extinction" any businesses he desired. Senator Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, joined in advocacy of rejecting the section, asserting that he was not willing to "trust the President or any of his nominees" with such power.

A diversion of debate into other channels had slowed the movement of the measure during the day. Despite that, noncontroversial committee amendments were approved in rapid order.

Republican attacks on the licensing provisions as "un-American" and a speech by Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, critizing the men who will administer the measure, served to take attention from the immediate business at hand.

Two amendments outside the committee's slate were approved after hours of debate.

"Geographical Area" Dropped.

One, by Borah (Republican), Idaho, provided that no code of fair competition should be agreed to by industries in cooperation with the administrators if it involved "combinations in restraint of trade, price fixing or other monopolistic practices."

The other, by George (Democrat), Georgia, and Black (Democrat), Alabama, modified the licensing clause to make it apply to the entire industry or unit which refused to join a majority in adhering to a code, and not permit the President to apply it against a particular "geographical area," as under the committee bill.

The words "geographical area" were stricken out, although Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylania, said they had been suggested by Hugh S. Johnson, who will be administrator of the industrial provisions, on behalf of President Roosevelt. Those in charge of the bill, however, voiced no objection to this change.

Borah's amendment was described by Chairman Harrison of the Finance Committee, in charge of the bill, and Wagner (Democrat), New York, one of the authors, as unnecessary, since monopolistic practices already were guarded against, but they accepted it to make certain these conditions would not be countenanced.

In opening the attack on the licensing provisions, Reed said this was the "most revolutionary" section of the measure and was "un-American."

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, said it was essential if cut-throat competition was to be eliminated.

"What has dragged industry down more than anything else," said the New Yorker, is cut-throat competition, long hours and starvation wages.

Wage Level of Decency.

"We are going to lift it up to a wage level of comfort and decency. Most industries are dragged down by a recalcitrant 10 to 15 per cent who work employes long hours at starvation pay. It is sweatshop business competition we are trying to eliminate."

Reed said the bill would prescribe the same code for the "corner grocery store" as the chain store, but Wagner replied it was the small business man it is designed to protect.

"There is no price fixing in this bill. It just provides that there shall be no sale below cost of production."

"That's price fixing," Reed replied.

Reed said he had been approached by steel manufacturers to support the bill, and, therefore, could not believe it was the small business man it would protect.

The roll call on the motion of Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, to strike out the licensing clause follows:

To strike out:

Republicans — Austin, Barbour, Borah, Carey, Dickinson, Fess, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Kean, Keyes, McNary, Metcalf, Patterson, Reed, Schall, Steiwer, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott and White—23.

Democrats—Bulkley, Byrd, Glass, Gore, Logan, Long, Overton and Tydings—8.

Grand total to strike out, 31.

9 Republicans Join Democrats.

Against striking out:

Republicans — Capper, Cutting, Davis, Frazier, Johnson, La Follette, Norris, Nye and Robinson (Indiana)—9.

Democrats—Adams, Ashurst, Bachman, Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Bone, Bratton, Brown, Bulow, Byrnes, Caraway, Clark, Copeland, Costigan, Dietrich, Dill, Duffy, Erickson Fletcher, George, Harrison, Hayden, Kendrick, King, Lewis, Lonergan, McGill, McKellar, Murphy, Neely, Pope, Reynolds, Robinson (Arkansas), Russell, Sheppard, Smith, Stephens, Thomas (Oklahoma), Thomas (Utah), Thompson, Trammell, Van Nuys, Wagner, Walsh and Wheeler—47.

The pair were released near Matteson, Ill. Forst was taking his cargo from the Gerghoff Brewery, at Fort Wayne, to Aurora, Ill.

One of the robbers handed him a $5 bill, with apologies for taking his beer, and on Forst's plea said he would abandon the truck after disposing of the brew.

ROOSEVELT ALONE KNOWS DEBT PLANS

British and French Envoys Call, But Intentions Remain Mystery.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The war debt payment of the debtor nations of the United States, amounting to approximately $144,000,000, will fall due next Thursday, and at this moment President Roosevelt seems to be the only man who knows what is going to be done about them. British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay called at the White House yesterday afternoon and remained for one of the President's office desk luncheons. When he left the White House one hour later and was asked by newspapermen what he had discussed with the President, Sir Ronald pursed his lips as though whistling for wind, put a reflective finger to his chin and then said gravely:

"I really can't remember."

French Ambassador Andre Lefebvre de Laboulaye was also a caller at the Executive Mansion on Wednesday and he was equally reticent when he left. However, it is believed that the British Ambassador was the bearer of the official position which will be taken by the government of Ramsay MacDonald tonight when the British Cabinet decides the fate of the June 15 payments.

Alternative Possibilities.

At the present time the following possibilities can be resolved next Thursday or before:

First, there can be a general default or a general payment, both of which are regarded as very unlikely.

Second, there can be a partial payment, either in silver or in gold as an evidence of the good faith of the paying country to meet the rest of the obligation when required;

Third, the President may decide on a general debt-paying truce, along the same lines as the tariff truce and the armament truce originally sponsored by this Government for the London and Geneva conference.

The decision of Great Britain and France is regarded here as vital to the general fate of the debt-paying date, if the President decides to continue the present accords and demand the integral settlement of the obligation. If Great Britain pays, Italy will certainly follow her example although it is believed that the Italian payment will be made whether English and French default or not.

France does not seem at this present moment to have made any decision on the debt problem. Premier Daladier is so occupied with the disarmament delegation at Geneva and with the forthcoming London delegation, that no intense effort has been exclusively applied to a solution of the debt dilemma. In his various calls at the White House and at the State Department, Ambassador de Laboulaye has been chiefly concerned with probing the limitations of the President's debt conaciousness, to see how far the French government can go without paying and, at the same time, without defaulting.

Second Default Meaning.

There is some concern in official quarters here that a second French default here on next Thursday may mean the end of all debt payments, not only for France, but for all the other nations of Europe as well. France has failed to date to make the deferred payment of last December 15 and has suffered no great disadvantage, economic, political or moral, since then. If a second French default is added to the one already on the books, the entire debt structure may be said to be definitely scrapped for all time.

Belgium is undecided at this moment whether to pay or to default. Friends of Belgium have been making strong representations to assure the prompt meeting of Belgium's obligation here on the day due, but the strong Socialist majority in the Belgium Parliament may succeed in forcing another default either independently or in union with France, if such is the French decision.

The French satellite nations, Poland, Roumania, Jugoslavia and Czechoslavakia, will probably follow the French example, particularly if the French choose the road of default. However, since most of them have comparatively small payments this month, the shrewder diplomatists of these countries have been counselling their foreign offices to make the payment and thus end once for all the financial and political hegemony which France exacts as the price of her "protection."

COUNTESS DE BENQUE HELD WITH MAN IN BLACKMAIL

1931, she was introduced to Gormley by the countess.

On Tuesday, October 6, her statement said, she received a telephone call from Gormley, who said he would call for her at 8 p. m.

"We went for an automobile ride," the statement continued, "and when Gormley began to get affectionate I asked him to take me home. Instead, he took me to the countess' home. The next night he called me and again suggested that we go for an automobile ride. I told him I usually went to church on Wednesday evening and he asked me what church I attended. When I told him, he said he would take me to any church but that one. When he again suggested an automobile ride, I agreed to go, with the understanding that we would not ride beyond Chevy Chase Circle.

"He drove past the Circle, however, and out onto the Brookville road. There he parked the car and turned off the lights. A moment after he had done this, a man with a flashlight walked to the car. This man, who wore a cap and some kind of a badge, said we were violating the Mann act and threatened to take us to a police station. I was frightened, fearing the school might suffer, and asked him to let me explain the circumstances. The man, I supposed he was a policeman, then asked to see my registration card. I showed it to him and he kept it. Then he told Gormley to take me home. Gormley was supposed to return and meet the officer at 9 o'clock.

"Gormley drove me to the countess' home and when we arrived she said: 'What have you done? Tell me quickly.'

"I explained what had happened, and she replied:

"'Why, you must have done something. That officer must be bribed.'"

"Gormley then left to meet the officer, and, when he returned, said the man had agreed to accept $15,000. I was anxious to avoid any publicity which might injure the school and said I could raise about $5,000 quickly. The countess agreed to advance some money, for which I was to give my personal notes."

Miss Maret said she raised a total of $5,044, which was turned over to Gormley. She said she understood the balance had been raised and paid to the officer.

Later, she said, Gormley told her he had repaid the money the countess had advanced. Gormley, she said, burned the notes she had given the countess.

Finally becoming suspicious, Miss Maret said she consulted a friend who advised her to see a lawyer, which she did. She also said efforts to locate the officer to whom the money was allegedly paid were unsuccessful.

The countess was arrested on a warrant issued by Commissioner Turnage. Gormley came to the district attorney's office in response to a subpena. He denied any knowledge of the incident described by Miss Maret, but said she had loaned him $5,000, for which he had given her his receipt.

Bombs Destroy 2 Miners' Homes

Springfield, Ill., June 8 (A.P.).—Homes of two miners were bombed in Springfield and three striking pickets were beaten near Harrisburg today. State and local officials took drastic action to prevent further trouble between rival unions in Illinois coal fields.

Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black ordered that picketing be stopped and promised that the State would use all its power to help Springfield and Sangamon County officers preserve order.

The smoldering dispute between coal diggers broke out anew when one picket was killed and nine persons wounded in a riot yesterday at a mine operated by the Peabody Coal Co. under a contract with the United Mine Workers of America. This morning the homes of two working miners were bombed, causing damage of more than $1,000, but no injuries.

Turks Vote to End Church Institution

Angora, Turkey, June 8 (A.P.).—Religious institutions of Turkish minorities will lose all their temporal powers as the result of a decision by the Turkish Parliament to laicize minority religious institutions to the same degree that Moslem institutions were deprived of clerical character years ago.

The government will close all schools and hospitals maintained by the Greek and Armenian churches and Jewish synagogues, allowing them to reopen only as private institutions subject to the laws governing private enterprises.

The decision affects chiefly the Greek Patriarchate whose powerful Patriarch Protius and holy synod direct from their Vatican in Phanar, a suburb of Istanbul, not only the spiritual affairs of the Orthodox Church throughout the world but the many schools and hospitals centering around the patriarchate.

Capitol Hill Lightning Bolt Cause of Probe

There is to be an investigation on Capitol Hill in which legal, economic and usual type of experts will not be needed. There also will be no printing costs, as no record will be made.

Alarmed by the discovery that lightning had struck the new House Office Building during Wednesday night's electrical storm, David Lynn, Capitol architect, yesterday asked the Weather Bureau to assign a meteorological expert to investigate the phenomena.

The lightning bolt moved an immense stone several inches and destroyed a cement foundation, but caused no other damage. The stone was located on the seventh floor balustrade.

DALRYMPLE URGES 11 PER CENT WINE

subject to a Federal tax of 20 cents a gallon.

"This bill alone would bring in $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year in new revenue," Dalrymple told the committee.

When Representative McCormick (Democrat), Massachusetts, asked what total revenues would be "when" the eighteenth amendment "is repealed," Dalrymple replied:

"That is a very difficult question to answer. There would be, of course, considerable competition from imports unless the tariff were high enough.

"Personally I am unalterably opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but I think liberalization is the thing. I hadn't intended to say that, but I have. I am not absolutely convinced that repeal will materially increase our revenues—but liberalization will."

Dalrymple added that the "sale of 3.2 beer has very materially reduced bootlegging."

"The speakeasies are going out of business," he continued. "I don't mean to say all of them, but there had been a material reduction.

"There is also a feeling in favor of law enforcement that did not exist before. People are willing and anxious to help enforcement, because there now is involved the question of taxes.

"I do believe, too, that there is less drunkenness than in the days before liberalization. If my conviction is correct—that less hard liquor is being drunk—then of course we all agree that it is very difficult to get intoxicated on this 3.2 beer.

"Liberalization of the wine law would have the same effect—make it infinitely more easy to enforce the other laws—drive the racketeers out—give the farmer a fair return on his investment and labor."

"But," interposed representative Cooper (Democrat), Tennessee, "would this new wine be intoxicating?"

"Yes," replied Dalrymple, "if you drank enough of it you would get a skinful. I'm sure you would."

per cent Treasury certificates and $104,000,000 will be diverted to payment of the interest on the public debt.

The balance of $422,000,000 will be thrown into the Government's economic rehabilitation program. A large part of it probably will be used for unemployment relief grants to States under the Wagner bill.

The offering price of the two issues showed a substantial reduction from rates paid early in the year. The Government paid 4¼ per cent for an issue of $473,326,000 nine-month certificates of indebtedness on March 15, while 2⅞ per cent interest was paid on an offering of $572,419,200 of three-year notes on May 2.

Italy Pardons Eydoux; Jailed for Making Maps

Rome, June 8 (A.P.).—Charles Eydoux, director of the Polytechnic School in Paris, who was sentenced to two years imprisonment February 4 on a charge of spying, was pardoned today and is returning to France.

The French professor was accused of making strategic maps along the Jugoslavian border. His defense was that his notations embraced only objects seem from the road, as any tourist might have seen them, and that there was no political motive behind his activity. Furthermore, he declared he had "preference" for the Italian regime.

LONDON NAVAL PACT ASSAILED BY JAPAN

Geneva Parley in Confusion as Sato Refuses to Stop Bombing.

Geneva, June 8 (A.P.).—Japan threw the disarmament conference into confusion today by assailing the London Naval treaty as a provoker of international apprehensions and refusing to renounce bombardment from the air until craft carriers should be abolished.

In this uncertain atmosphere the formal discussions of arms limitation and reduction were adjourned until July 3.

The attack on the naval accord, reached in London in 1930 by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, drew sharp protests from the American and British delegates and from Arthur Henderson president of the Geneva parley, and British foreign secretary.

U. S. Spokesman Pleads.

Hugh R. Wilson, American spokesman, also appealed earnestly—but in vain—to the Tokyo delegate, Ambassador Haotake Sato, to reconsider his stand against prohibition of serial bombing as long as other great powers possess warships which provide landing and launching decks for aircraft.

"The London Treaty," Mr. Sato told the conference, which was surprised at his intervention in this manner, should have brought appeasement to all the signatories.

"On the contrary it has created an atmosphere of uncertainty and apprehension.

"From one side and another, inflammatory speeches which were not calculated to appease the spirit of the interested peoples, have followed the conclusion of this treaty. Therefore the feeling of security has not been strengthened."

Disagreement Is Voiced.

President Henderson and Mr. Wilson, as well as the British delegate, were not slow to announce their disagreement with the Japanese viewpoint.

"Mr. Sato has made serious reflections on the London Treaty," Mr. Henderson said. "As I was one of those who was responsible for this treaty you must not expect me to accept his reflections."

Mr. Wilson, asserting that "all this is new to me," retorted that it was not easy to isolate any one factor as the cause of international disquietude.

"The apprehension of which the Japanese delegate spoke may arise from causes other than the London naval treaties," the American delegate told the conference.

Edward H. Carr, spokesman for the British delegation, echoed the comment of President Henderson and his American colleague, making it clear that he could not agree with Japan's view that the London Treaty had been an international trouble-maker.

Parked Cars Damaged By Truck's Onslaught

When a two-ton truck crashes into a row of parked cars the result usually requires services of a wrecking crew. This was evidenced yesterday when the truck of James R. Sese, Winchester, Va., careened into four machines on Rhode Island avenue near Mills avenue northeast.

Sese told police he went to sleep while driving. All machines were badly damaged. On the receiving end of the crash was a taxi cab of Otto E. Cayle, 2409 Twenty-second street northeast; a truck driven by Chris Spandou; the sedan of Arthur B. Campbell, Thomastown, Conn., and a truck of the Mickalis Transfer Co., of Winchester, Va. No one was injured.

Railroad Bill Conferees Agree on Amendments

(Associated Press.)

A redrafted administration bill designed to help railroads reorganize and get back on a paying basis was agreed upon yesterday by conferees meeting to harmonize differences in the bills passed by the two Houses.

Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee said that if it were possible he would bring the bill up in the House today. In its final form, the bill still provides for a Federal coordinator to order and assist in reorganizations. The conferees, however, struck out language inserted by the House that would have permitted a merging of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

GERMANY DECLARES DEBTS MORATORIUM

U. S. Government Affected 66,000,000 Marks Due This Year.

Berlin, June 8 (A.P.).—Germany tonight declared a moratorium on credits granted to the Reich before July, 1931, thus admitting her inability to pay in foreign currencies either the interest or the amortization charges on some 17,500,000,000 marks of foreign indebtedness.

The moratorium will operate for the debts owned to the United States Treasury. Existing standstill agreements with private creditors abroad are not affected.

Announcement of the truce on foreign payments was made by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, who at the same time solemnly warned the world against taking retaliatory measures.

In a drastic move to revive the country's finances, the government decreed a suspension of all foreign currency payments on debts incurred prior to July, 1931, the time of the acute crisis in European finance.

The suspension will go into effect July 1.

Included in the moratorium are service charges on the Dawes and Young loans, millions of which have been disposed of in America and represent liens on certain internal excise taxes.

How far the United States Treasury is hit by the suspension is indicated by a resume of German government indebtedness as a result of the American Army of Occupation and the mixed claims.

The obligations due to the American military occupation were to run until 1966, while the mixed claims account was to extend until 1981. The total of the two payments due this year is $6,000,000 marks.

It was announced that transfers will be made as far as possible on credits granted to the Reich after July 31, 1931.

The standstill agreement, amounting roughly to 3,700,000,000 marks, is unaffected at present, but a meeting of its participants at London, June 13, when the Bank for International Settlements also will take part, is expected to be the occasion for a review of the situation. The Germans are expecting to obtain relief from some of their obligations at this meeting.

Japanese Regret Chinese Losses

Peiping, China, June 8 (A.P.).—The Japanese army which recently threatened to occupy Peiping as part of a campaign to clear the Chinese from the southern side of the Great Wall of China today offered their recent foes condolences of the loss of Chinese lives in the hostilities.

Marking the second time that a Japanese plane ever landed at this metropolis, a Japanese bomber—minus the bombs—came down on the Chinese airport at the outskirts of the city. It carried a representative of the Japanese army seeking a responsible Chinese official to whom he could hand the condolences.

Finding no one with authority at the airport, he took off again in the plane, flew over the Japanese legation and dropped a letter within a metal cylinder which requested the Japanese legation officials to convey the message to Chinese military leaders.

Roosevelt Assigns Authority for Dam

Executive orders signed by President Roosevelt yesterday place the power to build the Cove Creek Dam with the Tennessee Valley Authority, which is charged with the development of the valley, and give the Authority the power to etaablish trade schools at the site of the dam.

Ordinarily Government-built dams are constructed either by Army Engineers or by the Department of the Interior. The change in practice embodied in yesterday's orders signifies the new unified control to be given the Authority over all matters within the scope of the valley development.

Men to build the dam will be recruited from the neighboring mountains, being limited to those between 18 and 30 years, it was announced by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Authority. While they are at work on the dam they will be given the opportunity to learn a trade or a craft which they can practice when they return to their homes.

Fatal Riot Marks Vote In Cuban City Election

Havana, Cuba, June 8 (U.P.).—A Negro was killed and three white men were wounded when Conservatives and Liberals clashed twice today in the mayoralty election in Perico. More than twelve persons were said to have been involved in the shooting, in which 200 shots were fired.

Juan Lan, 60, was killed; Manuel Matis and Juan Silva were critically wounded, and Bruno Montalvo was slightly wounded. Senator Vera Verdura telegraphed President Gerardo Machado protesting that the Liberals were using arms to keep the Conservative party voters from the polls.

Famed Corsican Outlaw Given 2 Years in Prison

Ajaccio, Corsica, June 8 (A.P.).—The last of Corsica's notorious outlaws, Andrew Spada, who was captured in his mountain hideout more than a week ago, was sentenced today to two years in prison on a charge of carrying weapons illegally.

Regarded as a sort of Robin Hood by Corsicans, Spada had evaded capture for 11 years.

ever, over Mattern's trying to fly further on his projected world flight from New York. The repairs were only makeshift.

Furthermore, difficulties with his stabilizer on the motor caused the long delay in Moscow earlier in the week and this trouble was believed again responsible for his forced landing at Bielova. Soviet fliers here and at Moscow said they feared it might cause a bad accident if he tried to proceed.

His chances to beat the Post-Gatty record waned, and it was possible Mattern would return to Moscow and thence home.

TENSION SLACKENS ON VETERANS CUTS

Roosevelt's Plan Is Viewed in House Hopefully as More Lenient.

(Associated Press.)

Tension over the veterans' compensation dispute was eased considerably last night as House Democratic leaders hopefully regarded a program of allowances submitted late yesterday by President Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt plan was not released pending study of it by the House Democratic steering committee. It was looked upon at the White House as not compromising the principle of confining Government aid to directly service-connected cases.

The proposal was understood to allow payments ranging from $9 to $90 a month for ordinary service-connected disabilities and as high as $250 a month in extraordinary cases.

If agreed upon, the program will be brought into the House under procedure which will prevent a direct vote on the Senate amendment and which will also preclude a roll call on a proposal to limit the reduction in veterans allowances to 15 per cent, instead of the 25 per cent limit voted by the Senate.

Greater relief for Spanish-American War veterans has been the last stumbling block between the President and the congressional leaders. The White House was understood to have agreed to lower the age limit on these veterans who may be allowed pensions.

The thousands of veterans now receiving aid on the presumption that disabilities occurring several years after the war had a service connection would be removed from the rolls, but special boards would be established to investigate specific cases to see that no hardships resulted.

The cost of the Roosevelt veterans' aid program was estimated at between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 above the original economy plan, as compared with a $170,000,000 increase under the Senate amendment.

The compromise reached the Capitol late tonight after members of the special Democratic Veterans' Committee had already left and will be considered today by both that committee and the Democratic Steering Comittee.

Plans for the procedure under which the proposal will be brought up were decided upon after the special veterans' committee conferred yesterday with President Roosevelt at the White House, indications were that the Chief Executive and the Democrats were sufficiently near an agreement to kill the Senate amendmnet.

As outlined by one of the conferees yesterday, the Democrats urged that the compromise be as nearly like the Connally amendment as possible and sought in addition to secure pensions for widows and children of veterans who died of presumptive causes.

The Democrats also asked that Spanish-American War veterans between 55 and 62 years old and who are 50 per cent disabled be given a pension. Under the modified regulations which President Roosevelt issued in an effort to stem the revolt in Congress, Spanish-American War veterans over 62 were not only permitted to remain on the pension rolls, but those who were totally or permanently disabled received increases.

Representative Browning (Democrat), of Tennessee, a supporter of the Senate amendment, who attended the conferences with President Roosevelt, said the House wanted that amendment, "but realizes there are some presumptive cases that should not be on the rolls."

"It is willing to let the Government prove that they should not be on the rolls instead of making the veterans prove that they should be on the rolls," he said.

crease the tax rate from $1.70 to $1.50 on every $100 on real and tangible personal property.

The Missouri representative declared the bill carries out administration pledges by cutting expenditures 25 per cent, and also balances the local budget.

The House receded at the last minute on two important Senate amendments left in disagreement by the conferees. As a result, school officials will be able to transfer teachers of special subjects to classroom work without further examination. Also, certain local department heads will be permitted to make transfers of appropriations, provided the budget director approves.

School Funds Available.

Yesterday's action makes $870,000 available for starting work on the Woodrow Wilson High School in the Reno section, and the Logan Elementary School. The Senate had asked for $876,000 to start building four schools.

Expenditures left at the discretion of the budget director include $1,500,000 of the gasoline tax surplus allocated to Calvert Street Bridge and highway construction, and $635,000 of water tax funds, made available for water plant improvements. The Senate had asked that the Commissioners be given authority to authorize this construction, but House conferees insisted it be left up to the budget director.

A water tax refund of 10 per cent is authorized in the measure, to be extended those who pay their water bill within 10 days after it is rendered.

Repayment of $1,000,000 to the Federal Government for park land advances also was provided in the bill.

CONFEREES AGREE ON HOME AID BILL

Adjust House and Senate Differences on Gigantic Mortgage Plan.

(Associated Press.)

Senate and House conferees yesterday agreed on the administration's $2,000,000,000 home mortgage relief bill, one of the parts of President Roosevelt's recovery program.

As revised by the conferees, the maximum value of a home on which a mortgage could be handled was placed at $20,000, as compared with $25,000 voted by the Senate and $15,000 approved by the House.

The refinancing limit would be $14,000, or 80 per cent, which ever was the lower figure.

Early Passage Sought.

Early action on the conference agreement will be sought in the House and Senate.

The conferees limited to 40 per cent of the value of the property involved amounts that could be loaned as direct cash advances to home owners, and retained a Senate provision limiting interest to 5 per cent.

Provisions setting up a system of national and local conciliation boards to adjust mortgage debts between debtors and creditors were eliminated, along with a provision that State administrators should be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Direct Loans Repealed.

The conferees restored a House provision that repeals the section of the existing home loan banking law permitting direct loans to home owners.

The bill sets up a $200,000,000 home loan corporation to exchange its bonds for mortgages with authority to issue up to $2,000,000,000 in bonds.

It also provides for a Federal saving and loan association system, to cooperate with individuals about the country in investing funds for financing home purchases.

Bolivian Obstacle Reported to League

Geneva, June 8 (U.P.).—Bolivia is unable to accept an armistice for ending war with Paraguay in the Gran Chaco territory until a formal agreement has been reached as to what subjects will be arbitrated between the two countries, the League of Nations was notified tonight.

The Bolivian government's four-page note answering Paraguay's formula for an armistice rejected the Paraguayan plan and pointed out Bolivia's peculiar military position in the Chaco. The Paraguayan plan provided for immediate cessation of hostilities, withdrawal of Bolivian troops to Villa Montes and Robore, reduction of Paraguayan and Bolivian forces and determination by the league of responsibility for continuance of hostilities.

The Chaco committee of the league decided today to submit new peace proposals to the two countries, involving the sending of a commission of inquiry to the Chaco and shifting of questions for arbitration to the World Court at The Hague.

now in the bill precludes fruition of this project.

Senator Fess was assured by Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), New York, that if he would draft an amendment removing the technicality it would be accepted by those in charge of the bill. The Ohio senator said he will offer the amendment today.

Land already has been condemned for the annex in the block just east of the old Congressional Library.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, told the Senate Finance Committee there are only two other Federal construction projects from which the District could possibly benefit under the bill.

Although the Senate last night voted to permit the District to share in the highway building program, the section amending the Federal highway act of 1921 so as to include the District was passed over until today at the request of Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

In making this suggestion Senator Reed did not object to the language relating to the District, but to the change in the House formula for allotting highway funds provided in the same section.

Under the House formula, three-fourths weight would be given to methods described in the old highway act, and one-fourth to population. The Senate Finance Committee changed this to make the highway act formula the sole standard for distributing the funds.

Under this formula, three factors are considered, population, area and rural delivery routes. The District might stand to gain more than $2,000,000 if the House formula, placing stress on population, were followed.

Among the local projects contemplated if the District is finally included in the highway section are widening and repaving of Fourteenth street from Water street to Constitution avenue, widening and repaving of Constitution avenue from Fourteenth street to Pennsylvania avenue, widening of D street, Maryland avenue and Ninth street, widening and repaving of Kenilworth avenue northeast, completion of Rock Creek and Potomac parkway, and widening and relocation of E street from Fifteenth street to West Executive avenue.

The western New York and Ontario deaths were caused yesterday by two violent storms, which unroofed building, flattened orchards and snapped off poles by the hundred. Thirty persons, most of them in Ontario, were injured.

In Kansas, where wheat and small grain ripened rapidly in the high temperatures, the heat moderated slightly today. The heat and lack of rain were reported by State agricultural sources as unfavorable to crop conditions.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN one meets Margaret Sedon, that sterling character actress who has "mothered" most of the younger stars of Hollywood, at one time or another, in their most successful films—you will remember her as Ramon Novarro's mother in "The Midshipman," for example, and as Ellen with Norma Shearer in the dialogue version of "Smilin' Through"—he finds himself in the presence of a charming lady who gives less the impression of being a distinguished woman of the theater than of a well-informed and prosperous housewife, with a keen interest in the life of the National Capital and the politics of her country.

As a matter of fact, it is a little difficult to keep Miss Sedgon on the topic of the cinema when she is visiting in her native Washington. She would much prefer discussing the investigation being conducted by the Banking Committee of the Senate into the affairs of the Morgans, the Van Sweringens, et al., or perhaps grow pensively reminiscent and lament the disappearance of the Convent of the Visitation from behind its high brick wall at the corner of Connecticut avenue and De Sales street, to make way for the Mayflower Hotel, to dwelling upon the probable superiorities of the film that is being made at Annapolis under the directorship of Christy Cabanne with her in one of the principal roles, the "mother" role. Miss Seddon was a student at the Convent of the Visitation.

This film, by the way, is being "shot" under the working title of "Anchors Aweigh," although I believe—and so does Miss Seddon—that its release title will be "The Glory Command."

This was originally announced by RKO-Radio as a vehicle for Dorothy Jordan and Joel McCrea, but Miss Jordan's name was first withdrawn and Betty Furness' substituted, and then Bruce Cabot, the hero of "King Kong," was assigned to the McCrea role.

How I happened to enjoy an hour's chat with Miss Seddon in the happily refrigerated office of Manager Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's yesterday afternoon was that the Navy Department had not okayed some feature of the filming with the Naval Academy for background, and Director Cabanne accordingly had given her leave of absence for 48 hours to visit "home folks" and renew old associations in the Capital, where her forebears have served in both houses of Congress and otherwise been closely allied with the development of both Virginia and Maryland.

Miss Seddon's first motion picture work was done in the East, in New York and on Long Island, but ten years ago the Warner Brothers started her as a transcontinental commuter and she has traveled back and forth from East Coast to West, and West Coast to East, ever since. Most of her work of late has been in Hollywood.

On the present trip East, to secure authentic backgrounds and atmosphere in Annapolis, the "Glory Command" unit paused a few hours in Chicago and paid a fleeting visit to the Century of Progress Exposition, which, I gather from a combination of Miss Seddon and the Saturday Evening Post, must bear a striking resemblance to a gigantic, futuristic movie set.

Miss Seddon is a tiny little lady, much more youthful than the years she assumes to play "mother" to stars not far from her own age would lead you to believe. She bears none of the supposedly telltale marks of her profession. On the contrary, as has already been remarked, she is "our kind of folks" who might live just across the lawn in the house next door.

To meet her is to renew one's faith in the soundness, the integrity and the intelligence of the "movies."

About the time Gene Dennis is midway of the first week of her return engagement at RKO-Keith's, which begins today, she will find herself confronted by the opposition of Jane Morley, another young psychic—a blonde instead of brunette, if that means anything—of reputedly the same method—if it is a method—and power of divination as her own.

Miss Morley's local engagement will begin on Wednesday of next week at the Club Michel, under the joint auspices of Walter Von Herbulis and Erle Wright, an exploitation expert well known in the amusement world.

Miss Morley, if you must know, in private life is Mrs. Wright, and has given manifest evidence of a rare psychic power since the age of 4. She was for many years featured in the Shubert musical productions, although not in any psychic capacity.

In order to accomodate the first-day crowds that are expected to wish an early glimpse of the Warner Brothers' fabulous production of "Gold Diggers of 1933," the Earle Theater announces five de luxe performances for today.

The doors will be opened to the public at 10 a. m., with the first projection of the feature scheduled for 10:30. The first stage presentation will go on at 12:10, all of which suggests the desirability of consulting the "Film Time Tables," elsewhere in today's Post. The same schedule will prevail tomorrow.

Speaking of "Gold Diggers of 1933"—as who isn't?—last night's public preview attracted a throng of sufficient size to call out the flashlight boys and the street flares and give the occasion much the aspect of a genuine Hollywood "permeer." All of which, of course, was much to the consternation of the Warner executives. They hated it just the way you did your cold shower yesterday!

The art of making screen serials seems to be looking up, and not necessarily because it is flat on its back and can't look any other way!

I mean to say, they are choosing very elegant subjects for their chapter plays these days. For a convenient example, one might cite the fact that, beginning tomorrow, patrons of the Avalon and Tivoli Theaters will be privileged to follow the exciting adventures of the swashbuckling heroes of Dumas' imperishable classic, "The Three Musketeers," originally filmed as a silent feature by Douglas Fairbanks and subsequently converted into a gorgeous musical play by William Anthony McGuire for production by the late Florenz Ziegfeld.

A slight contrast to "The Perils of Pauline!"

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the National Press Club, the seven-reel motion picture feature, "This Is America," will be given its world premiere through the courtesy of Pathe News and the Beekman Films Co.

The audience will be made up of the membership of the Press Club and will include members of the President's secretariat, who seem strangely intrigued by the picture's declamatory title!

The film is described as "a living record of American events since the World War"—quite an order to pack into seven reels!

The appearance of Alice Brady in the cast of "When Ladies Meet," opening today at the Palace, with Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy and Ann Harding completing a quartet of stars, recalls the distant day when she was a screen star of the first rank in her father, William A. Brady's World Film Co. releases.

When Harry Crandall opened the Knickerbocker Theater, Alice Brady was one of the stars in attendance at the formal dedication. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, then at the height of their costellar partnership, and Carlyle Blackwell were others present on that colorful evening when Barry Bulkley declaimed the speech of welcome.

Heigho!

You were right, Max won the fight, just as you said he would!

Sore Throat Ailment Strikes Harvard Class

Cambridge, Mass., June 8 (A.P.).—In the midst of the final examination period, a mysterious sore throat ailment has stricken 30 members of the freshman class at Harvard and caused them to be confined to the Stillman Infirmary, university authorities disclosed tonight.

The symptoms were a sore throat, coupled with slight fever and headache. The cases arose from some undetermined cause over the week-end and city and State boards of health have been called in to collaborate with the university medical staff in determining its origin.

Robbers Loot Store Of Cash and Tobacco

Robbers yesterday broke into the American Grocery at 8217 Georgia avenue, Silver Spring Md., forced a safe and stole $10.81 in cash and looted the shelves of cigarettes, smoking and chewing tobacco and other merchandise. The robbers overlooked $100 which was in a smaller safe inside the large one.

Entrance was gained by forcing a rear door. The combination of the safe was chiseled off and the lock broken.

D. C. BANKING BODY COLD TO NEW LAWS

Scores "Spirit of Panic" of Deposits Guarantee and Other Legislation.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Productive, rather than speculative banking, was advocated by resolution of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, which regarded unfavorably panic-born banking legislation at its annual election meeting yesterday at Columbia Country Club.

Resolutions bearing on the first idea stated, "Realizing that abuse of credit inevitably results in disaster, we believe that the banking experience of the past three years should be carefully studied to the end that deposits entrusted to our care shall be used hereafter for productive purposes, rather than for speculation, and the evidence of debts resulting therefrom be of such nature that they can be collected promptly at maturity or be sold or rediscounted to obtain funds immediately to meet the demands of our depositors and preserve a liquid condition."

Another resolution stated: "We do not look with favor upon any attempt to cure apparent defects in our banking system by the enactment of statutory laws conceived in a spirit of panic and prejudice. Economic law and public opinion can be translated into statutory law only after calm and mature deliberation, in the light of experience.

Deposits Guarantee Questioned.

"It is questionable whether pending banking legislation, especially the proposed guarantee of bank deposits, will achieve the purpose intended. It is our belief that successful banking and the protection of bank deposits must rest upon the character and capacity of bank officers and directors, adequate capital and the confidence of the banking public in the financial institutions with which they deal."

Another one of many resolutions commended the courage of officers and directors of the banks of Washington in the hands of conservators and assured them of the association's good will and hope that they will be successful in their efforts to reorganize.

Election of Robert V. Fleming, president, Riggs National Bank, as second vice president of the American Bankers Association was indorsed by the assemblage which also gave a vote of thanks to the Washington, D. C., Clearing House Association committee for its excellent work during the stressful banking period of February and March.

Officers Are Promoted.

As is customary, all officers of the association with the exception of Albert S. Gatley, reelected its treasurer for the twenty-fourth consecutive term, were advanced from their previous stations with the following results: President, George O. Vass, a vice president and cashier, Riggs National Bank; first vice president, Frederick P. H. Siddons, secretary, American Security & Trust Co.; second vice president, Charles H. Doing, a vice president, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; secretary, Karl W. Corby, a partner in W. B. Hibbs & Co. Mr. Gatley is executive vice president of Lincoln National Bank.

The following were named members of the council of administration representing the following banking divisions: Savings banks, Francis G. Addison, jr., president, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; State banks, Lanier P. McLachlen, president, McLachlen Banking Corporation; trust companies, Ord Preston, president, Union Trust Co.; national banks, Victor B. Deyber, president, Second National Bank.

The retiring president of the association, C. H. Pope, vice president and treasurer Munsey Trust Co., becomes an ex officio member of the council and was elected a regional president of the American Bankers Association representing the District of Columbia. Other American Bankers Association representatives elected for the association representing the four divisions were: National banks, Frank J. Stryker, president, Columbia National Bank; trust companies, Harry G. Meem, president, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; State banks, Lanier P. McLachlen, president, McLachlen Banking Corporation; savings banks, Clarence F. Burton, vice president and cashier, Washington Mechanics Savings Bank.

20 Banks Are Represented.

Named to the executive council of the association's fiduciary section were T. Stanley Holland, trust officer, American Security & Trust Co., Sidey F. Taliaferro, a vice president and trust officer, Riggs National Bank; David Bornet, assistant trust officer, National Savings & Trust Co., Irving Zirpel, secretary and third assistant trust officer, Union Trust Co., and James A. Soper, vice president and cashier, Lincoln National Bank.

The meeting, which took the place of this year's convention of the association, ended with a dinner last night which was attended by 191 members and guests and addressed by Gov. Eugene R. Black, of the Federal Reserve Board, and Robert V. Fleming, president, Riggs National Bank, an American Bankers Association official. A delightful entertainment program followed. Forty delegates, representing 20 member banks, were in attendance at the morning's business session.

BOY, 17, MATRICIDE SUSPECT, ARRESTED

Balfe MacDonald, Seized for Extortion, Denies He Killed His Mother.

Nashville, Tenn., June 8 (A.P.).—Chief of Detectives Elkin Lewis announced late today that a youth under arrest here on a Federal charge of mailing extortion notes admitted that he is Balfe MacDonald, 17, sought by Flint, Mich., police in connection with the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Grace B. MacDonald, wealthy widow, about two weeks ago.

Lewis said MacDonald denied killing his mother, who was found in bed with her head crushed the morning of May 27, and declared that she was alive when he saw her last about 1 o'clock that morning.

The youth said he left home about 4 a. m., taking one of his mother's automobiles and $45 from her purse.

Lewis said MacDonald told him he left home after arguing with his mother "practically all the night before," but did not say what the argument was about, except that Mrs. MacDonald was "strict" and had "criticised me a lot."

MacDonald was arrested here several days ago with another youth, who gave his name at the time as Leroy Terwilliger, but said today it was William Terwilliger, on Federal charges of mailing extortion notes to local business men.

When arrested, MacDonald said his first name was Ball, but when arraigned before United States Commissioner Julian S. Campbell today, he declared it was Balfe MacDonald.

Chief Lewis said that Terwilliger accompanied MacDonald from Flint. Both youths pleaded guilty to the extortion note charges and were returned to jail in default of bond to await action of the Federal Grand Jury. Their intended victims refused to prosecute.

H. W. Emerson, chief deputy United States marshal here, said the United States District Attorney would be asked to dismiss the extortion charges so that the youths can be returned to Michigan immediately.

BENEFIT BALL GAME HAS PRESIDENT'S AID

Congressional Teams Line up at Griffith Stadium Tomorrow.

Expressing the hope that the gate receipts for the Democratic-Republican Congressional baseball game at Griffith Stadium tomorrow, which go toward the relief of the unemployed in the District, would exceed the most optimistic expectations of the committee, President Roosevelt yesterday stated that "you can count on me if it is at all possible for me to get away."

Extremely heartened by the strong probability that President Roosevelt will be present and will throw out the first ball, the various committees renewed activity yesterday, while reports from the "training" camps of the rival teams indicated that tomorrow's game will be a real contest.

The official line-up and batting order of the two teams was announced yesterday as follows:

Oil Men Preparing For Recovery Law

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—The American Petroleum Institute announced today it has invited representatives of oil producers associations from all parts of the country to a meeting in Chicago June 15 to collaborate on a code of practices in line with the industrial recovery bill.

The institute will be represented at the conference by J. Edgar Pew as committee chairman, H. F. Sinclair, C. B. Ames, K. R. Kingsbury and Amos L. Beaty.

It also was announced that the institute's committee for the marketing branch of the industry will issue a call to all marketing associations for a similar meeting, which also probably will be held in Chicago.

ENOS RAY IS NAMED REVENUE COLLECTOR

post. His nomination was confirmed in the Senate last night.

Included in yesterday's list were four diplomatic appointments, with two more rumored to follow shortly. Speculation on the new Ambassador to Germany settled on James G. McDonald, of the Foreign Policy Association, while John Cudahy, of Milwaukee, is understood to be in line as Ambassador to Poland. Cudahy was originally a candidate for the Havana appointment, which was given to Sumner Welles. Welles, it was learned definitely yesterday, will remain in Cuba for some time, until affairs there are materially cooler.

Robert P. Skinner was named yesterday as Ambassador to Turkey, while Francis White was assigned to Czechoslovakia. John Flournoy Montgomery will go to Hungary, with the Roumanian post falling to Alvin Mansfield Owsley, of Texas. Robert Granville Caldwell, of Texas, will be new Minister to Portugal.

The new Ambassador to Turkey is now Minister to Latvia, Esthonia and Lithuania, and was Minister to Greece form 1926 to 1931. He began his diplomatic career in 1897, after 11 years as a publisher in Massilon, Ohio. White, who will go to Prague, has been Assistant Secretary of State since 1927 and has been in the diplomatic service since 1915.

Caldwell, chosen as Minister to Portugal, is dean of Rice Institute in Houston. He has taught history and economics in a number of schools, including Forman College in India.

Other nominations sent to the Senate yesterday were Eugene Fly, to be collector of internal revenue for Mississippi; James W. Maloney, as collector for Oregon; Charles M. McCabe, as collector for Nashville; George C. Sweeney, of Massachusetts, as Assistant Attorney General.

William J. Keefe, of Iowa, was named judge of the United States Customs Court; Robert C. Bell, of Minnesota, as United States district judge for that State; George F. Alexander, of Oregon, as district judge, Division No. 1, District of Alaska; Ralph J. River, of Alaska, to be United States attorney for Division No. 4 of that district, and Joseph A. McDonald, to be United States marshal for Division No. 4.

Berthol J. Husting, to be United States attorney for the Eastern District of Wisconsin; Russell Hawkins, of Oregon, to be a member of the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Peter J. Hagerty as superintendent of the mint at San Francisco.

The following collectors of internal revenue: Sidney B. Osborne, for Arizona; William E. Page, for Georgia; Lewis Penwell, for Montana; Walter E. Thurmond, for West Virginia; David L. Lawrence, for the Twenty-third District of Pennsylvania; Harwell G. Davis, for Alabama; John V. Lewis, for the First District of California; John P. Carter, for the Sixth District of California.

Harrison Parkman, of Kansas, to be purchasing agent for the Postoffice Department.

The following collectors of customs: Warren Van Dyke, at Philadelphia; James Houlahan, at Pittsburgh, and William B. George, at San Diego.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY.

IT'S getting to be quite a fleet, the Sequoia and all the other boats up and down the river. There's the Biological-Thrift, for instance, and you can see all manner of economy exhaust pouring forth as it proudly put-puts with its important men-o'-government trying to think how best to save money for the people. . . . And we're reminded of what Senator Carey, Wyoming, had to say about the Director of Reforestation, at $12,000 per, his Cadillac and his three assistants at $7,000. . . . But it's all part of the New Deal to maintain the credit of the U. S. . . . Uncle Sam's rural letter carriers, who finally got their equipment allowance after years of effort, plus their paltry $900, now face loss of the allowance. And confidentially, 41,000 rural carriers carry a lot of weight with 41,000,000 farmers when it comes time to gather the voting crops. Maybe it'll be back to the old horse-and-buggy days for the carriers. We'll have economy even if we have to have old-fashioned service.

And why it is that in whacking the boys and girls at the navy yard they've got to lose a total of around 35 per cent, for, beginning July 1, they are told they must go on a five-day week, losing Saturday as a whole day. And Saturday, dear readers, has been given them by Congress. Even last year under furlough half day Saturday still was inviolate. Why not Monday off, instead of Saturday? The loss really is a day and a half as the matter stands.

Anne Howe observes that if secretaries would forget these honorary degrees they haven't earned from colleges offering them as publicity stunts they'd have more time to attend to the welfare of employes who're scared out of their wits. We know of two deaths, women, caused by worry over whether they'd have jobs the next day. But it's the New Deal and Economy is the watchword.

We're reminded by Chief Postman Jim Farley that business is hotsy totsy, that 47 of 50 industrial centers show upturn in postal patronage and that 48 of 50 other cities show a similar upgrade. Business has responded to Roosevelt's plea for results. Blessed is he who has faith enough in business to have faith in himself. . . . We note another paper falls into line and tells the President how fine it would be to put Federal employes' pay where they can afford to maintain their own credit as well as the credit of the United States.

A city fireman canvassing tickets in Government buildings (and we'd been told it was a violation to canvass or solicit in U. S. Buildings) offers—in fact, he's anxious to sell tickets for the Congressional ball game. A remark that it was Congress that allowed his pay to be chiseled sends the fireman into retreat. And does he look sheepish?

Dedicated to Louis McH. Howe: "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old KIT Bag" and be yourself.

Hundreds trying to get control of a job in Industry Control Board. And when Talmage H. Morris, the "shadow" of Commerce opens the door, talks earnestly with John Gartland, you might as well plan to move your office, for the Control Board's going to get your room.

And now the big news about Henry Wallace is that there's no news. The last twenty-odd weeks of Mr. Hoover's tenure he cancelled press conferences something fierce. Well, the secretary got like that yesterday and called 'em off. Press of administrative affairs, you know.

The news is out. Ralph Dillard, Supply Division, Commerce—courage and congrats, Ralph—he's just married, well not "just," either. It happened in January. Yes, last January.

And how nice to present the Budgeteers with fiddles. They can do their stuff while the city gets that way and stays like that this summer.

A young woman, we won't mention her name, but if she will call by we'll have movie tickets for her, for she's in need of some recreation after her dream. She dreamed Wednesday night that in order to get to her office she went into the front entrance, the guard directed her across the lobby, where she opened a door and was promptly socked from all sides by fists and she was dropped into an abyss, kicked and socked around for hours, after which she reached her destination only to be told that she didn't work there any longer.

Roland Walker, messenger, Secretary's office, Commerce, had been given a pair of alligators. One was named "Pay Cut." The other, "Furlough." And, like pay cuts and dismissals, they both grew. One of the terms of the gift from Henry O'Malley, then Fisheries Commissioner, was that Roland could not turn them back. They were getting too big to be handsome and handy, and Roland must hang on to them. Now Roland's task is to find how to let go of the alligators. They are getting too big for him, too. Well, Roland, our friend, Dr. William M. Mann, may be happy to hear from you, but his place has been socked by the budgeteers and he may not have enough appropriation left to feed two extra boarders.

We threaten to run another installment of "Riches to Rags," or "Alice in Wonderland" Sunday. And if something happens it may get in.

On the last page of The Washington Post, May 23, was a photo of a proud mama zebra sporting what looked like a beret. And Robert O'Toole, Marine Corps, says he knows zebras have a "b-ray" but in this case the beret's a bit misplaced.

J. J. Durnan, chief, British and Oriental section, Tariff Division, Commerce, has gone to Europe. W. J. Donnelly, commercial attache at Bogota, is taking the place of Henry Chalmers, a technical adviser to the London economic conference.

Louis V. Woulfe, animal industry, Agriculture, during a conversation with Miss Jessie C. Fisher (*) told the lady he knew she is a school teacher. "In fact," said the hiker extraordinary, "I could tell by the pupils in your eyes." And any more wisecracks like that, volunteerr Henry J. Frank, Internal Revenue, may result in Woulfe being exiled to the packs that roam the prairies.

WILD FLOWERS have an unsung and unheralded devotee—Mrs. Ada L. Smith (*), editorial office, Animal Industry. When reasoning over a manuscript has lost its zest and when sensing the correctness of grammar no longer charms, Mrs. Smith takes leave of office and hies away afoot to a sylvan retreat where she searches for the "wilds" of the flower kingdom in order to make them thereafter her friends. So far, it is learned, she has identified nearly 100 specimens of "untamed" flowers. This hobby, recreative and educational, promises to place her among the other great seekers of nature in the hiding. It may be said, parenthetically, that Mrs. Smith also belongs to the fraternity of hikers. Every now and then a far distant horizon challenges her footsteps and she accepts the mileage contest enthusiastically.

Diary Guest Tickets

IF your name in this column is followed by (*), or if your contribution appears, call on The Federal Diary Editor day of publication, except Sunday, between 4:30 and 5:15 p. m., and receive tickets to Loew's Fox, "The Nuisance" (Lee Tracy) or Loew's Palace, "When Ladies Meet" (Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery).

THE SOCIETY OF FEDERAL TRANSLATORS met on Monday, June 5, at 8 p. m., in one of the club rooms of the Y. W. C. A. Building, Seventeenth and K streets northwest, the meeting being presided over by the vice president, Mrs. Mekkin S. Perkins (*), War Department. Henry E. Brockway, Agriculture, offered his resignation as corresponding secretary, which was accepted.

A brief address was given by Emerson B. Christie, head of the translating bureau, Department of State, who described the activities of his section. He emphasized the difficulty and responsibility of the work done by the translators of the State Department and the importance of the material submitted for translation.

Miss Gertrude W. Holinger, Patent Office, gave an account of the work done by her department, which, she explained, is chiefly concerned with the translation and assignment of patent specifications.

SOME are worrying about whether they'll be able to get their furlough in. From the looks of things, there should be ample furlough to go around . . . The Federal Diary Eyes and Ears Department learns a number of former advertising agency men are on the ground (not literally), ready to go into service for the Industry Control Board "if and when" Congress approves the measure . . . Incidentally, the I. C. B. has been a life saver for many in P. and D. C. . . . And the idea has been driven home forcefully lately by a secretary that leave of absence is not a legal right . . . One year all the leave taken away. Another, some leave restored. Anyway, Uncle Sam's credit has been "maintained." . . . Internal Revenue's personnel filed through new commissioner's office to see the flowers they and others had showered onto his desk. The floral pieces came from Valuation Division, Records Division, Training Division, Intelligence Unit, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, General Counsel, Appeals Division, Office Commissioner of I. T. U., Special Advisory Committee, Accounts and Collections, Special Adjustment, Audit Review, Rules and Regulations, Field Procedure, Service Section, Clearing Division, David Burnet, John M. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jones, Robert H. Lucas, Frank T. Bell, Willis County (Kans.) Democratic delegation and others . . . Frank Mills, statistician, Aeronautics, two major operations in few months. Much better now, thank you.

This is the season when the electric-fan pest prevails. He is the fellow who sits farthest away from the contraption, but always makes sure to turn it on full speed. Of course this annoys most clerks in proximity of the fan.

When some poor victim with a cold or stiff neck timidly rises to adjust the machine, the electric-fan fiend will then with much gusto ejaculate: "What's the matter? Don't you like fresh air?"

Fervently do Government clerks pray: From the electric-fan pest, oh Lord, deliver us. PHILIP EBERT.

GOVERNMENT LEAVE.

Oh, how I miss you! Will you ever return? I've been watching for you all through the night.

Suppose you had furlough leave in the past, couldn't take it, then annual leave was accumulating, couldn't get it, then you hadn't taken any sick leave (hardly any) and along came a 90-day furlough, had to work on this leave, please tell me what kind of leave would you really have? Would it be equal to sabbatical leave if you let all this accumulate? Would you really have leave or not have leave? Bless those people on the outside, who are responsible for such conditions!

7 ARMED BANDITS ROB CHICAGO BANK

Chicago, June 8 (A.P.).—Seven masked bandits raided a West Side bank in Wild West fashion today, rounded up 28 employes and customers and scooped $17,000 into their bags.

In a few seconds, with a blast of shot guns into the air, the robbers were off in their two cars.

The bandits entered the main State Bank on North avenue in mid-morning, brandishing guns and holding handkerchiefs to their faces. The leader shouted: "This is a stickup. Everybody quiet."

They quickly rounded up the eighteen patrons of the bank and ten employes, guarded them while they forced Elmer Asherman, the cashier, to open a door into the cages, disarmed a watchman and went through the tellers' cash drawers systematically, dumping cash and currency into canvas bags.

As they left, the leader warned those inside the bank not to raise an alarm. Outside the bank he fired his gun into the air.

The Buffalo Prairie (Ill.) State Bank was robbed of $1,000 by two men this afternoon. The sheriff sent vigilantes armed with machine guns to patrol nearby roads.

Broken Neck Fatal to Youth Who Hit Rock While Diving

George Humphries, jr., 22, of 4117 Brandywine street, who suffered a broken neck Wednesday while diving into the Potomac River at the foot of Weaver place, died yesterday in Georgetown Hospital.

With several companions, Humphries was preparing to swim in the river. While his friends stood on the bank, the youth dove from a high rock. He failed to reappear and after several minutes he was pulled unconscious from the water.

With Humphries were Edwin Bruce, Henry Brown and Earle Hisle, all of 36 V street northwest; Arthur Dettmers, jr., of 3301 Wisconsin avenue northwest and C. R. Reynolds, of 4900 Canal road northwest.

Funeral arrangements for Humphries have not been completed.

Rotters' Kidnapers Are Sent to Prison

Vaduz, Principality of Lichtenstein, June 8 (A.P.).—Four Germans, whose attempt to kidnap the Jewish Rotter brothers, formerly Berlin's leading theatrical producers, resulted in the suicide of one of the intended victims and his wife, were sentenced today to imprisonment ranging from 4 to 12 months.

Alfred Rotter and his wife were killed when they plunged over a cliff and Fritz Rotter and another woman were injured as they jumped from the kidnapers' automobile last April 5. The kidnapers sought to return the Rotter brothers to Germany for trial on charges resulting from the collapse of their enterprises.

Plan to Free Brazil Money Announced

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—A plan for release to American owners of approximately $25,000,000 in blocked currencies in Brazil was announced today by the American committee representing the creditors.

The agreement, which was approved by representatives of the Brazilian government, the Banco do Brazil, and the committee, provides that all American firms having blocked or withheld balances in connection with commercial transactions not exceeding $50,000 may receive payment within 90 days at the full official rate of 13.3 milreis to the dollar.

MITCHELL'S SALARY DOUBLED DURING '31

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—Charles E. Mitchell's salary as head of the National City Bank and its subsidiaries was doubled in 1931 from $100,000 to $200,000, he testified under cross-examination today, but he said he made no move to repay $666,666.66 he claimed he owed the company.

The $666,666.66 was his share of the management fund split up among 12 officers. He did not report its receipt on his income tax return on the ground it was not income but merely an advance, to be paid back.

The Government charges, however, that the payment actually was a bonus and that there was no intention Mitchell should repay it. The circumstance is made one of the bases for the charge that the banker defrauded the Treasury Department of $850,000 income taxes in 1929 and 1930.

THE SENATE INQUIRY.

The Senate responds to overwhelming public sentiment when it provides funds and authority for a thorough investigation of private banks and bankers. The disclosures thus far made are of course the best of warrant for believing that practices prejudicial to the public interest have been conducted on an enormous scale. Some of these practices have been technically within the law, thus revealing loopholes which Congress will be expected to close. In several instances it appears that income tax frauds have been perpetrated. It is the duty of the Senate committee to pursue the inquiry without respect to persons or protests, while protecting witnesses against invasion of their rights.

The power of the Senate or House to conduct investigations, for the purpose of gathering information upon which to base legislation, can not be successfully opposed. Matters which witnesses regard as strictly private are not exempt from investigation, and no witness can with impunity defy the committee by refusing to answer pertinent questions. The United States Supreme Court has held that either house of Congress can determine for itself the pertinency of questions propounded to witnesses, and that when the questions are held to be pertinent the witness must answer or suffer for contempt.

It is reported that a banker whose income tax returns are to be investigated will refuse to answer, and that his attorney will force the Senate to pass on the pertinency of the questions. Nothing is to be gained by an attempt to block the Senate committee, now that it is empowered to investigate the subject.

What the public demands is full disclosure of methods and practices prejudicial to the public interest, and of course all evidence of criminality. The committee can be of great assistance to the executive department in bringing to light tax frauds and other violations of law. As the rope draws tight it may be expected that strong influence will be exerted to postpone the inquiry, to discredit the committee and its investigator, and to suppress documents. The senators on the committee are charged with a heavy responsibility to the United States. They should not be diverted from their duty by any stratagem, nor be dissuaded from exposing rotten conditions by the plea that the inquiry is "terrifically destructive" and injurious to "business." All honorable business, great and small, has a right to demand that it be protected from piracy. Taxpayers who are forced to make up for the fraudulent evasions of others are entitled to know who has robbed them and the Government. The people and the Government would be wronged if the Senate committee should fail to do its full duty.

SUICIDES INCREASE.

The number of cases of self-homicide in the United States increased last year to 23,000. A comprehensive insurance survey shows this to be an increase of about 2,000 over the year before. Losses, lack of occupation and general despondency caused by the prolonged depression are advanced as the principal causes of the excessive number of suicides. A curious fact in connection with the statistics compiled is that the highest ratio of suicides occurs on the Pacific coast and the lowest on the Atlantic seaboard.

The ten cities showing the greatest self-destruction in proportion to population, numbering from 50.3 at the top of the list to 32.1 at the bottom, per 100,000 of population, are Davenport, Sacramento, Seattle, Cedar Rapids, San Francisco, San Diego, Omaha, Denver, Portland and Tacoma. In striking contrast with these western cities are the ten eastern cities where the suicide rates per 100,000 are lowest, showing for the top city only 1.8 self-homicides in 1932, with the highest rate at the bottom of the list registering only 7.7. In the order of fewest suicides are Troy, N. Y.; Holyoke, Mass.; Waterbury, Conn.; Newton, Mass.; Cicero, Ill.; Malden, Mass.; Altoona, Pa.; Cambridge, Mass.; Lowell, Mass.; Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Pueblo, Colo.

It is no exception that the west coast shows this preponderance of suicides. It has been the case year after year, and no explanation of it has ever been found. On the other hand, Massachusetts, where there are many factory workers who have been hard hit during recent years, contains five of the cities that are the ten lowest in the suicide scale. In a table separating the number of suicides according to their marital state it is shown that the highest rate occurs among divorced persons, both male and female, though in all the various marital states the number of men who take their own lives is double the number of women suicides.

STABILIZE THE DOLLAR.

Two days of shrinkage have brought the dollar to its lowest point since the United States abandoned the gold standard. The value of the British pound, in terms of dollars, increased nearly 13 cents in two days, and similar gains were made by other European currencies. In other words, another large slice was taken off the dollar, so far as its gold value is concerned.

The French franc serves as a more reliable measuring rod than does the pound, because France is still on the gold standard. Since the United States launched its inflation policy the value of the franc has increased from 3.92 cents to 4.82 cents, or about 23 per cent. It is more correct, however, to say that the dollar has shrunk. The gold value of the franc has remained the same while the dollar is now worth only about 80 cents in gold.

The effect of this sudden shrinkage in the dollar is to make the stock market boom. Every time the dollar takes a new plunge in foreign exchange markets speculators scramble to buy more stocks, to avoid the contraction in the dollar's purchasing power. This process has been going on now for two months. How much longer will it continue? There seems to be danger of a major speculative orgy and subsequent collapse unless some action is taken to stabilize the dollar.

With the dollar fluctuating at the rate of nearly three cents in two days, international commerce is put under a severe handicap. Business within the country is also hampered by the phenomenal rise of commodity and stock prices. What will wheat be worth next week? Only wild guesses can be made. If steps are taken to reverse this perilous fall of the dollar, distressing reactions may be the result. Yet it is obvious that the downward course of American currency must be checked at some time. At present the United States is on the road that Germany followed to disaster shortly after the war, even though the administration has hardly begun to make use of its inflationary powers.

It is time to call a halt. Immediate steps to stabilize the dollar should be undertaken. The administration has acquired ample authority to depress the value of the dollar. What plans does it have to check that process before it leads to unrestrained speculation and a perilous shrinkage of monetary values? Great Britain set up an enormous stabilization fund to keep the pound from fluctuating too widely after she left the gold standard. Some action of this kind is imperative in the United States if the dollar is to be kept from running wild. Under present conditions Americans are left to the mercy of speculators and foreign governments who may send the dollar up or down to serve their own purposes.

It may be several months before any action on this problem can be taken at the World Economic Conference, even if an agreement should be reached. In the meantime there is an urgent need for reasonable stabilization of the dollar. Early action toward that end would greatly reduce the danger that the dollar may get out of control.

TARIFF BARGAINING.

President Roosevelt has apparently decided that an early adjournment of Congress is more important than a grant of tariff-bargaining powers to his administration. He has been advised that an attempt to transfer broad tariff-making powers to the Executive would precipitate a long debate. The President is extremely anxious that Congress should finish its work this week. Hence, it appears that the proposed tariff bill, which has been held in abeyance for weeks, may never reach Congress.

If this decision is final, it will be a blow to the World Economic Conference. The two subjects in which European nations are most interested as they gather about the council tables in London are the war debts and the American tariff. It is already definitely understood that the debts are not to enter into the discussions at London. If the American delegation is now denied power to act in tariff matters with any degree of finality, many European delegates will feel that there is nothing to be wheedled out of Uncle Sam, and they will lose interest in the conference.

Heretofore when a President has undertaken to negotiate tariff agreements with other countries he has always sought specific authorization from Congress. Of course, the President shares the treaty-making power with the Senate. But tariff agreements are something more than treaties. They affect the welfare of domestic industry and the revenue of the United States. In the past the House of Representatives has always insisted upon its right to pass upon tariff agreements and the Senate has conceded that right. It must be assumed, therefore, that any tariff negotiations initiated at London must be approved by both houses of Congress before becoming effective.

In view of this fact, the hands of Secretary Hull may be quite securely tied. Without specific authority, he could promise only to submit to Congress any agreements suggested at London. Every European statesman knows to his annoyance that it is the habit of Congress to upset agreements of this kind made by the President. If the President considers it unwise even to ask Congress for authority to make such negotiations, there will not be much disposition by foreign governments to gamble upon the acceptance of agreements which might be concluded by Secretary Hull. In short, if Secretary Hull is not backed up by a specific act, tariff adjustments may be stricken from the agenda of the economic conference, for all practical purposes.

It appears that the administration is determined to concentrate its efforts upon improvement of economic conditions within the United States, without counting much on the conference. With Secretary Hull in London, his policy of internationalism is superseded by more practical considerations. Ever since the new administration came into power there has been a conflict between the efforts of one group to cast the lot of Uncle Sam upon the high sea of internationalism and the struggle of another group to concentrate attention upon domestic problems. The trend of events in the last few weeks leaves little doubt as to which faction is taking control.

MATTERN'S FLIGHT.

James Mattern has learned for a second time that a flight around the world in record time is a big undertaking. Fog, rain, snow, ice, heat, fatigue, a broken gasoline line, a damaged stabilizer and sickness resulting from the inhalation of gas fumes have all combined to delay him. Mattern intends to press on. He may yet set a record for flying around the top of the globe, but his chances now appear to be slim.

It is difficult for the average citizen to understand why a man is willing to risk so much to achieve so little. Post and Gatty proved that an airplane can be flown around the top of the world in a little more than a week. Some one may improve that record as a result of good luck and physical punishment to himself. But whoever does so will gain little from his experience, except notoriety and a test of his endurance.

Any one who undertakes to fly around the world in record-breaking time may expect to encounter a good deal of adverse weather. Likewise he must expect to operate his plane under a severe physical strain that may have a vital effect upon his safety. Flying has come to be reasonably safe under normal conditions when every precaution against accident has been taken. But it is extremely hazardous when pilots strain themselves beyond their endurance, and when they neglect safe and thorough inspection and repairs for the sake of speed.

The desire for adventure and publicity results in a large number of spectacular flights about this time of year. Most of them are far removed from practical aviation. They represent a Quixotic tendency toward daring exploits which has always been strong in the American people.

The four big powers of Europe sign their peace pact and it is now safely pigeonholed in the archives of the League of Nations, where Mars can't find it.

Mr. Van Sweringen tells the Senate banking committee that its investigation is "terrifically destructive." Maybe the committee agrees with him.

The House wants it distinctly understood that when it voted for economy it didn't intend to have the veterans take it seriously.

Uncle Sam can't put an embargo on arms to Japan, but he can lend $50,000,000 to China.

Well, the honeymoon is over and those ugly little step-urchins must be reckoned with.

ABOUT SALUTES

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A recent Presidential proclamation increases the dignity of governors by adding two booms to their traditional seventeen-gun salutes when they visit Army or Navy posts in their States, thereby raising them to the proud nineteen-gun status of Cabinet members. This leads the National Geographic Society to depart somewhat from its topographical researches, and to issue a bulletin about salutes. This amenity began, the society finds, as an act of submission, which later evolved into a formal courtesy. Each side in international salutes (21 guns) is compelled by custom to waste an equal amount of gunpowder in returning the fire. Why 21 guns? The bulletin explains that seven was the original number in ship salutes, chosen for its supposed mystical properties. Shore forts returned three guns for one, since powder on shipboard had to be conserved. Later, when better powder was made, ship and shore took equal rank.

Delving into the matter a little further, we advance the theory that the salute stems from mankind's gregarious traits, and thus is a dignified and conventionalized form of greeting. It would be rather awkward, however, for a regiment of men to prostrate themselves before a governor, as the people of Siam do when meeting their king. It would be undignified for a Cabinet member to be hailed by a battleship's crew with a cry of "Greetings, wild beast!" as the Basutos salute their chiefs, or even with our own genial "Hello" or "Good morning." Nor would it be practical for the personnel of two fleets, meeting at sea, to indulge in handshakes all around, or to embrace one another, after the Continental fashion. Exchanging bows would be a futile and invisible gesture if conducted at a distance.

So, after dismissing other forms of greeting, gunfire remains the most practical and dignified. However, if the economy suggesters ever attack that waste of powder, they might propose that colored flags be run up to serve the occasion.

We tremble to think what Mussolini's reaction might have been if France and Germany had not finally kicked in on the tattered four power pact.

Who's Shylocking now? France, while protesting payment of her "political debts" to the United States, is after Egypt, Turkey, Austria, Roumania and her other debtors with a sharp stick to enforce prompt settlement of their "sacred obligations."

Eventually the League of Nations will have to set a limit to the number of ocean hoppers permitted to frazzle the nerves of the world simultaneously.

As it now appears, all the American delegates will have to do at the London conference is to discover hyperphysical economic and financial formulae acceptable to the legislators of 60 nations.

Congress should investigate whether all the new official salutes ordered were not instigated by powder makers who want their business to pick up and go boom.

BEAUTY AND UGLINESS.

Face front to cruel facts we stand.
Along each city street,
In every corner of the land
Walk, hunger and defeat.

Wherever now we chance to go,
Are poverty and pain,
Although the tulips row by row
Bloom red and white again.

The silver-throated birds outside
Are singing in the trees,
But song and blossom can not hide
The suffering man sees.

And who can smile at tulips gay
Which mark the spring o' year,
Then coldly look the other way
When beggar-men appear?

The More Attractive the Bait, the Greater the Probability That It Contains a Hook.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DEBT isn't always unpleasant, nor is the making of debts always unwise.

The ordinary spendthrift American can accumulate property only by going into debt and then working his way out. That method has enabled many thousands of wage earners and salaried men to own homes, household chattels and bonds.

The thrifty will say that the same end could be achieved at less cost by accumulating the money before the property is bought, but they are right only in theory. The fact is that spendthrifts won't save until they must, and debt provides the only protection from their inherent weakness.

When that is said, however, the defense of debt is finished. In all other particulars it is bad.

It was the making of debts—the practice of spending other people's money—that brought us to our present state. If none of us had made unnecessary debts the land would be as normal as it was before the war.

Debt seems an easy way to obtain the thing desired, but its final toll is double the worth of any benefit it provides.

There are two kinds of debtors—those who are bound by a sense of honor and those who are not—but both pay too much for the thing they get.

Those bound by honor are never free of anxiety. They live in dread of loss; they deny themselves everything else to redeem their word; they endure humiliation and shame when the utmost they can do is not enough. They are slaves to a hard master.

And those without honor fare no better. They feel no anxiety or remorse, but they pay a dear price none the less.

In the beginning easy credit seems like an increase of pay. They are able to live on a scale far above their deserts. The world is theirs for the taking.

But their generous "buying" is not buying at all; it is a form of stealing. And the most tolerant community at last turns against them. They can buy nothing more without cash. They are hounded by collectors. No matter how brazen they are, they feel the town's contempt. They are "dead beats." And when disaster comes they haven't a single acquaintance who will trust them with a dime.

Don't fool yourself about it. The dollar in your pocket isn't yours if you owe it to somebody else. And you always pay in the end—in cash or in reputation.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Seeing the Hand of Morgan.

Kansas City Times.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, may not be imagining a vain thing in his charge that the house of Morgan has been using its influence to defeat ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty. The senator finds that nearly 50 members of the New York Chamber of Commerce are on a Morgan list of favored customers and that the chamber has been active in opposing the waterways project. Also it is held that Morgan control of railroads and other interests concerned with dominance of the port of New York lends a direct impetus to attempts at blocking a channel of commerce farther to the north. The city's unfriendliness to the waterway is a tradition of years, a fact which may or may not alter the present alleged situation. But recent disclosures being what they have been, it must be admitted that the senator's charge makes a good talking point.

A Program at Last.

Brooklyn Eagle.

We have never before had a national program or a comprehensive national plan. Heretofore we have had conflicting plans, put forth by sections and factions. Part of the discord in Washington today reflects the old conflicts between factions and special interests. It would be strange, indeed, if we could, within a few months, produce a great national plan for the sure and quick recovery of the country.

Nothing of the kind can be expected. But we must have action. We must have a program. President Roosevelt has been given the authority to produce such a program. He has done so. And with every appearance of complete assurance he purposes to try to put his program into effect. That is all that can be asked at this stage.

Army Engineers.

Boston Transcript.

Is President Roosevelt being badly advised in the suggestion that he transfer river and harbor and flood control work from the Engineer Corps of the Army to the Department of the Interior? It is believed in New England that he is; and, indeed, Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, has been ordered by the directors of that association, representing the shipping interests of New England, to protest to the President against the proposed change. Since 1802 more than $2,000,000,000 have been expended by the Army engineers on public works, $60,000,000 of it for river and harbor work in New England alone; and moreover, in that period $3,000,000,000 have been saved the Government by the Engineer Corps through their examination of and refusal to approve needless or unworthy projects. For a century the name "Army engineer" has been synonymous with honesty and efficiency, and no other reason for turning over the public works of the Government from this trained and trusted body to a political department seems to have been advanced except that the politicians want it done.

DEGREES FOR 1933.

Flavius P. Toopsey, citizen extraordinary and man of rare courage: Throughout the past twelve months Mr. Toopsey never wavered in his belief that everything would come out all right in the wash and that America would survive without oxygen tanks. During the dark days of late February Mr. Toopsey refused to rush to the banks and withdraw his savings. On innumerable occasions he listened unruffled to his neighbors' saying, "Well, I went down and withdrew my money yesterday just in case," and on at least two occasions Mr. Toopsey happened to pass a savings bank during a run without immediately losing his head and going berserk. To you, Mr. Toopsey, we award the honorary degree of D. U. C. (Damned Unusual Conduct) and throw in three 10-cent cigars.

Gerald B. Grout, a husband of great valor and a citizen unafraid: In the first week of March, 1933, Mr. Grout's wife, a woman of positive character and great driving force, drew herself to her full height (only 5 feet 8 inches, but it seemed 11 feet 9 to Gerald) and spoke as follows:

"Gerald Grout, you go right down to the bank this morning and draw out everything. Insist that they give it to you in gold."

Mr. Grout faced this great domestic crisis like a man and said, "Woman, I will do nothing of the kind. It is against public policy and contrary to my instincts as a good citizen." It resulted in a fierce family war, during which Mr. Grout was made very uncomfortable, but he remained firm. Mr. Grout, accept the degree of M. D. F. P. (Master of Domestic Financial Policy), and would you care for a glass of good beer?

He immediately ordered a plentiful supply of new stock and did it without trembling. Mr. Peabody, will you have light or dark?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tax on "Letters to the Editor" Would Balance the Federal Budget.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I agree with the suggestion of your correspondent, M. A. Dyer, that in lieu of income taxes there should be imposed a tax on the surplus of all dividend-earning corporations so as to prevent any corporation from accumulating a surplus in excess of 8 per cent, except that such a plan would not produce any revenue for the Government. Instead of such a plan, why not tax the deficits of all corporations? This method would not only produce a barrel of revenue for the Government but it would be at the same time a forceful incentive for the corporations to strive harder to get out of the red.

But perhaps the most prolific revenue-getter yet suggested would be the imposition of a small tax, say 5 cents, on each person who writes a letter "to the editor" of any newspaper. Such a plan would doubtless enable the Government to balance its budget and at the same time do away with all nuisance and income taxes. If this bill is adopted I hereby request, Mr. Editor, that you permit me to pay my share on the instalment plan.

Will Your Shirt Stand Your Coat Coming Off

—It will if it is a WOODLOTHIAN

Now that Summer is here, with its intense and stifling heat, comfort of body and a neat appearance are really serious problems for the man who no longer is wearing a vest to cover the shortcomings of his shirt.

He can not afford to sacrifice his appearance among his associates in a shirt that is simply comfortable. And that is why he wears a WOODLOTHIAN shirt—not just because it is comfortable, but because—

Its style is always correct
Its sleeves are full cut
It has a seven button front, in ample length to keep tucked-in
It has four-hole ocean pearl buttons, keeping you from always having to sew buttons on.
Its shoulders are shaped

Every WOODLOTHIAN shirt—hand-washed and hand-finished—is tailored of fine, white American broadcloth, with a silk-like sheen that is retained after repeated laundering. Collar-attached and neckband styles.

BERRY CLARK TRIAL DEFENSE IS STARTED

Large Purchases by Former Montgomery Official Related by State.

The State rested yesterday at 3:15 p. m. in the trial of Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County commissioners, on trial in Montgomery County Circuit Court on charges of embezzlement of county funds.

The defense placed Charles Y. Latimer, present clerk to the county commissioners, on the stand as its first witness to identify certain records which later were to be used in evidence. Robert D. Hagner, county commissioner from Bethesda, was next witness. He testified to an audit made by himself while Clark was in office and said that the clerk's records appeared all right to him. On cross-examination he said that his audit could not cover the clerk's account in the bank or the separate account alleged to have been maintained by Clark in a black book since they were not part of the records of the office.

Transactions Revealed.

J. Forrest Walker, county treasurer, had just taken the stand when the court was adjourned until today at 9:30 a. m.

The fourth day of the trial began yesterday with the continuation of the testimony of George P. Henderson, president of the Montgomery County National Bank, who reviewed for the benefit of the jury the transactions of Clark in his two accounts at the bank, one his clerk's account and the other his personal account, and identified transfers of money from the clerk's account to the personal account. Mrs. Mary O'Brien, a clerk in the commissioner's office, testified as to the bookkeeping system in the office.

Most of the morning was given over to a parade of testimony showing purchases in large sums from grocery, department and other stores and to payments by Clark on the mortgage of $4,000 on his house and other payments of notes by Clark.

Payment Discrepancies.

John Lewis, assistant treasurer, testified that the county treasurer had received but $18 from the proceeds of the State franchise tax, the State the day before having produced witnesses to show that approximately $1,100 had been paid to Clark by the State treasurer. Lewis also testified that the county had received two sums from Clark, $187.50 and $100, as payments on insane patients' care, while the State witnesses showed that $1,260.97 had been paid to him and that only $367.50 in sheriff's fees had been paid to the treasurer instead of the $637.37 which testimony declared had been paid to Clark.

One of the highlights of the trial came when Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, in the course of testimony, stated that Clark had often played poker with State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, who is conducting the prosecution; Matthew Trimble, W. O. Dosh and himself. He could not remember whether Clark won or lost and stated that the games were played before Prescott became State's attorney.

League Meetings Postponed.

Wife-Beating Laid to Marylander.

John H. Walker, of Branchville, Md., was arrested yesterday by Prince Georges County police, who charged him with beating his wife, Nettie Walker, and his daughter, Audrey. He was also charged with illegal possession of 14 pints of whisky. He was released on $500 bond.

Republican Committee to Meet.

The Arlington County Republican Committee will meet tonight in the offices of Lyon & Fitch at Lyon Village. The purpose of the meeting is to decide on time and place for the holding of a county convention.

Learning that the Potomac Electric Power Co. will be ready to make a public statement regarding extension of its lines in Arlington County as soon as it has received petitions being circulated to secure the new service, the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission last night adopted a resolution instructing its subcommittee on electricity to present the petitions to the company as soon as they are received.

The commission stated that it wished a statement of policy from the company as soon as it is possible.

The commission voted to renew its request to the Virginia Public Service Co. for a complete inventory of its physical properties in Arlington County, a previous request having been ignored by the company.

DRIVE TO SAVE ARMS PARLEYS UNDER WAY

Paris, June 8 (A.P.).—A three-power drive to reduce obstacles to disarmament between now and July 3, when the Geneva conferences are formally resumed was agreed upon here today by representatives of the United States, Great Britain and France.

The discussions, which were designed to find a solution for the deadlock in the arms conference, were participated in by Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large and chief of the Geneva delegation; Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour of France, and Lord Londonderry, minister of air, and Capt. Anthony Eden, undersecretary for foreign affairs, for the British government.

After a seven-hour session, M. Paul-Boncour said that solutions had been found on certain points, but that others remained to be sought, and negotiations would be continued at the seat of the disarmament conference.

The French insistence upon security by treaties is lessening—American quarters indicated—as the French premier realizes that no responsible government in other countries will sign a blank security check.

A communique issued at the conclusion of the three-power conversations said:

"The representatives of the three governments exchanged views today in a spirit of confidence and friendship upon the disarmament conference and regarding what remains to be done to assure its success."

ARMSTRONG WINS COMPETITIVE DRILL

18,000 See Victory After Long Series of Dunbar Cadets' Success.

Gordon David Houston, classmate of President Roosevelt at Harvard and principal of Armstrong High School for the last seven years, wore the "smile that won't come off" yesterday afternoon when Armstrong, in the annual company competitive drill of the Ninth Brigade of colored high school cadets, before a crowd of 1,800 at Griffith Stadium, took first, second and third honors after being defeated just as decisively by Dunbar High School ever since Principal Houston started his regime.

Critics pointed out that Warrant Officer Edward York, who trained the Dunbar cadets for seven years of victory, was assigned at the beginning of this year to Armstrong.

Company D, Twenty-fifth Regiment, Capt. Frederick Young commanding, was awarded the teachers' diamond medal to wear until the end of this scholastic year. Officers of the company, including First Lieut. William Rogers and Second Lieut. Russell Fauntroy, were awarded gold medals, while other members of the company were awarded blue ribbons.

Kramer Presents Cup.

The second award, presented for the first time by the donor, Assistant Superintendent Stephen A. Kramer, was accorded to Company E, Twenty-fifth Regiment, Capt. Oscar Piper commanding. It consisted of a loving cup on which was inscribed the legend, "A good competitor often deserves as much honor as a victor." Officers of the company, First Lieut. Charles Stewart and Second Lieut. Raymond Brown, were awarded silver medals, while other members of the company received red ribbons.

Company C, Twenty-fifth Regiment, Capt. Lawrence Tyson commanding, won third honors. Bronze medals were awarded the captain, First Lieut. Luther Nell and Second Lieut. James Hughes, while white ribbons were presented individual members of the company.

The drill was featured by evolutions in which each company, supporting the advance guard of its regiment, received orders to capture or drive the enemy platoon from its trenches. The company was rated on "attack orders, defense against low-flying aircraft, attack and occupation of enemy trenches."

A silent saber drill of officers of the entire brigade, led by Col. Kelsey Pharr, and a silent drill through the manual of arms, by noncommissioned officers, led by Lieut. William Jones, proved a brilliant spectacle, preceding the brigade review by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding general, Third Corps Area. The presentation of prizes was made by Col. Benjamin O. Davis, Representative Oscar DePriest and Stephen A. Kramer.

The roster of the winning company included:

Capt. Frederick Young, First Lieut. William Rogers, Second Lieut. Russell Fauntroy, First Sergt. Percy Taylor, Sergts. Alonzo Rivers, Kenneth Ballard, David Craw, Robert Gaffie, Herman Washington, Luke Harris, Richard Chatman, Corpls. Shellie Mitchell, John Hunter, Louis Williams, Harry Lancaster, Theodore Shorter.

Phone Shrinkage Reports Deferred

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday notified the Public Utilities Commission that the date for receiving reports on telephone depreciation had been postponed a year or from August 1, this year, until the similar date next year. Likewise, the effective date of the classification of accounts order has been postponed until January 1, 1935, from the first of next year.

This postponement, granted at the request of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., will not effect the local commission's order that the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. furnish certain data on depreciation charges by August 1, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, said.

In all probability it will not affect the hearing scheduled by a group of State commissions, including the District agency, before the I. C. C. on June 14, Gen. Patrick said.

General Motors Sales Show Sharp Increase

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—General Motors Corporation today reported sharp increases in its May sales over both April volume and that of May, 1932. Sales of cars and trucks to American consumers last month totaled 85,969 units as against 71,599 in April and 62,500 a year ago. Sales to American dealers aggregated 85,980 against 74,942 for the previous month and 60,270 in May, 1932.

Total sales to dealers, including Canadian and overseas shipments, amounted to 99,208 units as compared with April volume of 86,967 and a total of 66,789 in May, 1932.

One of Every 25 Girls Is a Helen, School Finds

Berkeley, Calif., June 8 (A.P.).—One of every 25 girls is a Helen, if a private school here where Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs were graduated is any criterion.

Somebody took the trouble to count them—60 out of 1,500 students. The school decided something ought to be done about it, so Helen Gilman and Helen Patton, juniors, will present picture of the famous tennis Helens to the principal at commencement.

The Meanderer

Hears What New York Likes for Summer Wear—Shops at Random for This and That.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

"New York is wearing cottons," reports a stylist in an F street specialty shop, who has just returned from one of her frequent fashion trips to the larger metropolis. "Never have I seen New Yorkers care so much for cotton fashions," she emphasized. Cottons especially favored are dotted Swiss, pique and seersucker. We in Washington have subscribed enthusiastically to cottons, also, but not as enthusiastically as do New Yorkers, the stylist said. This young woman, who supervises cotton fashions in the F street specialty shop, was wearing a brown and white frock in bold, printed designs, a frock which admirably suits her tall Titian attractiveness.

Early morning strolls, regardless of June heat of Washington, are taken frequently by officials of the new administration. A friend or a walking stick, or both, may accompany the official. What with the suddenness of local thundershowers and the magnificent distances in the Capital, it might behoove the official or his friend to carry the combination walking sticks and umbrellas the Meanderer finds in a large Washington shop which seems to have everything. Choice malacca makes the stick, seemingly nothing but a stick, but a slender, efficient full-size umbrella can come out of the elegant walking stick quicker than a rabbit comes out of a hat. One woman customer, a widow, has arranged to have just such an umbrella fitted into the valuable malacca stick prized by her late husband.

Walking stick fanciers may like to see the valuable horn stick valued at $250 in the shop referred to above. This stick is made entirely from one rhinoceros horn. A stick of this sort is rarely found. One cane made from just one horn, almost identical with the $250 one mentioned, is valued in Paris at $1,000. Collapsible walking sticks for travelers, in leather cases, are priced from $5 up. One malacca cane with a crooked handle for the daytime stroll, and the round silver top for dress wear, comes in the collapsible type, packed in a leather case for $35 or less.

Hat bands of white and all colors of silk for making one hat harmonize with several costumes are in 24-inch length, adjustable to any head size. They sell for 35 cents. The ribbon in the hat bands is of good quality grosgrain.

Shaded moire ribbon, wide and lustrous, is used in generous, long-ended sashes for the organdy frocks in nearly every woman's wardrobe. Brown, shading to cream; pale green, shading to chartreuse; red, shading to cream, are among the most attractive of the colors in ribbon of this kind.

Play suits for little girls, of six or under, look much like little boys' blouses and shorts, except that the front of the diminutive feminine trousers is pleated to give a skirt-like effect. The Meanderer found such small girls' clothing among many other sensible summer time garments for children in the basement of a G street department store. Much less $1 is the price of most of such play clothes—often less than a half-dollar.

Dotted Swiss blousettes, sheer wisps of sleeveless garments for wear with summer suits, are priced at $1 in the busy blouse shop of an F street department store.

Cool, brief panties of mesh pique are worthy of a place on the list of the shopper hunting summer comfort. They sell for 50 cents, 75 cents and $1. For $1 panties of this mesh pique (even panties must go pique), have detachable garters, which would eliminate the need of garter belts or round garters. Look for the mesh pique panties in an F street specialty shop.

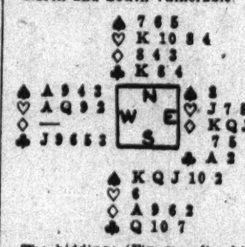
ATTACK VERSUS DEFENSE.

THE success or failure of a contract rests in the first instance upon the line of attack determined upon by the Declarer and, secondarily, the defensive tactics adopted by the other side. On close hands one principle should always be considered by the Declarer—namely, that of giving the opponents an opportunity to make a mistake in the play of the cards. Sometimes an ill-considered lead, a decision to take or refuse to take a trick, spells the difference between success and failure. Defending players naturally are at a disadvantage. All the information they have as to the actual hand distribution is such as has been gleaned from the bidding or disclosed when the Dummy went down. Bit by bit this information is made more definite, but sometimes the whole picture of hand and honor distribution is not unfolded until too late to be of benefit.

An interesting example of attack and defense in action is presented in the hand below, which was played in a recent Duplicate game in New York City.

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♡	Pass	3◇
Pass	4♣(1)	Pass	4♡(2)
Pass	Pass	Dbl.(3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—West, of course, does not like the diamonds, as his hand is void of that suit, and now elects to show the greatly shaded club suit. It would, no double, have been better if he bid two clubs over one spade, as then the hearts could have been shown at a lower range of bidding.

2—East has a very fine hand, and the choice is clearly indicated.

3—North's Double is questionable. He hopes to win at least 3 heart tricks and counts upon his partner's vulnerable Opening bid for at least two more. In view of the support for hearts by East, the Double is perhaps optimistic.

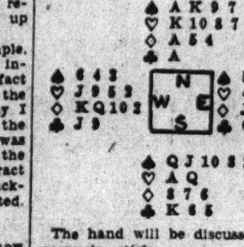
The Opening lead was the spade 7, the singleton was played from Dummy, South played the Ten and West permitted the trick to hold. This was a very fine play, not so much because of its effect on the ultimate number of tricks to be taken, but because it invited a trump return and thus gave to North an opportunity to make a mistake in his trump play. South, as anticipated, led his singleton trump. West played low, and North played the 8, the trick being won in the Dummy with the Knave. The next lead was the King of diamonds. South did not cover the first round, but he was plainly marked with the Ace, in view of his Opening bid, so West discarded a club. The Queen of diamonds was then led, and South played the Ace, West ruffing with the 9. Now the Ace of spades was led, and the small club in Dummy discarded. Then followed a low spade, which was ruffed in Dummy. The Ace of clubs was then taken and another high diamond was led, West discarding his last spade. Again a diamond was led, upon which West took another club discard and North ruffed with the 4. Obviously, North could not now lead hearts. He was forced to return a club, which was ruffed in the Dummy. Then another diamond was led, West discarding again. North's situation at this point was hopeless. As a matter of fact, he ruffed with the Ten and returned a club, which West ruffed. Then the last trump was returned, permitting West to pick up North's King.

The play appears reasonably simple, but really it has many points of interest, particularly in view of the fact that the only player to make the contract was the one whose play I have described. At another table the contract of four hearts doubled was defeated 2 tricks. The reason the player in question made his contract is that he utilized fully the attacking opportunities his hand presented.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If East and West never bid, how should North and South bid to reach the correct final contract, on the hands below?

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Hyattsville Raises Forestry List 12

As an aftermath to the Prince Georges County registration campaign for the reforestation army, 12 more names have been added to the list as reserves to supplement any who might "funk" during the first two weeks probationary period at the camp.

Although a physical examination is being given before the applicant can enter the camp, it was explained at the county welfare offices in Hyattsville, more stringent examinations are later given to determine whether the men can withstand the necessary strain.

The Welfare Board, although named especially for the registration work, will remain intact for the purpose of filling in recruits, and checking up on amounts spent for welfare work in the county during the past year. The figures will be presented to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which will allow each county in the State $1 on every $3 spent.

Stocks Climb to New High Under Driving of Favorites

Mine Issues Active in Rise on Sales Volume of 6,355,420 Shares.

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—With the dollar dropping to new lows before a late rally, stock market operators for the advance put considerable leverage under their favorites today and the 90-share closing composite made anothef new high. The turnover for the season was 6,355,420 shares.

The rise, however, was not perpendicular. After a spirited morning selling hit the rails around noon coincident with a sharp break in Chicago & North Western securities add traders generally began to lighten commitments. The break in this road's common stock was halted as swiftly as it started, facilitating resumption of the rise throughout the market, though improvement tended to be selective. Metal issues, especially gold mining stocks, were strong. Rails continued to drag.

The sudden descent by Chicago & North Western listings recalled the slump in those issues about two months ago, and, like the previous break, it was accompanied by reports, promptly denied, that the road planned a reorganization. Sufficient funds are available, it was said officially, to meet July 1 interest requirements.

Among mining issues, Alaska Juneau, McIntyre Porcupine, International Nickel, Dome, Cerro de Pasco and Patino strengthened 1 to 3 points, while Homestake had an extreme rise of 10, which was later halved. United States Smelting rose nearly 5. Steel stocks moved up with some vigor. United States Steel and Bethlehem showing net gains of a point. Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward were active and higher, while American Telephone, General Electric, Woolworth, North American and Case confined their net improvement to fractions. Allied Chemical jumped about 5. In rails, Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio were off fractions to 2 points; Chicago & Northwestern common reduced a 5-point drop to a point.

Interest in the gold stocks was stimulated not only by early depreciation of the dollar against foreign moneys still tied to that metal, but also by a current crop of rumors to the effect that a "free gold" market may be established here. Little has been heard on this point outside the rumor market, but it is reported that much of the current gold production in this country is being held against possible eventualities.

Dollar fluctuations were wide, sterling rising about 5 cents before it toned down. Dealers reported light transactions, however, and said that small orders, either way, were sufficient to influence quotations substantially.

WHEAT VALUES DROP AS BUYING SLACKENS

Crop Estimates Aid Slow up in Trading; Other Grains Down.

Chicago, June 8 (A.P.).—Halting for the United States Government crop report tomorrow and developments at the World Economic Conference Monday, grain trade slackened today, and prices went lower.

Sensational advances in British exchange failed to act as much of a stimulus. Trade gossip had it that a professional element under able leadership was opposing wheat price advances, but lack of aggressive buying power rather than augmented selling characterized immediate operations.

Wheat closed weak at virtually the the bottom figures reached, ⅝ to ⅞ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅝ to ¾ down; oats ⅛ to ⅝ off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 25 cents decline.

Crop Report Talk.

Hesitancy of wheat buyers was associated with talk that tomorow's Government crop report would not prove as bullish as many traders had expected. It was contended that the report would not show heat damage done until after June 1. Uncertainty as to what effect the deliberations in the World Economic Conference would have on the market was also cited as a deterrent to speculative purchasing and as a reason for selling out of wheat holdings.

To some extent, downturns of wheat values were also attributable to forecasts of a little cooler weather in Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota, with scattered rains reported northwest and showers in Nebraska.

Favorable weather conditions for planting and for crop progress weakened the corn market. Oats responded to damage reports, and temporarily rose to new high record prices for the season.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

COTTON PRICES CUT BY REALIZING DRIVES

July Sells at 9.01 With General Market Down 13 to 15 Points.

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—Cotton reacted today under realising or liquidation and scattered selling influenced by favorable weather and the easier wheat market. October contracts after selling up to 9.46 early, broke to 9.22, and closed at 9.25. The general market finished barely steady at net declines of 13 to 15 points.

An early rise of 3 to 7 points, or to 9.18 for July and 9.61 for December, met increased offerings. Trade demand tapered after the initial buying had run its course, while realising or liquidation was promoted by a favorable interpretation of the weather map and disappointment continued over the absence of definite reports from Washington with reference to possible crop curtailment.

Stop Orders Uncovered.

Some stop orders were uncovered on the break to 8.92 for July and 9.36 for December. Closing prices were at or within 3 points of the lowest for the day.

Liverpool Cables reported a smaller market there with prices lower under liquidation and said the reaction in raw cotton was unsettling the Manchester market for cotton goods. Exports today 44,012, making 7,378,349 so far this season. Port receipts, 9,612; U. S. Port stocks, 3,807,504.

Reports that boll weevil emergence in parts of South Carolina has been somewhat greater than last year's appeared to attract little attention. While press reports from Osaka that Japanese spinners had ceased buying raw cotton from British India was without apparent effect, owing to the Indian duty on non-British cotton cloth.

The late price represented a decline of 4 points on spots and the market was quoted at this level this morning.

Futures sold 1 to 4 points net higher on increased covering and buying by trade interests against sales in the spot market. London cables, while lower, did not fully reflect the decline here yesterday, and with offerings less aggressive prices responded to small buying orders. September contracts, after selling at 1.47, advanced to 1.49, while December rallied from 1.53 to 1.57, but offerings were more liberal on the rally and slight setbacks followed. The market at midday was a point below the best and 1 to 3 net higher.

In refined the new price list of 4.60 became effective and a heavy volume of business was offered refiners. The trade covered requirements for several weeks to come and would have purchased more but refiners, in an effort to discourage overbuying, did not confirm all orders tendered.

ROBINSON MAY BAR LONG'S REELECTION

Arkansan Threatens Fight in Louisiana as Feud Again Flares in Senate.

(Associated Press.)

A renewal of an old feud brought Robinson, of Arkansas, and Long, of Louisiana, face to face in the Senate yesterday in a verbal encounter in which the two Democrats voiced threats each to seek the defeat of the other in coming elections.

Robinson, the Democratic leader, spoke both for himself and his party in the quarrel with Long, and called upon his colleagues "to repudiate him who calls himself a leader and whose acts are to wreck his party."

Amid applause from the galleries, Robinson added a reference to the Louisianan's repeated attacks upon President Roosevelt's program and said that Long was "mad simply because Roosevelt won't let him run the administration."

Long, opposing the pending industrial-public works bill, as he has several other sections of the administration's recovery program, set the wrangle off with a denunciation of Bernard M. Baruch, a New York financier, who he said was influencing the administration.

Baruch's "lieutenants," Long said, were mentioned for administrators of the industrial bill. He said others in the administration of the farm relief program and the Budget Bureau were henchmen of the New Yorker.

Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, demanded that he prove it, and Robinson took the floor to observe "the senator from Louisiana will never see the day he can stand in the class with Bernard M. Baruch."

Referring to Long's recent attack on Brig. Gen. S. T. Ansell, retired, counsel for the Senate committee investigating the 1932 Louisiana senatorial primary, in which Long was involved, and Long's subsequent claim of senatorial immunity to a libel suit by Ansell, Robinson said:

"The Senator from Louisiana attacks private citizens and hides himself behind the cloak of senatorial immunity."

Face reddening, Long shouted he had "settled" a political matter with Robinson in Arkansas in the last election by helping send back to the Senate Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, and added:

"I'll go back to the people of Arkansas again and see who comes back to the Senate."

Turning squarely about from his seat in the front row so that he would face Long, a few rows to the rear, Robinson shot back:

"The senator from Louisiana has boasted that he will go into Arkansas. If he comes into Arkansas, I'll take the liberty of going into Louisiana.

"Knowing the state of affairs in the two States as I do, I'll say he will be repudiated in both of them."

Observing he had played no part in Mrs. Caraway's campaign "as the senator well knows," Robinson launched a general attack upon Long with the declaration:

"He has the habit of abusing almost every one with whom he disagrees. The senator's statements should not be taken as true just because somebody here doesn't waste the time of the Senate to show that, as usual, the senator from Louisiana doesn't know what he is talking about."

To Long's attack on Baruch, a close personal friend of Robinson, the Arkansan said:

"The senator from Louisiana has said Mr. Bernard M. Baruch is the political adviser of the present administration, was the political adviser of the Hoover administration and wrecked the Wilson administration.

"I will say to the senator that Mr. Baruch has never volunteered any suggestion to Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt. He is no busybody and when he visited the White House, he was asked to do so.

"There never has been a downfall of Woodrow Wilson, notwithstanding men like Huey Long who tried to contribute to such a downfall."

As an explanation of Long's attacks upon the Roosevelt program, Robinson advanced:

"Because the President chooses to conduct his own administration, we hear the senator, day after day, rising on this floor, condemning the great leader of the Nation.

"The time has come now to draw the line. It's time for Democrats, who have any hesitation in the performance of their duty, to repudiate him who calls himself a leader and whose acts are to wreck his party."

Long, as Robinson concluded, said he did not think Robinson was "running the country, either," and continued:

"The day will come when Mr. Roosevelt will need us as much as he has in the past. He'll have to come back to the liberal policy."

To Robinson, personally, he directed:

"The senator says he's coming into Louisiana?"

"If you come into Arkansas," replied Robinson.

"I may not have time to come into Arkansas."

"And I may not have time to come into Louisiana."

"Let's call it a day," said Long.

Westervelt Named To Marketing Post

(Associated Press.)

Brig. Gen. William I. Westervelt, of Chicago, retired, research director for Sears-Roebuck and Co., was selected yesterday by George N. Peek, chief administrator, for one of the key positions in administration of the farm adjustment act.

He was named director of processing and marketing, a position which will place him in charge of the drafting of marketing agreements with processors of the basic commodities listed in the farm act—cotton, wheat, rice, corn, hogs, tobacco and dairy products.

Peek also announced appointment of Dr. A. G. Black, of Ames, Iowa., as acting corn-hog production chief. Black has received an indefinite leave of absence from Iowa State College where he has been head of the agricultural economic department. He will assist with drafting of the first policies of the administration in applying the act to corn and hog production.

He 'Molested Vegetables' Beats and Beans Charge

Oklahoma City, June 8 (A.P.).—Only a dusty statute yielded the proper charge when a complaint was filed here today against a man accused of "molesting vegetbles."

Joe Thomas asked John Eberle, assistant county attorney, to file the charge against Charlie Henry. Thumbing pages of one law book after another, Eberle finally found what he wanted—"injuring standing crops." The complaint was filed on behalf of several rows of beans, peas, turnips and beets.

Baby Theft Count Faces Mother of 2

Cincinnati, June 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Virginia Rogers, 31, mother of two children, was held for grand jury action under $25,000 bond today on a charge of stealing a child to satisfy her desire to have another baby of her own. She waived examination in the brief hearing in municipal court.

A grand jury had begun taking testimony in the affair, and officials said they expected an indictment would be returned against Mrs. Rogers today for taking the 6-weeks-old daughter of Mrs. Madeline Sneed, 21, from its home May 31.

Physicians who examined the woman at the direction of the county prosecutor said the woman had suffered from belief she was about to have a child, and that realization that she was mistaken left her with a desire to possess a baby nevertheless.

Italian Is Named As Labor Head

Geneva, June 8 (A.P.).—Workers' representatives in delegations attending the opening meeting today of the International Labor Conference, except those of Germany, abstained from voting when Giuseppe de Michelis, of Italy, was chosen president.

The naming of workers' representatives of the Nazis of Germany and Fascists of Italy on conference committees was opposed by workers.

Governments and employers also have representatives at the conference. The United States Government is represented for the first time since 1919.

Great Britan, Holland and South Africa delegates were elected to the three vice presidential positions.

Woodmen Circle Ends Its National Convention

Omaha, June 8 (A.P.).—The four-day national convention of the Woodmen Circle, women's branch of the Woodmen of the World, ended today with exemplification of ritualistic work by national directors.

Mrs. Harriet T. Donelan, of Columbia, S. C., a national director, was selected to represent the officers at the funeral in Meridian, Miss., of Mrs. Annie E. Watts, national treasurer, who died here yesterday. The body was sent to Meridian today.

Clown Says Knife Cuts Result of "Social Error"

Oklahoma City, June 8 (A.P.).—"I guess I just committed a social error; I had been drinking," was the way John (Red) Sublett, former rodeo circus clown, explained how he received knife wounds in a hotel room here. Officers said the wounds apparently were self-inflicted. Physicians said the showman would recover.

Youth Gulps Cash Averting Robbery

Billings, Mont., June 8 (A.P.).—William Dickenson, 17, came to a doctor today to see if he could get the price of his next meal out of his stomach.

Held up by two men, Dickenson saved his total finances—65 cents and a trade chip—by putting them into his mouth. Disgusted because they found nothing, the holdup men slugged Dickenson, shaking down 65 cents and the chip.

The doctor took the chip from Dickenson's esophagus, staked the youth to some solid food and took under advisement the project of salvaging the 65 cents.

40 Held as Treason Suspects.

Vienna, June 8 (A.P.).—Forty soldiers and government employes who had attended a Nazi meeting were under arrest today on suspicion of having committed high treason. No indictments had been filed this morning.

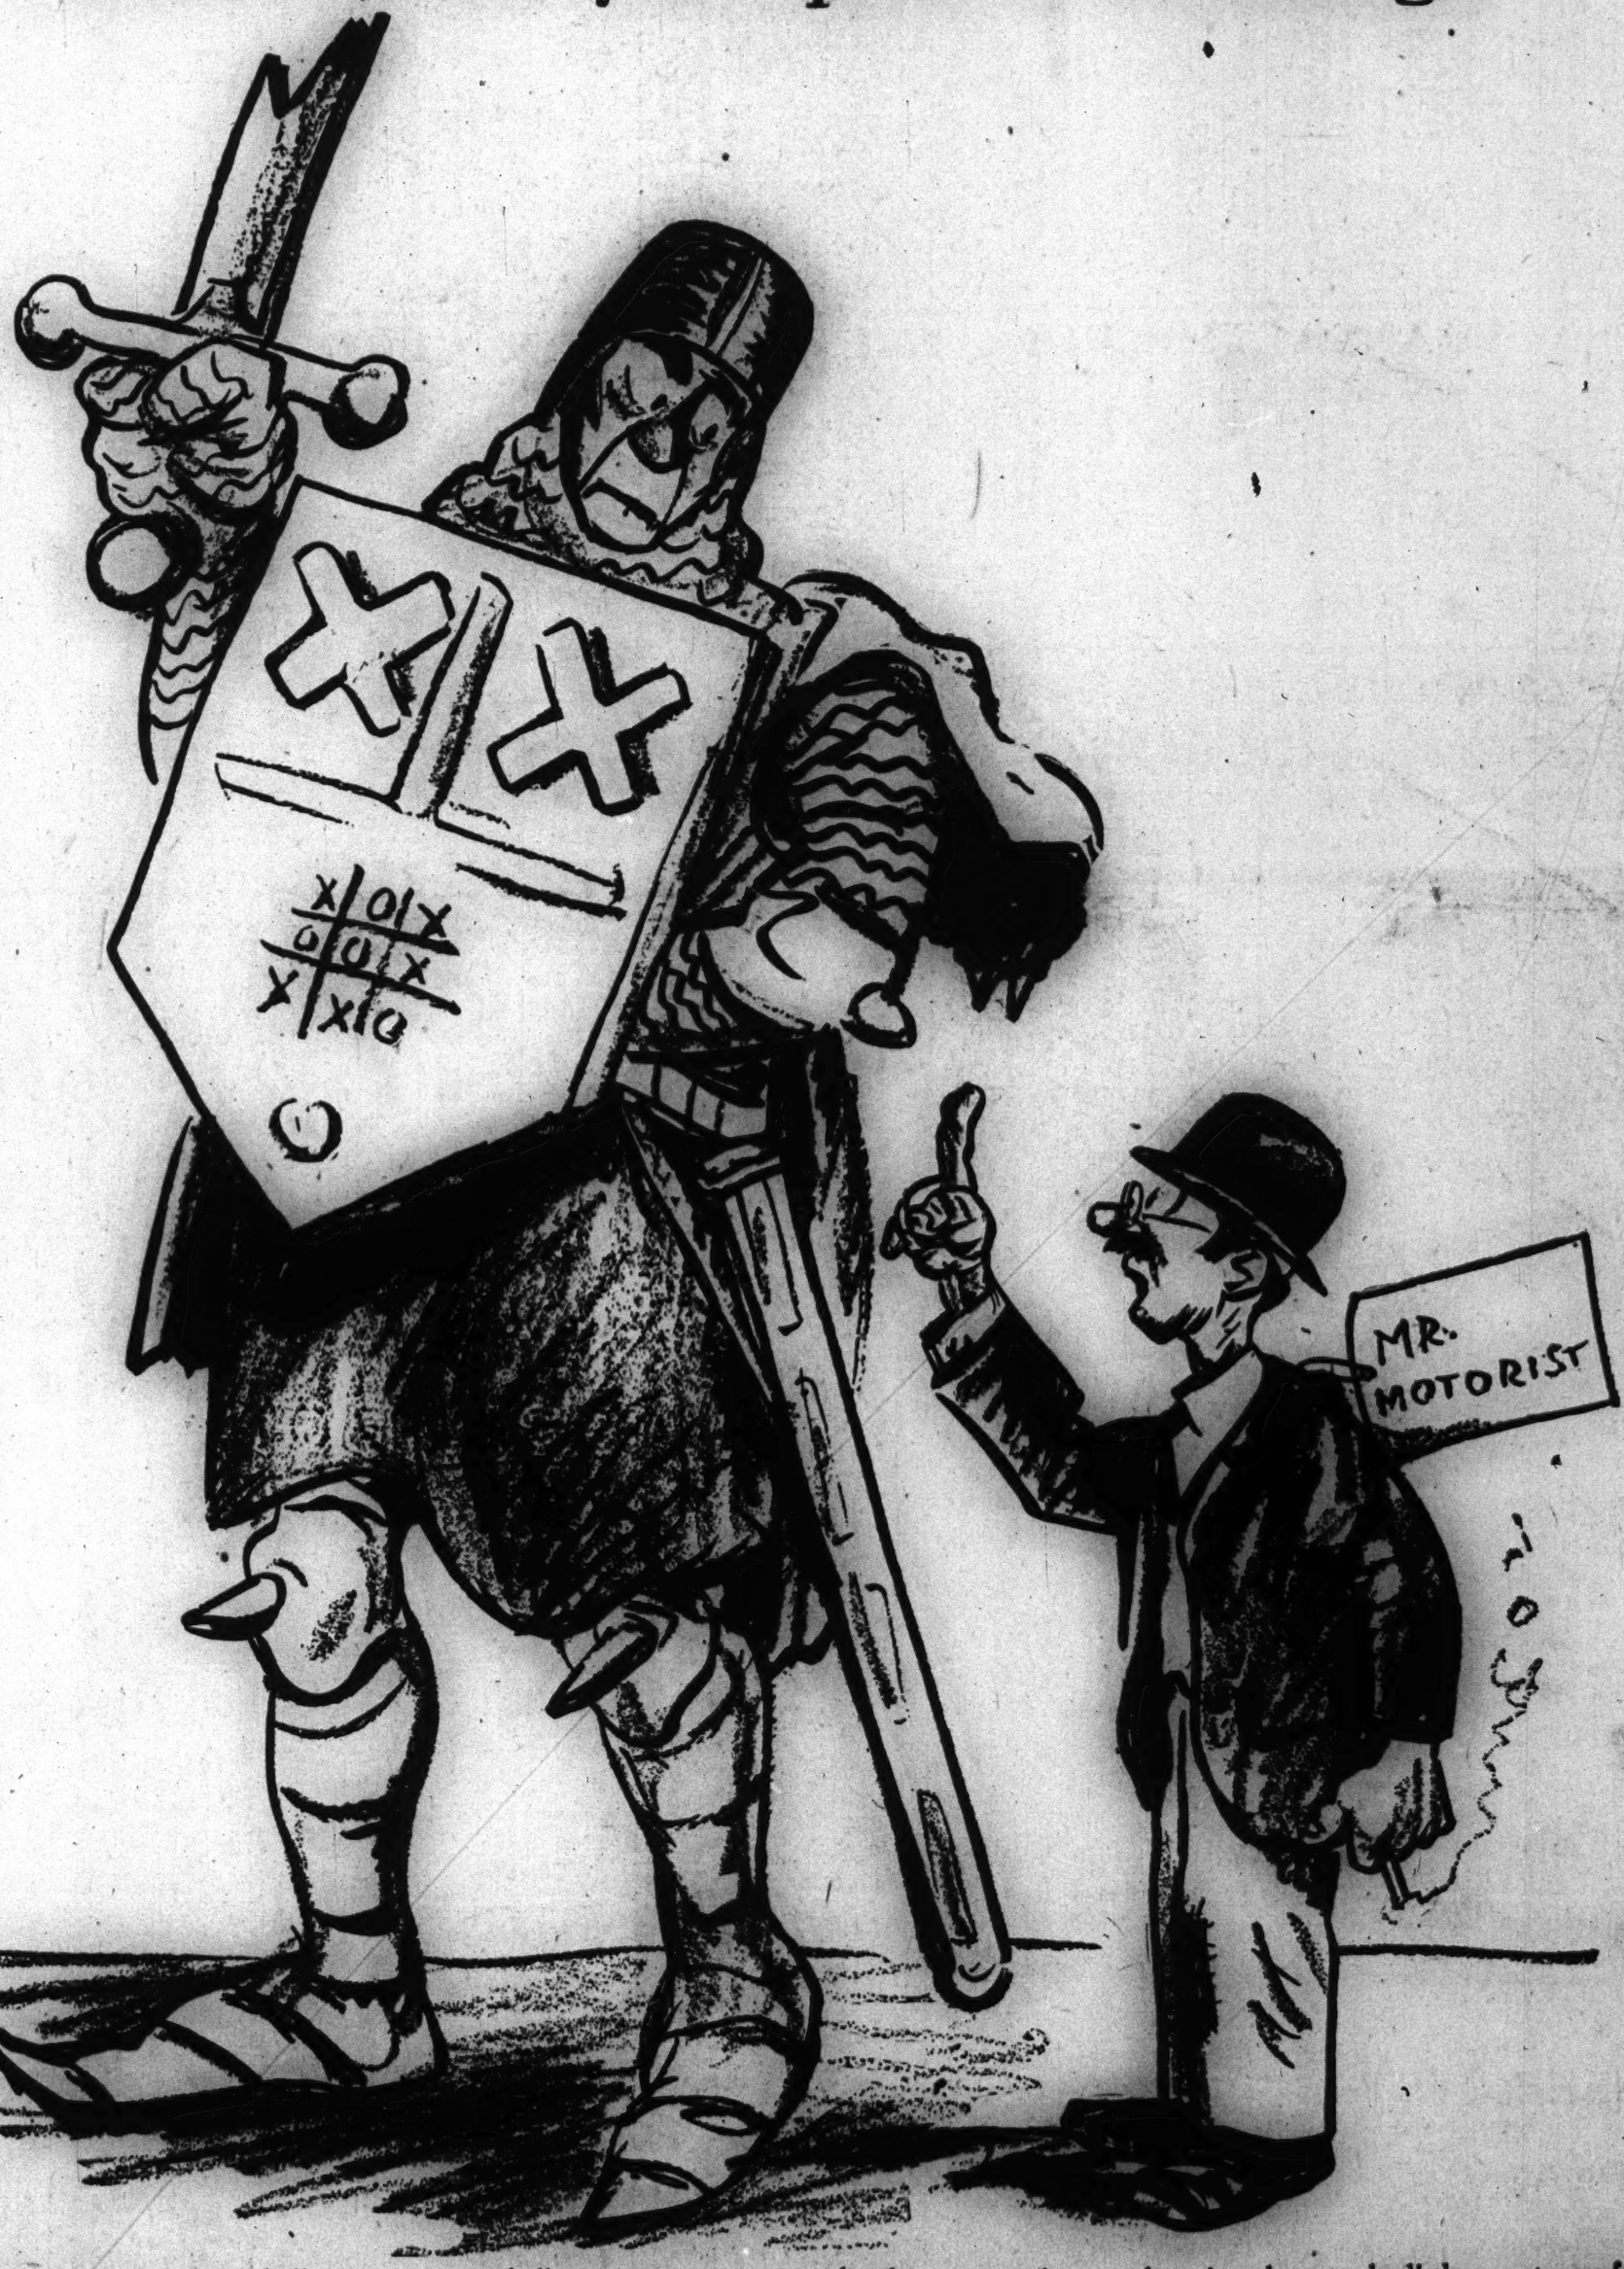
Brother, can you spare a challenge?



It's the open season for gasoline challenges, counter-challenges, guarantees--or what have you. They are throwing them at the little man to confuse him. But he is not confused. He wants to make a challenge, too! Just a mild 14¼ Belmont collar size challenge. It's a challenge that comes from the heart--not from the dictionary. He says, "Never mind the ballyhoo. They can't experiment with my money. If facts ever prove that any regular gas is better than Orange American Gas, I'll listen. Not before! I know what I'm getting in Orange American. So far as I'm concerned, Orange American Gas always was -and still is--the best gasoline selling at regular gas price."

NORTH SHORE GOLF CLUB, Glenview, Ill., June 8 (A.P.).—The battle-scarred black Scot of golf, Tommy Armour, of Chicago, ripped an otherwise close fight for the United States open golf championship wide apart today with a record-smashing 68, 4 under par.

This blistering performance under windy conditions that harassed all his rivals gave Armour a 5-stroke lead over the field and quickly established him an odds on favorite to take the national crown away from Gene Sarazen, who was 6 strokes behind, with a 74, after the first 18 holes of the 72-hole championship fight.

The black Scot gave his greatest shot-making exhibition since he won 17 Hits Are Made Off 3 Boston Boxmen in Final Game.

FENWAY PARK, Boston, June 8.—The Nationals had a splendid opportunity offered them to do themselves considerable good today, with the leading Yankees losing to the Athletics, but they passed it up, gaining no better than an even break in their double-header with the tail-end Boston Red Sox.

It looked as though the Nats would cop the opener until the very last round, when their foes suddenly rallied and scored two runs to win, 4 to 3. In the final game, it was never close, the Nats pounding three of the native hurlers for 17 hits to romp home in front, 12 to 3.

At that, some progress was made in the race, the Washington Club climbing back into second place when

Foxx Slams 3 Home Runs; Macks Beat Yanks, 14-10

PHILADELPHIA, June 8 (A.P.).—Three home runs by Jimmie Foxx on his first three trips to the plate, plus 16 other assorted blows gave the Athletics their first victory of the season over the New York Yankees today. The final count of the swatfest was 14 to 10.

The three homers gave Foxx a total of eleven so far. Lou Gehrig equaled that total with a circuit blow in the sixth and, after being tied for the major league lead, Babe Ruth regained the top place by clouting his twelfth homer in the last inning with Young Raymond Coombs as his victim.

In spite of all this long-distance hitting, the game was not settled until the eighth inning, when the A's slammed over six runs off Wiley Moore. Ed Coleman's double with the bases full was the deciding blow. Then a couple of walks and singles by Finney and Williams settled the argument.

All of Foxx's three homers came off Lefty Vernon Gomez and they ac-

Barry Knocked Out By Galento in First

Special to The Washington Post.

Yankee Stadium, N. Y., June 8.—Pudgy Tony Galento, Cleveland heavyweight, blasted Donald (Red) Barry, of Washington, D. C., into a one-round knockout defeat tonight in the Schmeling-Baer preliminary that was staged after the feature bout.

Galento caught up with the backpedalling Barry just before two minutes of the first round had passed and administered a crushing right-hand wallop to the Washingtonian's chin to stretch Barry out at full length in his own corner where he lay without moving a muscle and took the full count.

It was the first knockout of the career of young Barry, who was the protege of Mushky Jackson, attached to Schmeling's training staff. Outweighed, 220 pounds to 197, Barry never had a chance with Galento, who rushed him from the outset and pummeled him with wild swings to the head and body.

Barry was out, irrevocably. His seconds led him across the ring for his exit and he collapsed, pulling them all down with him. He recovered in his dressing room.

In other preliminaries, Charley Massera, of Pittsburgh, won an eight-round decision over Abe Feldman; Jack Van Noy, 206-pounder from Los Angeles, outpointed Phil Cohen, of the Bronx, and Jack Redman, Negro heavyweight from South Bend, Ind., won the verdict over Marty Fox, of New York.

GERMAN HELPLESS AS REFEREE STOPS BOUT TO END GREATEST OF MODERN PUGILISTIC UPSETS

Celebrities in Fight Crowd

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 8.—The Crowd of 65,000 fans watching Max Baer, the California grizzly, and Max Schmeling, the German idol, fight it out here tonight set some kind of a record to shoot at in these days. And the gate receipts of well above $200,000 are not to be sneezed at, no matter who is fighting.

The battle tonight, presenting a cautious, somewhat monotonous workman of the ring in a fight with a hilarious prankster, meaning Schmeling and Baer, in the order named, had no bearing on the heavyweight championship although the runneruptcy was supposed to be at stake. Schmeling lost the title to Jack Sharkey a year ago and the highest bauble, as the boys call it, goes into competition again late this month in a bout between Sharkey and Primo Carnera, who were present this evening, scouting the show. The winner may meet the winner of the Sharkey-Carnera fight, but that is a matter which is still subject to haggling and publicity.

The night was stifling hot and the high structure of the grand stands shut out any breeze which might have been trying to crash through and fan the customers. There was a battery of 70 huge funnel-shaped ring lights suspended just above the fighters' heads, which did nothing to mitigate the heat. The smoke of the customers' cigarettes hung in the still air as though it had been built there and all around the ring the gents shucked their coats and slipped down their suspenders, surrendering expensive style for comfort.

The boys in the working press row kept hooting at Gen. Phelan, of the prize fight commission, to put the fighters into the ring for the main event without delay in anticipation of an electrical storm, which they seemed to scent in the air. However, there was no sprinkle up to the time Baer, the first of the gladiators on the scene, stepped into the ring to confront a large battery of photographers with their tin foil flash bulbs poised. Schmeling hopped up onto the scaffold a few seconds later and drew a fair sort of holler from the attendance. There was no demonstration of hostility to him, however, on account of his nationality, and neither was there any special expression of adherence to the Baer side of the argument. The matter of the persecution of the Jews by the Hitler government in Germany seemed to figure not at all in the interest of the customers.

The ringside was surrounded with parties of the celebrity type. There were Grover Whalen, of course, and Bernard Gimbel, naturally, and Gene Tunney, and Roxy and actors and successful hoodlums and beautiful blondes wearing no more personal tackle than you could slip into the case of a thin watch.

A squad of men in olive drab uniforms, carrying banners of the veterans of foreign wars, climbed thorugh the ropes at the last moment before the main event and fired a salute to the memory of the late William Muldoon, the prizefight commissioner, who died and was buried within the week.

Old Joe Humphries, his bald head dewey with perspiration, took the center and hollered an oration for the "grand old man of fistinia" just before the bugler blew taps to an upstanding, bareheaded and silent throng. Then they cleared the ring. The photographers fired their last bulbs at the fighters and they shook hands and whirled to their corners to wait for the bell.

They waited, the bell rang—and they were off.

Going to Win Title, Max Baer Declares

Yankee Stadium, New York, June 8 (A.P.).—While a platoon of blue coats foughts to hold back a crowd of yelling fans that threatened to overrun his dressing room, Max Baer stood under a soothing shower and shouted at the top of his lungs:

"Boys, I'm going to win that championship! I told you so. I'm going to win that championship!"

That was about all anybody could get out of the Livermore larruper. He was so happy over his stunning knockout of Max Schmeling, the former champion, a few minutes before that he wasn't interested in the details.

"How did I do it? Why, I just hung this ring on that German's jaw," and he thrust out a fist that looked like a smoked Virginia ham.

"I think I could have put him away before the tenth round if my manager, Ancil Hoffman, had let me go. But he kept telling me to take it easy. That was the plan, to wait until Schmeling got a little tired, and then knock his block off. Boy, I did it, didn't I?"

N. Y. Mayor's Car Hits Boy En Route to Fight

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—As Mayor John P. O'Brien was riding to the Baer-Schmeling fight tonight his automobile ran over 10-year-old Theodore Frank on upper Park avenue. The mayor took the boy to the hospital, saw two stitches taken in his scalp and received assurances he would be taken home before proceeding to the stadium.

The boy darted in front of the automobile despite the sirens of two motorcycle policemen who preceded it.

Barrage of Punches in 9th Paves Way for Triumph.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 8 (A.P.).—A roaring, rollicking, punching young demon from California, brawny, handsome Max Baer, came out of the far West with the charge of another Jack Dempsey tonight to smash down Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion of the world, in ten rounds before a thunderstruck crowd of 65,000.

From the State that sent Jack Dempsey himself East, and Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries before him, the curly-headed butcher boy of Livermore came to outclass the dogged Schmeling from the start, smash him groggy in the ninth, then with such savagery as the ring hasn't seen since the departure of the Old Man Mauler crush the Teuton in the tenth.

It was one of the greatest upsets that the modern ring has seen as Schmeling, favorite at as high as 4 to 1, before the battle started, never had a chance once the opening bell sounded on Dempsey's first big promotional venture.

Short, Crushing Rights Productive.

The short, crushing right-hand punches that knocked out Johnny Risko, Mickey Walker and "Young" Stribling bounced off Baer's wide grinning countenance as if the German was punching a brick wall. And in turn the long-armed Californian, punching short and with the power of a 5-inch shell in his right hand, battered the German's head about as he pleased.

Through the first three rounds the huge Baer, with 13¾ pounds of weight in his favor, and inches in height and reach, tossed Schmeling around the ring, whipping left hooks to the body, banging rights to the head, laughing at the German's punches, apparently enjoying himself immensely.

Baer seemed to bide his time until the ninth, when he caught Schmeling full on the side of the head with one of the terrific right crosses that had

SLAPSTICK, 22-1, WINS WASHINGTON PARK FEATURE RACE

Mayer Rides Outsider to Triumph

Broad Meadows Bows by Neck; Bedight Saves Show.

Helianthus Is Winner at Belmont With Eva B. Second.

WASHINGTON PARK, Ill., June 8 (A.P.).—Slapstick, a rank outsider in the wagering, carried the colors of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney to victory for the first time of the Washington Park meeting today in the Hubbard Woods, a 6-furlong dash.

Ridden by Jockey J. Mayer, Slapstick led from the rise of the barrier and had just enough left to beat Col. Edward R. Bradley's Broad Meadows by a neck in 1:11 4-5. Broad Meadows, with Jack Westrope up, went postward the favorite and made a stirring, but futile effort to catch the winner. Bedight saved the short end of the purse.

Slapstick, a 3-year-old daughter of Broomstick—Transit, paid the handsome price of $46.80 to win, $16.08 to place and $5.70 to show.

Helianthus Wins At Belmont.

Belmont Park Race Track, New York, June 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dodge Sloan's capable plater, Helianthus, won his second purse in a row here today when he easily defeated a half dozen of his kind in the thirty-fourth running of the Harlem Claiming Stakes over the mile route. Under 119 pounds, the son of Sun Flag galloped past the judges with five lengths to spare over J. J. Robinson's Eva B. The Sagamore Stable's War was third, another six lengths behind.

Overnight rains failed to do the track much harm, the strip drying out very fast. Helianthus, favorite at 8 to 5, ran the eight furlongs in the fast time of 1:37 3-5. The race was worth $1,945 to the winner.

Fractious at the post, Helianthus broke well enough and jumped into the lead in the first furlong. He opened up a wide gap over War and Gildella. Owner Robinson declared to win with the latter, but the other half of the entry, Eva B, proved more capable. This filly charged up fast on the inside coming to the stretch and seemed a threat temporarily, but Helianthus merely galloped to maintain his wide lead after turning into the home lane.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: WASHINGTON PARK, JUNE 8.

Sent the boys to the pay window only twice today and then the return was nothing to brag about. Hamilton and Miscalculate stepped down for the great Bennings, but otherwise he had to be satisfied with money positions. At other tracks we fared poorly. However, we're due for a killing, in fact, overdue. And tomorrow may be the day. My old friend Mike turned up and I shooed him off to the stables in the hope of picking up a few good things. Here's some at other courses for today: Bel Ora, Trajectory, Catino, Little Jay, Peetee B. BILL.

FIRST RACE—SONG HIT must break from the outside in this dash, but has sufficient speed to make up for that handicap. I do believe. BILLIE'S ORPHAN will be there or thereabouts at the finish and must be taken care of before any of these earn a set of brackets. SAD KNIGHT to show.

SECOND RACE—CLOUD D' OR has the best figures in this group and gets the Bennings call, despite the fact that he is far down the list. This is another that must break from the outside. SIR TEN and SUN ABBOTT are shifty juveniles and will not stay long in the maiden ranks.

THIRD RACE — GRAND PRINCE gives away chunks of weight, but packs sufficient punch to lead a field of this caliber to the wire. MARCH KING is at tops and must be beaten. HOT SHOT pops up once in a while and can be considered as a dangerous contender.

FOURTH RACE—GRACIOUS GIFT just missed a purse the other day and off that effort goes to the top of my list. Has worked well. ROYAL TREASURE and GOLDEN SUN are fit and ready for the best. Either will upset the top one if mistakes are made.

FIFTH RACE—ETCETRA ran a good race but curled right at the finish in that last. Might have needed that race. IDEALIST was well liked by the stable in Maryland and may surprise by crashing the money circle tomorrow. OUTBOUND to take care of the others.

SIXTH RACE—ON SIR is in rare form and anything that beats him here will know he has been in a hoss race. LATE DATE is better than rated hereabouts. GAY WORLD to wander into the show award.

SEVENTH RACE—I'm going to light weight in an effort to get a price in this. PANTALOONS gets in action with only 98 pounds and this way rigged must be played. DESERT CALL and MISS MELODY for the rest. If the latter wins, there should be an investigation.

EIGHTH RACE—TRYANDAGAIN is toted about the country for situations like this one. PIECEMEAL and PARTIES to fill out the cash picture.

Eastern and Tech Faculties to Meet

Members of the faculties of Eastern and Tech High Schools will meet today on the field of honor in an alleged baseball game. Eastern High School's stadium has been selected as the field of battle, principally because there is no baseball field at Tech.

Charles Hart, principal of Eastern, will be a most interested spectator. Hart is the proud possessor of a silver cowbell, presented to him by the firm of Pearson & Crain, which he drags forth from the family vault each year to ring at the game. Every hit, every run and every putout is heralded by the tinkling of the bell. Oh, hear the bells.

Members of the committee in charge of the affair are undecided about whether the public shall be admitted. It seems that the professors are rather modest about their athletic prowess, especially in baseball. It has been agreed that the game shall be called at 7:30 p. m., regardless of which side is ahead. A motion to declare the team scoring the first 100 runs the winner was voted down because it was feared that one of the clubs would get no turn at bat.

Dick Lunn Leading Chevy Chase Golf

Dick Lunn, 18-year-old Chevy Chase invitation golf champion, will seek to add to his laurels this afternoon with the playing of the final 18 holes of the 72-hole battle for the Chevy Chase Club championship.

Lunn, whose scintillating 67, 2 below par, registered on Wednesday, tied Maurice Nee's record-breaking score in the invitation event a few weeks ago, yesterday turned in a 73 in his third round to maintain a six-stroke lead over the defending champion, Freddie Hitz, who also shot a 73.

Lunn now has a 214 total, and Hitz a 220. W. Beverly Mason, jr., is in third place with a 80—78—76—231, while C. Ashmead Fuller is fourth with 76—76—81—233. Frank Reeside, jr., yesterday withdrew after making an 85—77 for the first two days.

Pittsburgh, June 8 (A.P.).—Vince Dundee, a leading contender for the middleweight crown, battered Frankie Goosby, Pittsburgh Negro battler, into submission tonight in the eighth round of a 15-round bout. The knockout came after Dundee had led most of the way.

Harry Jacoby, 166, Newark, Ohio, knocked out Billy Niche, 162, Pittsburgh, in the fourth round of a 5-round fight.

ARMY-NAVY LEECH CUP TENNIS MATCH OFF THIS SEASON

Soldier Team Is Stripped Of Stars

Triple C Assignments Take Most of Talent From Army.

District Title Event Entry List to Be Affected.

ONE of the outstanding events on the National Capital tennis schedule, the annual match between the Army and Navy teams for possession of the Leech Cup, will not be played this year, The Post learned last night. Navy won last year's match by a score of 5 to 2.

Capt. E. J. House, secretary-treasurer of the Army Tennis Association, said last night that the pressing need of regular officers for the Triple Cs, as the Civilian Conservation Corps is referred to, had stripped the Army team of its best players, while not affecting the Navy. He said it was hoped to renew the competition next year.

It is feared that the decision not to play this year may affect the District of Columbia tournament, which Dolf Muehleisen, of the Army, won in 1932. Muehleisen, a flying cadet, was seeded No. 1, a rating which he proved his right to by winning over Dooley Mitchell in straight sets in the finals.

In addition to Muehleisen, the Army roster included Lieut. Stanley K. Robinson, Army champion; Maj. R. C. Van Vliet and Lieut. J. H. Drake. The Navy team was composed of Lieut. J. K. McCue, Lieut. R. M. Watt, Lieut. G. W. Smith, Ensign James M. Ferrin and Lieut. Comdr. Vincent Godfrey.

Reds Pound 3 Pirate Pitchers to Win, 8 to 2

Pittsburgh, June 8 (A.P.).—Eppa Rixey exercised the old Pirate jinx again today and Cincinnati hammered three Pittsburgh pitchers for an 8 to 2 victory, subtracting a few more points from the home team's decreasing percentage.

Cards Beat Cubs, Dean Giving 3 Hits

St. Louis, June 8 (A.P.).—Dizzy Dean held the Chicago Cubs to three hits today and the St. Louis Cardinals maintained their second-place position on the heels of the Giants by defeating the National League champions, 2 to 1.

The victory was Dizzy's sixth against five defeats. It was scored at the expense of Lon Warneke, the Cub's right-handed ace, who was seeking his ninth triumph of the season. The defeat was his fourth. The other three were at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds.

Dean was in excellent form. He struck out five men and held the enemy hitless for five innings. If he had not issued two passes in the sixth inning he might have registered a shutout.

5TH IN ROW IS LOST BY INDIANS

Browns Stage 4-Run Rally in 4th and Win, 5 to 3.

CLEVELAND, June 8 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns hiked the Indians' losing streak up to five straight games today, by taking the first game of their series, 5 to 3.

An error by Bill Cissell and a home run by Jack Crouch figured in a four-run rally staged by the Browns in the fourth. Cissell muffed Storti's grounder for what should have been the third out. Levey singled, scoring Garms, who had led off with a safety, and Crouch followed with his four-base blow.

TIGERS BEAT CHISOX IN 10TH, 3-2

Take Fifth Straight and Send Chicago Into 3d Place.

CHICAGO, June 8 (A.P.).—After a home run by Jonathan Stone had tied the score in the ninth, the Detroit Tigers went on to defeat Chicago, 3 to 2, today for their fifth straight victory. The defeat was the White Sox's first in seven games, but tumbled them to third place in the American League.

The winning run was scored on an error by Catcher Frank Grube, who dropped a perfect throw from Luke Appling, permitting Elom Hogsett to count. Sad Sam Jones went into the ninth with a two-run lead, but singles by White and Owen, with an infield out, scored one run, and Stone's homer tied it up.

Boyle, of Baltimore, Obtained by Dodgers

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the purchase of Ralph Boyle, slugging outfielder of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League, for Del Bissonette, one of Brooklyn's two first basemen, and an unnamed amount of cash.

Boyle hit .314 in the International League last season and has been going at a .370 clip this year.

Indians to Oust Peck For Gilbert, Rumored

Special to The Washington Post.

Cleveland, June 8.—Although confirmation is lacking, there is a strong rumor here that Larry Gilbert, manager of the New Orleans Pelicans, of the Southern Association, is due to succeed Roger Peckinpaugh as leader of the Cleveland Indians and that this action will be taken at a meeting of the directors of the Cleveland club tomorrow.

Sometime ago, President Alva Bradley went to New York when the Tribe was playing the Yankees and urged the players to do their best to save Peckinpaugh's job for him. "The club appoints the manager, but the fans dismiss him," he said, "and Cleveland baseball followers are yelling for Peck's scalp." The Tribe has not improved its play since, today's defeat being its fifth in a row.

Boston Frays Are Divided By Nats

Slug Way to Victory After Bowing in First, 4-3.

the Detroit Tigers came from behind and took an extra-inning game from the White Sox.

Al Thomas pitched a good game in the opener, granting but one run until the ninth. Then he suddenly weakened and allowed the Sox to snatch victory from his very grasp. Ferrell opened this round with a double. After two had been disposed of, Johnson took two strikes and then doubled the tying run home, putting Werber, who had coaxed a pass, on third. McManus was intentionally passed, filling the bases, and then Thomas passed Seeds, forcing the winning run across the plate.

With the Nats pounding the ball hard and timely, the nightcap was just a breeze, especially as Pitcher Jack Russell held his former mates to but eleven well-scattered hits and was particularly effective in the pinches.

The Nats sewed up the game in the eighth, when they staged a six-run rally and, just for luck, they added three more in their ninth. Previously, they had molded one marker from Schulte's scratch hit, Kuhel's double and an out in the second and two more in the fourth. The ingredients of this pair were Kuhel's safe bunt and theft, Bluege's single and Berg's double.

Nats Pack Away Game In Eighth.

Manush and Goslin singled and Cronin walked to fill the bases starting the big eighth. Seeds made a good running catch of Schulte's foul but Kuhel scored two with a two-bagger. Bluege was purposely passed and Harris, up for Berg, sent a fly to Cooke on which Cronin scored after the catch. Russell, Myer and Manush, up for the second time in the frame, singled in rapid order, bringing home three more runs, and a walk to Goslin filled the bases again. The round ended when Cronin lofted to Johnson.

Several of the Nats fattened their batting averages, especially Joe Kuhel. He cracked out six hits, all told, two singles in the opener and two doubles and another brace of one-shots in the nightcap. Schulte and Manush were credited with four hits for the day, with Manager Joe Cronin being the only regular to go hitless during the afternoon.

ZAHARIAS FLOPS STEINKE FOR CHANCE AT LONDOS' TITLE

German Giant Downed in 33½ Min.

Coleman's Kangaroo Flop Beats Davis in Semifinal.

Olsen Shows Pep in Tossing Katan in Quick Time.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

TWO hundred and thirty pounds of German beef were unceremoniously dumped in a heap at Griffith Stadium last night, marking the end, temporarily at least, of Hans Steinke's aspirations for a bout with Jim Londos. A shrieking crowd of 3,500 saw George Zaharias kick and punch the ancient but honest Dutchman into submission.

Washington's Fourth of July celebration benefited by their presence, for the National Capital civic committee was the recipient of gate receipts over and above actual expenses.

Abe Coleman hurled himself through the air and planted his feet squarely in the middle of handsome Karl Davis' anatomy to take the decision in an entertaining semifinal. As a whole the card was good, and well received by the crowd.

Steinke Has Edge Early In Bout.

Steinke applied his knowledge of the pretzel business to Zaharias' person with telling effect in the earlier stages of their bout, but George retaliated with his very best brand of roughing and Steinke's chassis couldn't take it.

Zaharias found himself on the receiving end of some stiff punching at the outset and it looked as though Mr. Benny Bortnick would be counting over his prostrate form before long. The Dutchman pummelled his opponent around the ring and into a corner where he stood and lambasted him with every thing but "Tex" Stephens' spectacles. "Tex," incidentally, was pinch-hitting for Jimmy Lake, the truant announcer, who played hookey to see Max Baer win over Schmeling.

But when Zaharias' ire and indignation reached the proper pitch, he sailed into Hans and proceeded to make life miserable for him. For fully 10 minutes the "Hot-cha" boy kicked, slapped and tossed his opponent around. Then with a mighty heave, he lifted the huge hulk that was Steinke high in the air and sent him crashing into the mat with a thud that shook the ring. Hans blinked once or twice in his best Frankenstein manner.

Bortnick counted, and the bout was over. The time was 33½ minutes.

Kangaroo Flop Wins for Coleman.

Coleman used a "kangaroo flop," about the same method used by Joe Savoldi, in disposing of Davis. Davis was unable to catch the little fellow very often, and when he did Coleman slipped out of the hold with little trouble.

Swede Olsen, a wiry young fellow who has more pep than all the rest of the 99,000 men in the game, took 15 minutes to pin John Katan with a back wrist lock and the usual body press. Olsen drew a thunderous volley of applause from the gallery by his clever work.

Frank Speers dusted off Frank Brunowicz in 19 minutes with a body press, despite the entreaties of the crowd for a Brunowicz victory. Speers enhanced his standing in the villiany league at least 20 per cent by his tactics.

Tom Alley and Andy Brown struggled through 30 minutes to a draw in the opening bout, the only one on the card to go the route.

The Fight Round by Round

(Associated Press.)

ROUND ONE—Instead of crouching and rushing, the big Baer moved slowly into Schmeling and ripped a hard left hook into the head. Encouraged, the big fellow leaped on Schmeling and smashed him to the ropes, banging both hands to the German's body. He did it so easily the crowd leaped to its feet, roared, "rush him" and Baer tore back in again. He hooked his left behind the German's head and smashed Schmeling across the ring, beating him with a free right hand. Again Baer played that trick, but this time Schmeling pulled back and smashed a terrific right to Baer's face. The Californian grabbed the top rope for support and blood poured from his nose as he covered quickly. Schmeling drove a right to the heart and tossed a long right as the bell sounded.

ROUND FOUR—Baer's defense was far more capable than any one had expected as Schmeling moved in and found himself smothered by the Californian's arms. They swapped lefts to the face, then each drove a terrific right to to the jaw. Both stopped short, but Baer rallied quickest and smashed both hands in a storm of thudding punches toSchmeling's head. They locked heads and each tried to find an opening through the welter of the others arms. Suddenly they switched to the head with a roaring free-handed exchange that brought the crowd up shouting. Despite the terrific punishment he had taken, Schmeling rallied strongly and drove Baer into a corner, cuffing the tall Californian's head with short hooks inside as the bell caught Baer hauling back his right for a long distance smash.

ROUND FIVE—The excitement was so great around the ringside that fights were breaking out in the rear pews among the customers. Apparently a bit wearied from the pace, Baer stood off and boxed as Schmeling moved constantly in on him, trying to force openings for his heavy right and short choppy left jabs. Schmeling hooked a hard left to the head and crossed his right solidly to the jaw but Baer reached the German with a right that started his left eye closing. Baer thundered in with both hands, whipping them to the head, but Schmeling merely shook his black thatch and came doggedly back for more. He got it as Baer held him off with a left and chopped his right short to the head. Schmeling leaned back in again, thumping both hands to the body, but Baer reached the Teuton with a long right to the head and a left hook to the body as the bell sounded.

ROUND SIX—Baer danced away, meeting Schmeling's charge with a long left that bounced from the German's eyebrows. Referee Donovan warned Baer for sneaking punches in the clinches. They swapped punches to the head along the ropes and Baer almost drove Schmeling from the ring with a right high on the temple. The German shook his head and crowded back in, stabbing his left to the head as Baer seemed to loaf along. Again Baer was warned, this time for backhand punching. They stood in a corner and shot short right smashes to the jaw, but Baer still loafed along, letting Schmeling force the fight and set the pace. As the round ended. Referee Donovan's warning automatically gave the round to Schmeling in the scoring.

ROUND SEVEN — Baer stepped in with two long rights high to Schmeling's head, but the German ripped back with a pair of rights that stopped the Californian short. Again Referee Donovan caught Baer backhanding, and warned him as Schmeling pinned his burly foe against the ropes and smashed his body with both hands. Baer drove a long left and right to Schmeling's body, but the steam seemed to be seeping from the Californian's blows. Schmeling crowded inside, drummed both hands to the body and lifted a left hook to the chin. Baer then threw both hands half-heartedly to the head, lifted a right uppercut to Schmeling's jaw and crossed a fine long right to Schmeling's head, but the German fought back stolidly as Baer missed another long left to the head Baer smashed his right to the head as the round ended.

ROUND EIGHT—Baer had slowed down considerably, lost some of his savagery, as he tried to fend the dogged Schmeling off with a long left hand. Baer ripped a looping left to the body and dropped a short, hard right on Schmeling's chin, but the German slipped in close and tucked his head out of danger on Baer's chest. Baer took a hard right to the head, drove Schmeling into the ropes, swinging both fists to the chin, but took two short right smashes on the chin as they came away. No matter how hard Baer seemed to hit the German, Schmeling came boring back, his hands working busily inside. Baer flailed Schmeling's head with both hands and the crowd booed as the Californian backhanded again, twisted Schmeling around and banged him from behind with a left as the bell rang.

ROUND NINE—Schmeling's seconds changed his trunks between rounds.

The German, apparently as fresh as when he started, though there were swellings around both his eyes, shuffled forward into a right hand smash to the head. Baer drove both hands to the body, then measured the German with a volley of right hand smashes to the head.

Schmeling laid back against the ropes, apparently badly hurt as Baer reached him again with another booming right to the jaw, but once more Baer hurt his own game by backhanding as the crowd booed.

Schmeling shook himself and got in close, working both hands to the body, but once more he ran into a terrific fusillade of short left and right jolts to the chin. Baer was punching as short as Schmeling usually did, hitting Schmeling almost at will with either hand in a neutral corner. Baer kept slugging after the bell and Schmeling waved protest to the referee as he stumbled a bit going to his corner.

ROUND TEN—Baer tore out savagely in an effort to finish the German, smashing his right three times on Schmeling's head. But the Teuton bobbed low, came up inside and nailed Baer right to the chin that set the Californian's nose bleeding. A volley of right and left smashes stood Schmeling helpless. A right floored Schmeling after a volley had punshed him terrifically.

Schmeling stumbled to his feet at the count of nine but he was helpless and Baer smashed him with both hands. Referee Donovan stepped in and stopped the fight after one minute and 51 seconds of the tenth round.

Mrs. Wooton, Mrs. Hill in Golf Final

Will Meet Today at Rock Creek for Muny Title.

MRS. MAE HILL, finalist in 1932, will clash with Mrs. Peggy Wooton this morning at Rock Creek's course for the District women's public links golf championship.

Mrs. Hill yesterday brushed aside the last obstacle in her round before the finals by beating Mrs. Florence Godfrey, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Wooton reached the finals by scoring a thrilling 1-up victory over Miss Betty Garber, one of the tourney favorites.

Winner of medal honors on Monday by virtue of her 90, Mrs. Hilla, a veteran golfer, who won the public links title in 1931, continued her rock-steady stroking in eliminating Mrs. Godfrey. Mrs. Hill was 2 up at the turn and won three more holes before the climax came on the fourteenth hole.

Mrs. Wooton's Victory Mild Upset.

Mrs. Wooton, in defeating the long-driving Miss Garber, scored a rather mild upset. It was a ding-dong struggle, with Miss Garber holding a 1-up advantage at the turn.

In the consolation round, Mrs. Nick Altrock reached the finals by beating Mrs. G. F. James, 2 and 1, and will meet Mrs. Gordon Rule, conqueror of Mrs. Evelyn Glavias, 7 and 5.

Czechoslovakia Beats Greek Davis Cup Team

Prague, June 8 (U.P.).—Winning the doubles match, Czechoslovakia today eliminated Greece from the third round of the European Zone Davis Cup tennis championships. Roderich Menzel and Franz Marsalek won the doubles over George Nicolaides and Stefanos Xydis, 6—1, 6—1, 6—1.

In the singles matches, Joseph Siba defeated Nicolaides and Menzel beat Lacos Stalios.

German Officials Mum On Jewish Pledge Step

Berlin, June 8 (A.P.).—Government officials had no comment to make today in the action of the international Olympic committee in securing a pledge from Germany of equality for Jews in the Olympics before approving award of the 1936 games to Berlin.

"Until our representative returns from Vienna and reports exactly what happened we can not take a stand," said a spokesman for the federal sports commissioners.

WASHINGTON STATE BETTING.

Olympia, Wash., June 8 (A.P.).—Pari-mutuel betting on horse tracks was legal in Washington State today, the fifteenth State in the Union to permit it. Prospects for much racing this summer appeared small, however, because of the scarcity of tracks, horses and jockeys.

Greatest Ring Upset, Says E. J. Neil

Baer Punches Way to New Fistic Heights Before 65,000.

Baer Sensed End Of Battle.

As Schmeling, swelling about the eyes, faltered into the ropes, Baer seemed to sense that the end of the battle was near. He tore in, caught the stolid Teuton in a corner and whaled away with both hands. The gong sounded; Baer kept punching, and as Schmeling tottered a bit as he started for his corner, he waved a befuddled protest to Referee Arthur Donovan.

Too badly hurt to recover in the short minute rest between the ninth and tenth, Schmeling shuffled out for the tenth, a mark for the terrific blasts Baer loosed with a fury the ring hasn't seen since the night Dempsey battered Luis Firpo into oblivion in the Polo Grounds.

Teeth bared in a snarl, body hunched over and swaying to give momentum to each punch, the curly-thatched Californian smashed Schmeling's head with one terrific wallop after another.

Crowd Screams as German Fails.

The crowd, sensing the advent of a new punching menace to all the heavyweights, screamed as Schmeling tottered. The German's defense slowly sank, his knees bent and Baer leaned into him with one final crushing right to the jaw.

Schmeling went to the floor in a sprawl and the roaring of the crowd was so great that Referee Donovan could only read the knockdown timekeeper's lips as he tolled off the seconds.

Somehow, Schmeling, eyes glazed and sightless, arms helpless at his side, raised himself to his feet at the count of nine. Baer stormed in upon him again, his shots thudding into Schmeling's helpless body. There was only one volley, and Referee Donovan stepped between them, catching the German as he slipped down in a neutral corner, just 1 minute and 51 seconds after the start of the tenth.

Schmeling fought a courageous battle from the start, shuffling in on Baer, taking an amazing beating through the early rounds, only to thrill the crowd with a rally that started with the fourth and continued on through the seventh as Baer seemed to stop, loaf and bide his time.

The Associated Press score card gave Schmeling only three rounds, the fourth on aggressiveness, the sixth on Baer's fouls, and the seventh through Baer's temporary lack of interest in the proceedings. Baer went back to work again in the eighth and hurried on to the tenth-round conclusion.

German Sad Sight—Povich

Donovan stepped in and mercifully stopped the slaughter of the 3-to-1 favorite with Schmeling still on his feet but asking to be knocked into eternity by the sledging fists of the magnificently built clown from the Pacific Coast.

Schmeling wasn't even loaded for squirrel tonight. Scaling 189 pounds to Baer's 203, he won only three rounds of the ten, one by a shade and two even, with Baer taking five rounds by a convincing margin including the eighth and ninth that led up to the knockout.

Resorts to Barroom Dodges.

The 70,000 sat in on the dirtiest heavyweight brawl since bare knuckle days, with the clowning Baer, a splendid specimen of physical culture, resorted to all the barroom dodges that he knew. He was warned for hitting Schmeling low and he was warned for sticking his thumb in Schmeling's eye. He shoved and pushed and wrestled Schmeling about relentlessly, but he was in there taking the best that Schmeling had to offer, which was not much tonight, and he exploded the myth of Schmeling's defense by calmly walking in and pasting him with right handers that the expert knew he possessed but never figured him to land.

The dancing, jabbing Schmeling of the Sharkey and Walker fights was not the scuffling, sluggish Schmeling of tonight, who never could untrack himself against the bulling-tactics of Baer and finally to fight Baer's fight which was at close quarters with the superior weight of the Californian standing off the German's efforts to slug him from underneath.

Baer began as early as the second round to learn that he could reach Schmeling with his right, and, thus, tasting blood, he roared in with that awkward but effective rush, both mitts driving in circles that carried a blasting punch.

Little Damage Done First 8 Rounds.

He found out, too, within the first three rounds that Schmeling's vaunted left jab didn't hurt and that his own superior reach could stand the German off and he, with nothing to fear from that source, he was in there swinging until Schmeling dropped.

It wasn't the kind of a fight that had the 70,000 on their feet. With Schmeling discouraged and helpless to reach the wild-swinging Baer and Baer missing ten times to every punch landed, there was little damage through the first 8 rounds.

But with seven rounds written into the records, there was little sign of a Schmeling defeat. The waiting game that he had played against Mickey Walker was still fresh in the minds of the populace. Schmeling would cut loose starting the eighth perhaps and cut the bulling but apparently tiring Baer down and finish him up after the tenth.

Baer Wins Eighth By Big Margin.

At least that was the opinion of Jack Sharkey in the seat behind this correspondent. But the eighth round clanged and passed. And Baer won it by the widest margin of any round of the fight. He hooked a right to Schmeling's head and then another stiff right to the chin and Schmeling did not like 'em and for the first time somebody was hurt.

And then the ninth—what was this? Baer strode out of his corner, met Schmeling coming off his stool and snapped his head back with a long right. And then Baer cut loose with both flats. He crossed a right to the German's face and he crossed a left to the side of his chin. Schmeling weathered this barrage and was taking Baer's big guns without apparent distress.

The bell clanged for the end of the round. But Baer didn't hear it or he didn't care about it. He was still roughing Schmeling in a neutral corner, slapping and mauling the German, who shot one brief, appealing look to Referee Donovan and then fought back as best he could in a sheer effort to protect himself, while Baer, too, fought on for a full 15 seconds after the end of the round.

That was Baer in his true colors. A don't-care clown who didn't care how he fought or when. He scraped Schmeling dangerously low and took the referee's warning with an apologetic grin.

Schmeling was still erect at the end of the ninth, taking a beating, but by no means beaten. The famous Schmeling really was still a probability, but he must hasten if he was to win the decision.

Then came the tenth. Baer was the first off his seat and galloped in the direction of the German while Schmeling sidled off to the ropes. But Baer never hesitated in his stride and, violating every precept and tenet of the prize ring, he led with a right.

Has Long, Looping Right.

A long, looping right that invited a killing left by Schmeling, a wild overhand swing that no top-flight fighter should ever have been hit with.

Yet Schmeling took it. Took it full on the left side of his chin, almost down on his neck, Schmeling keeled, crumpled and fell. The thud of the punch resounded rows back. For a pair of seconds Schmeling lay inert. Baer had killed a man in his early days in the ring and there were ominous visions of another fatality.

Schmeling got up at nine. But the blood was on Baer's palate. The German youth who came into the ring a mulberry-brown and apparently in top physical condition was a stumbling mountain of flesh as he reeled away and attempted to cover.

But Baer would have none of that. He calmly pried away the German's guard, and standing erect against the groggy Schmeling he whistled a flurry of rights and lefts to the German's face, turning him around on the ropes and readying Schmeling for the knockout when Referee Donovan mercifully pulled him away. He pushed Schmeling to safety and raised Baer's hand in token of victory.

Paul, Injured, Delays Seaman Watson Fight

Buffalo, N. Y., June 8 (A.P.).—The 10-round bout between Tommy Paul, former N. B. A. featherweight champion, and Seaman Watson, British champion, scheduled for tomorrow night, was postponed today because of an injury suffered by Paul in a bout with Jackie Wilson in Pittsburgh last Monday.

A severe gash opened by the Pittsburgh Negro over Paul's eye has failed to heal properly and it was decided today to set the Watson-Paul bout ahead. No date for the match has yet been set.

Juniors, Boys In Title Play Tomorrow

Kenall, Boyle, Langry Choices in Junior Tourney.

ENTRIES for the District boys and junior tennis tournaments close this evening at 6 o'clock with Bill Shreve, secretary of the Washington Tennis Association, at the Tennis Shop, 1010 Fifteenth street northwest. Play will begin tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock on the Wardman Hotel courts.

A field equally as large as that of last season, if not larger, is expected to be in line by sundown. Dwight Kenall, of Devitt Prep; Wilbur Langry, of George Washington, and Kent Boyle, runner-up last year, are outstanding contenders recently registered. Boyle, just returned from New Mexico where he attended school, looms as Gilbert Hunt's leading rival for the crown.

No outstanding lads are included in the boys' group, and it looks like a good spot for a dark horse to step in and take the title. Several youths who competed last year are in again, but they did not show enough to be installed as favorites this time.

Rock Creek's position at the top of the heap in the Public Parks League will be at stake today when it opposes Monument on the Pierce Mill courts. Montrose, tied with Monument for the runner-up position, meets the fourth place Potomac team at Montrose, and Henry invades Pierce Mill for a tiff with the home team. Standing of the clubs is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.
Henry	3	1	.750	Potomac	1	3	.250
Monument	2	1	.666	Henry	1	3	.250
Montrose	2	1	.666	Pierce Mills	0	3	.000

Tomorrow's schedule for the Capital City League pits Edgewood vs. Columbians; Veterans' Administration vs. Filipinos; Wardman draws bye. Courts have not been announced.

Welsh in Net Upset In Maryland's Event

Baltimore, June 8 (A.P.).—Bernard Welsh, of Duke University, provided the feature of today's play in the Maryland State tennis tournament by eliminating Dr. John Howard, former champion and No. 3 seeded player. The score was 2—6, 6—2, 6—3.

Joining Welsh in the semifinals are Berkeley Bell, of New York, and Elliott Loughlin of the Naval Academy. Bell defeated Elmer Rudy, of Baltimore, 6—4, 6—2, and Bill Jacobs, of Baltimore, 6—1, 6—3. Loughlin eliminated John D. Ramsay, 6—3, 6—4, and Price Colvin 6—2, 6—3, both of Baltimore.

Loughlin and Welsh won their doubles match, defeating Sandy Harvey and Bobby Harvey, two Baltimore brothers of 10 and 12 years of age respectively. The score was 6—0, 6—2.

Top figures are high tide.

The above predictions give the times the water is high and low. Slack water (time of turn of current) occurs soundwhat later. In Chesapeake Bay, midchannel, between Chesapeake Beach and Annapolis, flood and ebb currents begin about 3 to 4 hours after low and high water, respectively, by the shore. At other places given in the table slack waters occur from ½ to 1½ hours after the times of low and high water.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

JUDGE EUGENE O. SYKES, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission; Representative Schuyler Otis Bland, of Virginia, and Roy T. Davis, American Minister at Panama, have been chosen by President Roosevelt to represent us at the radio conference in Mexico City beginning July 10.

Judge Sykes was doubtless selected because of the fine record he made for himself at the International Telecommunication Convention at Madrid last year. Although having had no previous diplomatic experience he came through with flying colors.

Representative Bland was appointed because he is chairman of the House radio committee. Minister Davis is included in the list because Mexico has widened the scope of the conference to include Latin America.

Laura Gregory, slim little blind girl from Richmond, who holds a world record as a stenographer, and who spoke over a transcontinental network when she arrived in San Francisco after a cross-country trip by airplane, knew she was "way up in the air" when she stepped out of the elevator in the New York studio building. She detects altitude by some sixth sense that amazed pilots all the way across the continent.

Dr. Frank N. Freeman, professor of the University of Chicago, will continue his experiment of giving an intelligence test over the air over WMAL tonight at 9 o'clock. Having explained the I. Q. test during his last program, Dr Freeman will proceed to conduct the actual test, the results of which will estimate the average intelligence of the radio listener.

A TASK well done has been that of David Lawrence, who signed off last Sunday night after having broadcast regularly each week since February 12, 1927. Surely this must be a record for continuous service, since the talks ran through the summer as well as the winter.

Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, praised Mr. Lawrence from the floor of the Senate for his "extreme accuracy and great unselfishness." He described the talks as "nonpartisan and uncolored." Senator Norris, of Nebraska, didn't exactly agree with the latter.

Regardless of that, it is a fact that Lawrence has never received any pay for his broadcasting. Mr. Lawrence was offered compensation but declined it. He has never accepted a fee for a public speech and did not see why he should do so for addressing a radio audience.

It is said that in the past two or three years Dave Lawrence has received something like 100,000 letters from his broadcasts.

He has been asked to return to the air in the fall, but as yet has not decided whether or not he will do so.

Little Jack Little's real name is John Leonard. Several years ago he wanted to shift from one vaudeville circuit to another, and it was necessary to acquire a new handle, as the circuits were then in strenuous competition. He was advised to choose a "little" name, as a help toward getting it in lights. Accepting the advice literally, he became Little Jack Little. Soon another singer, Paul Lougher, joined him and he too changed his name—to Paul Small, and the act was known as Little and Small.

Small is now singing on the new "Vanity Fair" program with Vic Young's orchestra (WRC, tonight at 8:30).

A REUNION of those who have appeared on the "Inside Story" programs with Edwin C. Hill will be staged over WJSV at 8:30 p. m.

Ethel Barrymore, who made her radio debut on this series; Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey and Jerome Kern will join Hill in the New York studios for the program. "Babe" Ruth, the first to reveal his "inside story," and Connie Mack will be heard from Philadelphia, where the Yankees and Athletics are playing today.

Amelia Earhart, George Gershwin and others may also be on hand.

A BROADCASTING crew has left Chicago by plane for Edmonton, Alberta, to meet Jimmie Mattern, round-the-world flier, at his first landing point in Canada.

The cabin plane carried Charles Lyon, announcer; two engineers and portable short-wave transmitters, with which they plan to send Mattern's voice to either WRC or WMAL as soon as his plane lands.

Miss Alice Schade, president of the German Literary Society, will speak in the "Among the Women" period over WMAL at 11 o'clock this morning. Her topic will be "Similarity of the Lives of Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Clara Wieck, the wife of Schumann."

The campaign of the Greater National Capital committee will go forward with Chester H. Harrington, of the Washington Air Derby Association. (WMAL, 6:20 p. m.)

Edward Steichen, photographer, who has had some of the most prominent stage and screen stars before his lens, will let us in on a few secrets he learned, "Photographing the Great," Steichen will recall his experiences with such stars as Deitrich and Garbo. (WMAL, 4 p. m.)

There will be a summary of the second day's developments in the National Open Golf Championship Tournament at the North Shore Country Club, at Glenview, Ill. (WJSV, 5:15; WMAL, 6:30 p. m.)

Some visitors were touring the New York studios. One of them with a self-professed great knowledge of radio, music and dramatics, observed a trombone player practicing in the corner of a studio.

"My good man," he said, "can you play the 'Andante Cantabile,' by Tschaikowsky?"

"Play it? I can't even pronounce it," the trombonist replied.

Baroness Keichi Iahimoto, leader of movements for the emancipation of women of Japan, will tell about the "Feminists in Cherry Blossom Land" in the Women's Radio Review this afternoon. The baroness, who is an ardent peace advocate and labor sympathizer, was the first woman to open a business establishment in Tokyo.

Today Means

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI."

IF June 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:50 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 3:40 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 9:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:45 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The child born on this June 9 will be inclined to demand a great deal from those about him. His attitude will be selfish and he will not be one who can give and take with those of his own age. Pride and conceit will drive him on to seek to outdo all others at anything he does.

If June 9 is the date of your birth, you quite possibly are one who never feels quite at home and at ease; this is true regardless of who you are with, be they family, friends or mere acquaintances.

Born on June 9, your best work will probably be done away from family and friends. You are too sensitive to criticism to succeed where too many eyes will be upon you. Strike out for yourself and do not let the opinions of others delay your progress and ultimate success. You can turn your abilities into any one of many fields. Most likely you will find yourself confronted with work that will bring you before the public in some way or other. This will be distasteful to you, but inevitably you will carry yourself through the ordeal and succeed. The stage, life as a public official, lecturing or teaching, one of these might well occupy your attentions. Love will play a minor part in your life; your emotions you keep well under control.

Successful people born on June 9:

Samuel Slater, cotton manufacturer.
Sylvanus Thayer, soldier.
John Howard Payne, actor and poet.

Lion Cub Is Given To Mrs. Roosevelt

Los Angeles, June 9 (A.P.).—A 2-day-old lion cub at a Los Angeles "lion farm" has streaked up the social ladder to become a member of the first family of the land.

Presented to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday as a yellowish, woolly memento of her visit to southern California, the cub purred contentedly when she petted him.

The cub will stay home, however—at least for the present. Mrs. Roosevelt couldn't envision herself playing nursemaid to a lion on an airplane en route from the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast. Anyway, she said, the proper place for a youngster is with its mother.

'PENZANCE PIRATES' IS PRESENTED AGAIN

Estelle Wentworth Company Repeats Operetta With Even Better Show.

Another battle of the century was staged last evening as the famed pirates of Penzance waged a not too serious war with the forces of law and order, when the Estelle Wentworth Opera Group under the auspices of the Community Center Department, offered the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta—with the cooperation of the weatherman.

More than 2,000 people thronged the greensward of the Sylvan Theater as Miss Wentworth's splendid organization repeated its rousing success of a month ago, giving the choral compositions of Sir Arthur Sullivan even better treatment and the ofttimes satirical lines of W. S. Gilbert a greater force.

The principal characters were played by Elliott Button, as Richard, the pirate king; Harry Crow, as Samuel, his lieutenant; J. Raymond Baine, as Frederick, the pirate apprentice; Harry E. Yeide, as Edward, the sergeant of police; Ira P. Meyer, as Maj. Gen. Stanley; Virginia Weedon, as Mabel, his youngest daughter; Mildred Sherman, as Ruth, the piratical maid of all work, and Alma Harris, Lucie Chaconas and Margaret Horn, as other important daughters of the very model of a modern major general.

The chorus of 55, including pirates, daughters and policemen, was excellent. "The Pirates of Penzance" is, perhaps, the most choral of all the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, reaching its height in the "Hail, Poetry" quatrain sung a capella.

Staged under her direction, Miss Wentworth also accompanied the entire operetta at the piano. Lighting effects were under the expert supervision of Harold Snyder.

The Sylvan Theater is an unusually delightful spot to stage the operettas, the charm of the lines and the lilt of the songs blending perfectly with the spirit of the setting. It would seem most appropriate if Miss Wentworth's most talented group could arrange to present Reginald de Koven's "Robin Hood," an operetta in which Washington has more than a passing interest, and one that appears to have been written for just such a place as the Sylvan Theater.

"The Pirates of Penzance" will, barring leaky skies, be presented again this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Glass Banking Bill Dead for Session

(Associated Press.)

Threats of a filibuster and the approaching end of this session led advocates of the Glass-Steagall bank reform bill with its deposit insurance provisions to decide yesterday that it might be better to hold up the bill until Congress meets again.

In a two-hour conference, representatives of the House and Senate failed to agree on a compromise of differences in the bills passed by the two branches. But they defeated a motion to eliminate the controverted deposit insurance provisions so the rest of the measure could be sent to the President. Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee said:

"Because of this situation, it might be better to delay a conference report until the next session. I understand that Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, is ready to filibuster if we won't adopt his amendment making the insurance effective immediately. We can't do that."

HOTEL KILLING GOES BEFORE JURY TODAY; SPECIAL POLICE HELD

Man Says Bullet Fired in Joking Tussle Pierced Wall and Woman.

A saxophone in the orchestra on the "moonlight" steamer last night poured into the wailing syncopation a threnody of new grief.

The boat had been moored in the shadow of the District Morgue before it pulled out on the nightly pleasure voyage and there it docked for the night. In the dark mortuary lay the body of Mrs. Leila Morrison, 28, betrothed of Fred Williamson, 28, first saxophonist on the "moonlight" orchestra.

Williamson, whose fiancee was shot to death in his apartment as the result of the purportedly accidental discharge of a young special policeman's pistol, elected to take his nightly trick with the orchestra rather than sit idly with the remembrances of the past 24 hours.

Shortly before noon today a coroner's jury will file into the close, little inquest room at the Morgue and listen to the recounting of events leading to the fatal shooting early yesterday of Mrs. Morrison.

Father Comes to Aid.

Elmer Holland, 25-year-old special policeman and sandlot athlete, will have to explain the purported accidental discharging of his gun which led to the woman's death and the wounding of a colored bellboy at the Franklin Park Hotel.

The young special policeman was being held on a technical murder charge last night at the Sixth Precinct. His father, a business man, has arranged for legal assistance at the coroner's probe today.

Holland, accompanied by Melvin Rock, a friend, was said to have appeared at the hotel yesterday morning intoxicated. The bellhop was forced at pistol point to take the two to the sixth floor and then accompany them to the door of Williamson's apartment.

Earlier, Holland had twice appeared at the hotel alone, police said. On the first visit, police said, he had obtained liquor at the Williamson apartment.

Bullet Pierces Wall.

Pounding on the door of the Williamson apartment on his last trip, Holland obtained no answer. Then, jokingly, he claimed to police, he brandished the weapon at the bellboy, Matthew Logan, colored. The gun went off and the bullet grazed Logan's elbow.

The missile continued through the wall of the Williamson apartment and struck Mrs. Morrison, glancing from her ear to her right breast. She died a few minutes later.

Holland and Rock had fled. Williamson called police and an ambulance. Rock also notified police and helped them search for Holland. The latter, it developed later, had made his way to nearby Maryland and had lain in the woods until morning.

Visited Estranged Wife.

Holland called at his estranged wife's house after awaking. Here he was informed of the tragedy of the night before. Holland declared he had thought that only the elevator boy was slightly injured.

Mrs. Morrison, until recently a buyer for a large Washington department store, is the mother of a 10-year-old child, reports last night indicated. She maintained an apartment separate, but adjacent to that of Williamson.

Police said that their investigation indicated Holland had consumed considerable liquor during Wednesday night. He lives at 7707 Thirteenth street northwest. As a special policeman he has acted in a watchman's capacity in Shepherd Park.

HELD IN DEATH

Bible School Gives Certificates to 90

A banquet preceded the third annual commencement exercises of the Baptist Bible School of Washington last night at the Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Rufus W. Weaver presided. Ninety certificates were presented by Dr. B. P. Robertson, president of the school.

The students receiving the certificates organized an association to be called The Student Association of the Baptist Bible School, and elected the following officers: Manuel K. Kline, president; Miss Carrie B. Sherfy, vice president; Miss Lucy L. Speiden, secretary, and A. H. Blakeslee, treasurer.

Special awards went to Frances Leone Barber, who presented a paper on "The Learning Process of Religious Education," Clyde Wilkinson Balche and Paul Sellers Robertson.

Rezoning Is Sought At Buzzards Point

A petition asking that the District Zoning Commission be directed to rezone a piece of land in the Buzzards Point industrial area was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Vincent L. Toomey, an attorney, who declared that requests for a rezoning of the property had been refused.

Mr. Toomey said that he owned land in Half street, between O and P streets southwest, which is zoned residential. He asked, first, of the commission that his property be zoned commercial, as was the adjacent lot, and second, that he be given an occupancy permit so that he could erect a gasoline and oil station. He asked the court to direct the issuance of the gasoline permit.

D. C. PAY REPORTS ON ECONOMY CUTS DRAW REPRIMANDS

Department Heads Ordered to Correct Errors in Computing Wages.

An official reprimand for errors in reports forwarded to the General Accounting Office yesteday sent District department heads scurrying to the District auditor's office to make corrections so employes under their jurisdiction can be paid June 15 and 30, as scheduled.

The Commissioners yesterday called a conference of all department heads and their executive assistants. Auditor Donovan warned that an indefinite number of District employes were in danger of not being paid because of faulty figuring on the departmental financial reports. He reminded the District officials that his office had offered to give advice in the drafting of reports, but that only about half had taken advantage of the offer.

Most of the errors occurred in reports required under the new Federal economy act which put into effect a 15 per cent salary cut April 1. Maj. Donovan said late yesterday that as a result of the hasty corrections it is likely that no District employes will go unpaid.

The department heads were also reproved for tardiness in turning in vouchers for purchases from retail establishments. As a consequence of these delays, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, said the District has lost many cash discounts.

Other delinquencies, such as failure to report efficiency ratings to the personnel officer on time, were also called to the attention of the department chiefs.

The press was unexpectedly invited to attend the conference. During the interview Dr. Reichelderfer stated that he and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby probably were singing their swan song as Commissioners.

Atwood Appointed To Library Board

Albert W. Atwood, of 65 Observatory circle, was appointed a member of the board of trustees of the Public Library yesterday by the District Commissioners after they had accepted with regret the resignation of Dr. Abram Simon.

The Commissioners, in a letter to Dr. Simon, expressed hope that he would soon recover from his illness and expressed appreciation of his long service. Dr. Simon also has announced that he would not be a candidate for reappointment to the Board of Education.

Mr. Atwood, who writes financial articles for the Saturday Evening Post, is a member of the Cosmos Club, president of the Washington Literary Society, director of the Washington Society of Fine Arts and trustee of the National Parks Association.

According to the documents filed by Joseph A. Wilmer, attorney for the plaintiffs, a truck belonging to the Mullan Contracting Co. was left standing on the Crain Highway near Waldorf, Md. Shortly after dark a truck, carrying two mules and driven by Cooksey, crashed into the back of the Mullan truck. The mules were killed and the men badly injured.

Truck Hits Rock; Driver And Passenger Injured

Two truckmen were injured yesterday when a large truck in which they were riding struck a rock on the edge of the road, causing the vehicle to crash into a telephone pole. The accident happened on the Baltimore boulevard near Berwyn, Md.

R. Cobb Hinson, 24, Greensboro, N. C., driver of the truck, lost control, he told police, when he accidentally drove off the edge of the road. He received severe lacerations of the legs. David Parker, 28, also of Greensboro, received a fracture of the right leg. Both were removed to Providence Hospital by the Bladensburg Rescue Squad.

Mulvey, Football Star At G. W. U., Wed Year

Fred Mulvey, George Washington University football star, and his wife, formerly Kathryn Platt, Emergency Hospital nurse, whose secret marriage on May 21, 1932, was revealed yesterday after Mulvey's graduation.

Marriage to Emergency Hospital Nurse in 1932 Revealed.

You girls who've had your eyes on Fred Mulvey, handsome 24-year-old George Washington University football star, can now cast your admiring eyes elsewhere because——

Well, he's married.

And not only that but he's been married for more than a year.

Fancy that! The whole time he was making feminine hearts flutter last fall with his daring antics on the gridiron he belonged to somebody else.

Who's the bride, everybody wants to know? Well, she was Kathryn Platt, a graduate nurse at Emergency Hospital. She's 24, too, and pretty.

If this were a movie scenario we'd have young Mulvey carried from the football field to Emergency Hospital, with injuries not too severe, where he would be nursed back to health by the girl he finally married.

But it didn't happen that way at all. Fred just met Kathryn at a dance or something—he didn't seem to be quite sure where when interviewed yesterday—several months before the marriage.

They were married on May 21, 1932, in Annapolis. Mrs. Mulvey's been living in Washington ever since with friends in an apartment at 2124 I street northwest. Mr. Mulvey has been living at the athletic dormitory at the university.

The football star revealed his marriage to his mother Wednesday night, a few minutes after he received his bachelor of arts degree at the commencement exercises of George Washington University. Mr. Mulvey isn't sure about his future plans. In past summers he's worked as a supervisor on District playgrounds. He may do the same thing this year. He hopes ultimately to become a coach.

Mr. Mulvey played right end for two seasons with the G. W. team and distinguished himself as a fine defensive man and an adroit receiver of forward passes.

AUDIT AND RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR CLINIC

Five Physicians Ask Court Settlement of Medical Group's Affairs.

Five physicians, who described themselves as majority partners of the Workmen's Compensation Clinic, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to cause an audit to be made of the finances of the medical clinic and to appoint a receiver pending a final accounting of its affairs.

The five named Dr. Joseph Horgan, of 1801 I street northwest and 3750 Kanawha street northwest, as the defendant. Dr. Horgan is described as the remaining partner.

Through the law firm of Fischer, Bendheim & Fischer, the five doctors, Charles Stanley White, Melville B. Fischer, Frederick R. Sanderson, Herbert H. Schoenfeld and Charles W. Hyde, charged that upon the organization of the clinic, each partner was to get one-sixth. In June there was a different arrangement entered into which gave Doctors White and Fischer 25 per cent each, Doctors Sanderson and Schoenfeld 16 per cent each, and Doctors Hyde and Horgan 9 per cent each.

Dr. Horgan, in October, 1931, complained of this arrangement, the suit alleged, and as a result ill feeling has arisen. The claim was advanced that it was impossible to operate the clinic in harmony and that the only solution was an accounting and a temporary receivership pending the outcome of the suit. The clinic treats injured persons who are subject to compensation under the District compensation laws. Many insurance companies are represented by the physicians.

Salvation Army Wants Lightweight Clothing

Lack of lightweight summer clothing has caused intense suffering among the city's needy during the recent heat wave, Brig. John G. McGee, director of the social service branch of the Salvation Army, revealed yesterday.

Brig. McGee appealed for contributions of cast-off summer clothing which can be renovated by the army. Trucks will be sent to homes to collect the clothing if a telephone call or letter is sent to the social service branch.

Model Dies

University of Maryland's Famous Terrapin to Be Embalmed.

The famous University of Maryland terrapin that posed for the molding of his image in bronze for the 1933 senior class gift, is dead, it was learned yesterday.

The terrapin died exactly two days after he pulled the royal ribbon that unveiled his effigy on the brick pedestal in front of the Ritchie Coliseum. Maryland physicians have been unable to explain the cause of death.

But the terrapin will not have lived in vain. It was decided at an informal meeting of students and professors to preserve his body for display in the trophy case in the coliseum. Here he will be pointed out in generations to come as the inspiration for the university's first permanent symbol.

SALES OF HAMILTON STOCK PASS MILLION

Subscription Committee of Proposed Bank Merger Is Near Goal.

The subscriptions for stock in the proposed new Hamilton National Bank moved over the $1,000,000 mark yesterday, it was announced after a meeting of the general subscription committee.

The exact figures were not made known; but officials of the new bank viewed the large subscriptions to confidence on the part of the depositors of the seven member banks that the bank will open about July 1.

The new bank is getting together a capital structure of $1,250,000 made up of stock of $25 per share with a par value of $20. The rest of the needed capital is expected to be subscribed in time for the opening of the bank in the early part of July.

The attainment of the $1,000,000 mark spurred to greater effort the subscription committee.

The Franklin National is still engaged in its efforts to reopen alone and its subscription committee is pushing forward with stock sales.

Sailor Loses Life Diving Into River

Harbor police were dragging the Alexandria harbor last night in an effort to recover the body of Eldridge Kruse, 26, an employe on the oil tanker Yeedol, who drowned late yesterday when he dived into the harbor to cool off.

Members of the tanker's crew were nonplussed by the man's action in suddenly diving into the harbor because he could not swim. He was seen to come up one time, and the mate dived into the water in a futile effort to rescue him.

It was reported the man had joined the crew of the tanker only last Saturday at Bayonne, N. J.

NEVILS AND HEALY DECORATED BY ITALY

Georgetown U. Educators Rewarded for Fostering Study of Nation.

By decree of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, Ambassador Augusto Rosso yesterday conferred the decorations of the Crown of Italy on Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, and Dr. Thomas H. Healy, assistant dean of the Georgetown School of Foreign Service and also professor of international law.

The presentation was made at an informal ceremony at the Italian Embassy, where the two Georgetown educators were the luncheon guests of Ambassador Rosso.

Dr. Nevils was given the rank of grand officer in the order and Dr. Healy was made a commander. The awards were conferred in recognition of their work in fostering and promoting, in particular, Italian culture and study of the Italian language.

The Georgetown president previously had been given the rank of commander of the Crown of Italy and also is a commander of the Star of Roumania and a member of the Grand Cordon of St. Sava of Jugoslavia. These decorations had been bestowed upon him by the foreign governments for advancing the international interests of education.

Dr. Healy, a native of Washington and a graduate of Georgetown College, received his seventh foreign decoration at the ceremony yesterday. He previously had been decorated by the governments of Belgium twice by Roumania and by Jugoslavia, Spain and Cuba. A second decoration from the Cuban government will be conferred upon him shortly, with rank of commander of the Order of the Red Cross.

2 NEW D. C. HEADS WILL BE NAMED BY ROOSEVELT TODAY

Choices for Commissioners, Long Delayed, to Be Sent to Senate at Last.

President Roosevelt expects to send the names of two new civilian commissioners of the District to the Senate today, it was said authoritatively last night.

Earlier in the day Postmaster General James A. Farley said the selections would be announced within 24 hours, but the Postmaster General refused to discuss names and White House officials also refused to give any forecast of the selections.

Reports in circles keenly interested in the matter, however, still placed the names of some few at the head of the list of possibilities. These included Ernest G. Walker, Malcolm S. McConihe and Melvin C. Hazen.

Others who have been strongly indorsed and mentioned as possible appointees include Joseph J. Cotter, Harry King, George Allen and upward of threescore others. To the long-standing list of candidates whose names have been published there has been added recently the name of Frederick J. Haskins.

There was a fast-flying rumor about the District Building and downtown Washington yesterday that Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, incumbent, would be reappointed, but this rumor apparently was set at rest by the declaration of Mr. Farley that two Democrats would be named to the posts. Commissioner Reichelderfer is a Republican.

The Wiedman children, Ada, 15; Barbara, 10, and Joseph, 6, attended the funeral. The two daughters were at the Wiedman home, 334 Tenth street northeast, when their father was fatally shot.

Secrecy Surrounds Trip Of Corporation Counsel

An unexplainable veil of secrecy yesterday surrounded the sudden departure of William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, for Chicago and Cincinnati, to make an investigation of findings in municipal management research. He is making the trip as a special aid to the Senate committee now studying the District government.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, also an aid of the committee, was scheduled to make the trip also, but the status of the District supply bill made it necessary for him to remain in Washington. District officials declined to discuss the trip because it was being made under direction of the Senate committee.
